Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Russian wheat bids steady at $224/mt FOB
- Ukrainian 11.5% wheat offered at $227/mt

The Black Sea wheat market moved slightly higher Aug. 4, amid steady FOB bids, mainly from Russia. Russian 12.5% buyers continued to bid at $224/mt, while offers were at $227/mt. A FOB 12.5% Vystotsk trade was heard at $235/mt for the end of September loadings. The CIF Marmara coasters market saw offers at $255/mt, but the coasters shipped out of Novorossiysk rather than the typical Azov-Don route, which remains inactive due to strikes. Meanwhile, Egypt bid $263/mt CIF, compared to sellers at $267/mt.

The Ukrainian wheat market had a 11.5% seller offering at $227/mt, with no firm bids in sight. The coasters market to Lebanon traded at $268/mt, whereas the DAP Constanta market had offers at $238/mt, compared to $228/mt bids for the 11.5%.

Elsewhere on demand, Algeria is looking to buy wheat in a tender on Aug. 5 for shipments from the second half of September to October.

The French wheat market fell on day amid growing optimism that negotiations could soon reopen the critical Strait of Hormuz shipping lane. Both CPT and FOB were down €3.75/mt on day. A French broker noted that tensions remain as palpable as ever and attacks on Black Sea port facilities have continued to intensify.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Commentary

- Australian wheat stable
- Limited old-crop trading interest reported

Australian Premium White and Australian Standard White with no protein guarantee were both unchanged day over day Aug. 4.

Several Australian trade sources said FOB market values remained weak over the weekend, and they continued to observe limited trading interest for old-crop wheat.

"It seems to be mostly APW [offered] at the moment," said a trader based in Perth.

Two trade sources based in the Philippines said feed buyers were still absent from the market as Australian feed wheat offers remained elevated, with one of the sources reporting offers between $310-320/mt CFR for October shipment.

China's appetite for Australian new-crop barley has remained soft, and new-crop barley prices have been trading at an AUD$50/mt discount against ASW, said a trade source based in South Australia. "ASW and barley were trading at par for old crop, so that really gives an idea of how much softer Chinese demand is for new-crop barley at the moment," added the same source.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- Logistics constraints make pricing difficult
- September availability exhausted, MAFF tender eyed

Platts assessed Canada Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward at $302.86/metric ton on Aug. 4, down $3.95/mt from the last session, with futures volatility and logistical constraints making values difficult to define.

The December Minneapolis Hard Red Spring wheat futures contract dropped 10.75 cents/bu to settle at 709.25 cents/bu, continuing the recent volatility seen in the futures market.

Attention was focused on the next tender from Japan's Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries, or MAFF, the government agency responsible for the country's regular wheat import tenders. An Asian trader said, "This Thursday should be MAFF day."

One trader said, "The market seems to be in a constant state of flux, with logistics making it very difficult to price and move wheat," adding that the upcoming MAFF tender should provide greater transparency on market values.

Another participant said September availability was already exhausted, adding, “We have no September availability. MAFF tenders for October will shed some light.” The tender is expected to provide a clearer indication of import demand and the market’s valuation of wheat for October shipment.

Trading activity remained subdued, with sellers waiting for clearer indications of new-crop protein and quality before becoming more active.

Corn

Platts Asia Corn Daily Commentary

- CFR Northeast Asia rises $3/mt to $275/mt
- CBOT futures gain 8.5 cents/bu on day

Asian corn prices rebounded on Aug. 4 amid firmer freight rates and offer levels.

Platts assessed feed-quality corn CFR Northeast Asia up $3/mt at $275/mt for cargoes arriving Nov. 2 to Dec. 2.

Offer levels for CFR South Korea cargoes were kept firm on the day at $277/mt and above, although no buying interest was heard.

Freight rates to Asian destinations were said to be “higher with firm demand,” with a South Korean trader noting that Brazil to South Korea rates were about $50/mt-$52/mt for September-October shipments while Argentina-South Korea freight was about $57/mt-$59/mt for the same shipment period.

US Pacific Northwest corn basis offer indications were unchanged on the day, with October shipment reported at 145 cents/bu over December (Z) CBOT.

However, CBOT corn futures rose overnight, with the September (U) contract up 8.5 cents/bu at 449.25 cents/bu, and the December (Z) contract also up 8.5 cents/bu at 472.5 cents/bu.

In Vietnam, South America-origin corn offers were reported $2/mt lower at $265/mt CFR Vietnam for September-shipment partial cargoes, and $4/mt lower day on day at $268/mt CFR for October shipments on Aug. 3.

Vietnamese buyers were still on the sidelines with no buying indications for September shipments, while October-December shipment bids were reported 10 cents/bu below offer levels, or about $4/mt below offers.

Platts Latin America Corn Daily Commentary

- Higher premium in Argentina, drop in Brazil
- Prices decrease in Latin America

The FOB Up River premiums for September loading increased amid higher bids.

In Argentina, no agreement has been reached yet, and ports remain paralyzed by the pilots’ lockout. External demand remains; however, without an agreement, the demand could shift to Brazil if the situation drags on, especially for spot demand, a broker said.

The Brazilian FOB Santos premiums for September loading decreased amid low demand.

The US dollar-to-Brazilian real exchange rate stood at 5.1429 reais/$1 as of 5:30 pm Brasilia time, up 0.84% day over day.

In Brazil's domestic market, prices were steady in the Sorriso, Rio Verde and Maringá regions.

Producers are trying to negotiate August delivery with payment in September, while buyers want corn delivered later this year because of a lack of near-term storage capacity, a buyer in Mato Grosso state said.

A cooperative said harvested corn is already stored on the ground in Mato Grosso and that the winter corn harvest has reached 30% in Goiás state.

The winter corn harvest reached 69.1% of the nationwide area as of July 31, down from 75.2% at the same time in 2024-25, according to data published by the Brazilian agricultural agency Conab on Aug. 3.

Conab said the harvest in Mato Grosso state is progressing with good productivity. In Paraná, it is advancing gradually, supported by windows of dry weather. In Mato Grosso do Sul, the harvest was interrupted in the southwest due to rain, but continued in other regions. In Goiás, drier weather is reducing grain moisture and supporting harvest progress.

Platts US Corn Daily Commentary

- US corn prices fall on rain forecast
- 90% of crop reaches silking stage now

US corn outright prices decreased Aug. 4, following declines on the Chicago Board of Trade in response to a more favorable weather forecast for the new crop.

"It's just more rain forecast that wasn't in the forecast yesterday," said a trader source, adding that weather often moves futures markets this time of year.

On Aug. 4, the CBOT September (U) future contracts settled at $4.4225/bushel, down 7 cents from the previous business day. While December (Z) lost 7 cents in the same period, closing at $4.6550/bu.

The US Department of Agriculture released its Crop Progress report Aug. 3, showing 90% of the corn crop in the silking stage, above the 87% five-year average. The report also indicated that 48% of corn was rated in good condition, 2 percentage points below the prior week. While 13% was rated excellent, unchanged from the prior week.

"New crop spreads under pressure as trade contemplates stabilizing yield potential amid an active radar and improving weather," a broker source said.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- Low Danube water levels disrupt grain transport
- New-crop prices set to rise in September

The Black Sea corn market remained stable Aug. 4, as buying interest for Ukrainian corn was limited on an FOB basis.

In the CIF market, a spread of about $10/metric ton was observed between seller and buyer. For ARAG, buying ideas were reported at $285-$290/mt for August/September loading, while the offer was at $300/mt.

The Black Sea market stayed active mainly for smaller vessels, which were the ones available at the time. Offers were received for shipments to Italian ports on coaster ships for August loading.

Meanwhile, for the new crop, trading activity was reported on an FCA and DAP basis. Buying ideas for FCA Luboml and FCA Chop in Ukraine were noted during the day. Traders said these FCA purchases were mainly intended for rail transport to European destinations through the western borders.

In addition, low Danube water levels remained a key concern for traders, particularly regarding logistics for the new crop in the Black Sea and Balkans.

"The Danube has no draft, and it is very difficult to transport there," one market trader said. "The drought is hitting barge intake hard."

"The most important flow of grain into Europe is via the Ukraine/Hungary/Poland borders," the trader added.

Traders also expect new-crop prices to rise further due to ongoing logistics problems, as the new-crop buying period is expected to begin in September. "Prices will go up because of drought and logistics problems in Ukraine," said a trader based in Romania, who added that most buyers are covered for this period and will begin new purchases in September.

Oilseeds

Platts Asia Soybean Daily Commentary

- CFR China flat price rises on higher CBOT
- US weather developments remain in focus

CFR China soybean month-one September shipment price was up $3.49/metric ton day over day at $530.67/mt Aug. 4, while basis was unchanged at 255 cents/bu over November (X) Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) futures.

Overnight, trading liquidity for both US and Brazilian soybeans was thin, following a wave of buying activity during the July 31 US trading session.

An October-shipment cargo was heard to have traded at 265 cents/bu over November (X) CBOT, on a CFR China basis, said a Chinese soybean trader.

Meanwhile, the carry spread between September and October remained at around 10 cents/bu over November (X) CBOT.

Another Chinese soybean trader noted that demand for Brazilian soybeans remained focused on new-crop shipments, adding that trading liquidity was relatively thin.

As of Aug. 4, Brazil's new-crop crush margin was calculated at 34 yuan/mt, up 19 yuan/mt week over week.

Elsewhere, Chinese market participants continued to focus on US weather in key US cropping regions as August is a critical month for crop developments.

"The recent decline in soybean prices was also largely driven by weather-related factors," said a third Chinese soybean trader.

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- Several shipments traded in Paranaguá
- CBOT futures fall on favorable Midwest rains

Platts assessed the SOYBEX FOB Santos soybean contract for September loading at $487.15/metric ton on Aug. 4, up $2.57/mt from the previous assessment.

CBOT soybean futures settled sharply lower, primarily driven by favorable Midwest weather forecasts predicting improved, timely rainfall across the US Corn Belt, coupled with pressure from a significant drop in crude oil prices, analysts said.

According to Imea, the Mato Grosso Institute of Agricultural Economics, soybean 2026-27 production costs in the state of Mato Grosso are estimated at R$4,321.32/hectare, up 3.35% from the previous season, driven mainly by higher fertilizer and soil amendment expenses, as well as a sharp increase in mechanized operation costs.

The outlook for the upcoming crop remains uncertain as weather risks add to cost pressures. Imea noted that the possibility of an El Niño event during the 2026-27 season could affect yields, raising production costs per metric ton and further tightening farmer margins. The breakeven point has increased 9.13% year over year, meaning growers will need either higher yields or stronger soybean prices to remain profitable.

While Mato Grosso harvested a record 51.56 million mt in 2025-26, Imea projects production at 48.88 million mt in 2026-27, down 5.19%, largely due to lower yield expectations.

Trading activity picked up in the Paranaguá FOB paper market, with several trades heard for both old and new-crop loadings on the day.

Brazilian FOB premiums ended the day higher, supported by renewed buying interest following the decline in CBOT soybean futures, market participants said.

The US dollar versus the Brazilian real settled at 5.1338 reais/$1 at 4:30 pm Brasilia time. Domestic soybean prices were higher in the main producing regions.

Platts US Soybeans Daily Commentary

- 88% of US soybean crop blooms, above average: USDA
- China buys 132,000 mt for 2026-27 delivery

The US soybean prices fell Aug. 4, in response to weather improvements for the new crop.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for September shipment at $477.94/metric ton, down about $5.33 from the previous assessment, and CIF New Orleans for August shipment at $472.80/mt.

The Chicago Board of Trade November (X) futures contract fell 14.50 cents to $11.7775/bu.

A trader source said that the market reacted to weather reports of "rain moving into some of the drier areas."

US Department of Agriculture data released Aug. 4 showed 88% of the US soybean crop was blooming, above the 5-year average of 84%.

Good and excellent crop conditions remained steady with the previous week, at 52% for good and 11% for excellent.

The USDA confirmed early Aug. 4 private export sales of 132,000 metric tons of soybeans for delivery to China during the 2026-27 marketing year (September-August).

The lockout, which began on Aug. 1, remains in force, and Argentine media reports pointed out that some cargoes are being redirected to Uruguay and Brazil.

The FOB Up River cargo market had no trades heard. Due to the current situation, sellers were reluctant to put price ideas, and scarce offers were seen for the shipment curve through November 2026.

As for Brazil's FOB Paranaguá, a supportive note was again observed, shadowing poor crush margins and strike in the competing-origin Argentina, sources said. Parcels traded higher for September and October dates during the session.

In the meantime, Brazil crushed 5.80 million metric tons of soybeans in May, according to the Brazilian Association of Vegetable Oil Industries (Abiove), a volume that met expectations from S&P Global Energy CERA analysts.

"While nearby crush margins remain positive, forward margins are tightening amid rising soybean prices driven by firm competition from exporters and domestic soybean meal prices at an eight-month low," the analysts said in the Global Soybean Complex Short-Term Outlook released on July 31.

The CERA analysts added that a "downside risk" to their crush forecast of 63.50 million mt for the year is possible if crush margins continue to fall.

The CBOT September (U) contract settled at $312.70/short ton, down $2.70/st.

Platts European Animal Feed Daily Commentary

- Quiet feed market at Dutch ports
- Spanish Corn traded at €235/mt

Northern Europe

Dutch soybean meal prices remained unchanged on Aug. 4 amid a subdued market, according to market participants.

Indications for Dutch September and October delivery were heard at €364/metric ton, and delivery for November and December was heard at delivery at €366/mt.

A Netherlands-based trader said many feed mills are well covered for this period, with current concerns on low levels on the Rhine River.

Southern Europe

The feed market was quiet on the day, with market participants saying there were no buyers.

During the day, a trade at €235/mt corn was heard for the August-December period. The volume was between 300-500 mt, according to a Spain-based trader.

The trader said the African Swine Fever mainly affects Catalonia and Aragon, where feed consumption has indeed fallen.

Another trader said summer normally brings lower demand because livestock eat less, but this year, high temperatures are further reducing intake. The decline is being felt across both pig and poultry farming, with Newcastle disease also contributing.

Platts US Distiller Grains DDGS Daily Commentary

- Market shows limited activity
- Wide bid-offer spreads persist amid caution

The US dried distillers grains with solubles market showed some activity Aug. 4, including Eastern October to December business and renewed Union Pacific California trade, though overall participation remained cautious amid weaker futures and uncertainty around freight.

Platts assessed CIF New Orleans dried distillers grains with solubles barges for the August shipment period at $205/short ton on Aug. 4, the Chicago DDGS truck market for the August delivery period was assessed at $183/st, and the South California rail market for the August delivery period was assessed at $225/st.

One broker reported forward domestic activity. "Some Eastern DDGS trade for Oct-Dec as well. Nice to see UP again, and looks tight," the broker said. However, the source added that falling futures had limited urgency. "Many don't seem overly eager to do much. Hurry up and wait," the broker said, adding that buyers and sellers were monitoring expected railroad freight increases and fuel costs.

The broker expects participation to increase as end users replenish supply pipelines. “They can only wait so long,” the source said, adding that activity should pick up significantly in the coming weeks. UP CA bids were described as slightly weaker on the day.

A trader said Chicago and Columbus values increased slightly in the previous session, while CIF NOLA values showed less movement because of barge freight.

“Yesterday morning, Chicago trucks moved lower, and in the afternoon, it rose again,” the trader said, adding that bid-offer spreads remained wide on all DDGS markets and no recent sales had been heard.

An Asian trader also described subdued demand. “The market has been very slow in the past week. Buyers need some time to digest the rally,” the trader said.

- Asian palm oil futures rise
- India trades 7,000-8,000 mt
- Increased inquiries for byproducts

The Asian palm oil market strengthened Aug. 4, with palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia rising as energy markets and other vegetable oil futures rebounded.

The benchmark palm oil contract for October delivery on the Bursa Malaysia commodity exchange rose 66 ringgit/mt to 4,695 ringgit/mt on Aug. 4.

The benchmark RBD Palm Olein for September delivery on the Dalian Commodity Exchange increased 21 yuan/mt to 9,299 yuan/mt on Aug. 4.

The benchmark Soybean Oil for September delivery on the Dalian Commodity Exchange soared RMB 27/mt to RMB 8,421/mt on Aug. 4.

The Indian market was active after midday with 7,000-8,000 mt traded.

The traded price was heard at $1,236-$1,240/mt in West Coast India for August shipments.

Soybean oil offers were heard at $1,280-$1,282/mt on a CFR West Coast India basis for October to December shipment.

The spread between palm oil and soybean oil was around $40/mt, and India’s buying interest remained focused on palm oil.

Platts assessed CPO CFR WC India at $1,240/mt Aug. 4 for August loading, up $10/mt from Aug. 3, while September shipment was $7.5/mt higher than August.

The Indonesian CPO market was quiet, with negotiations heard on an FOB basis but no trades reported.

The spread between Indonesian and Malaysian CPO offers was largely flat, a Singapore-based trader said.

Platts assessed CPO FOB Indonesia at $1,192.5/mt Aug. 4 for August loading, up $5/mt from Aug. 3, while September shipment was $17.5/mt higher than August.

The ask-bid spread for byproducts narrowed on increased inquiries, mainly from biofuel buyers, although no trades were heard, the Singapore-based trader said.

Platts assessed RBDPS FOB Indonesia at $1,075/mt Aug. 4 for July loading, up $12.5/mt from Aug. 3, while September shipment was $20/mt higher than August.

Platts assessed PFAD FOB Indonesia at $1,015/mt Aug. 4 for July loading, up $7.5/mt from Aug. 3, while September shipment was $20/mt higher than August.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- Argentine pilotage dispute halts vessels
- Soybean oil markets remain largely inactive
- Brazilian basis strengthens amid uncertainty

South American soybean oil markets were largely inactive Aug. 4 as Argentina’s pilotage dispute disrupted vessel movements and limited price discovery across the region, while Chicago Board of Trade soybean oil futures moved lower.

CBOT September soybean oil futures settled at 68.20 cents/lb, down 0.59 cent/lb, or 0.86%, from Aug. 3.

The pilotage stoppage began Aug. 1 after the Professional Association of River Captains and Pilots of the Merchant Marine instructed navigation professionals to stop accepting new assignments once existing commitments had been completed. The association said the measure would remain in place until legal and operational certainty was restored following the implementation of Decree 690/2026.

Market participants said vessel movements along the Paraná River remained severely disrupted, with the lack of pilotage services effectively halting normal navigation and limiting commercial activity. Traders added that the dispute could persist for several more days, with no immediate mechanism apparent for resolving the situation because the action is not related to wage negotiations.

The disruption brought the Argentine FOB soybean oil market close to a standstill as uncertainty over vessel arrivals, departures and loading schedules reduced participants' willingness to negotiate new positions. The lack of activity in Argentina also weighed on Brazil, where market sources reported limited business as traders awaited clearer regional price signals and greater certainty over Argentine export logistics.

Although crushing plants and terminals may continue operating, restrictions on ship movements constrain the ability to receive, reposition and dispatch vessels. A prolonged stoppage could therefore delay cargo schedules, increase congestion and raise demurrage costs along the Rosario Up River corridor.

Despite limited trading activity, Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed Argentine soybean oil FOB Up River for September loading at $1,192.70/mt Aug. 4, up $2.42/mt from Aug. 3.

The September Up River paper basis strengthened 70 points to minus 1,410 points against the CBOT September soybean oil futures contract.

In Brazil, Platts assessed soybean oil FOB Paranaguá for September loading at $1,199.32/mt, up $6.84/mt from the previous session.

The September Paranaguá paper basis strengthened 90 points to minus 1,380 points against CBOT September futures.

Platts also assessed soybean oil FOB Paranaguá for October loading at $1,197.55/mt, up $4.63/mt from Aug. 3.

The October Paranaguá paper basis strengthened 80 points to minus 1,350 points against the CBOT October soybean oil futures contract.

The stronger basis values more than offset the decline in futures, lifting outright FOB assessments in both origins. Brazilian September soybean oil maintained a $6.62/mt premium to the comparable Argentine assessment, while the Paranaguá basis stood 30 points stronger than the Up River basis.

Market participants said the firmer differentials reflected reduced selling interest and limited regional liquidity rather than a broad increase in transaction activity. Until navigation resumes along the Paraná River, traders said price discovery in both Argentina and Brazil is likely to remain constrained, with the duration of the pilotage dispute the main factor to watch.

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- Rapeseed oil prices rise amid crop optimism
- Sunflower oil activity thin in Ukraine disruptions
- Logistics concerns direct vegetable oil markets

European rapeseed oil prices reversed direction on Aug. 4, with the front, second and third assessed runs seeing price increases.

The front run RSO FOB Dutch Mills assessment rose €9/metric ton to €1,155/mt, while the second and third runs rose €6/mt and €4/mt, respectively. Recent reports have shown increasing confidence in larger yields from upcoming rapeseed crops, both in Europe and the Black Sea.

Sunflower oil pricing was steady, as FOB Black Sea Ukraine was assessed unchanged at $1,379/mt on Aug. 4. Activity in the market remained thin, as logistical disruption continued at Ukraine ports following repeated attacks on oil storage terminals. Availability of old-crop material remained thin on the ground, with any talk of offers far away from prices European buyers were willing to pay.

Logistics were the key concern of these vegetable oil markets in July, as feedback from Ukraine sources indicated that vessel owners were unwilling to call at larger Odesa ports and high premiums distorted the value of the FOB market.

Argentina river pilots' strike paralyzes grain export corridors

- Liquidity drops in FOB premiums markets
- Cargoes redirect to Uruguay, Brazil: reports

A strike by Argentine river pilots is disrupting grain export flows in early August, draining liquidity from the FOB Up River premiums market and clouding the shipment outlook for one of the world's largest suppliers of corn and soybean products.

The strike began Aug. 1 after the Professional Association of River Captains and Pilots of the Merchant Marine instructed navigation professionals to stop taking new assignments once they completed existing commitments. The association said the measure would remain in place until legal and operational certainty is restored following the implementation of Decree 690/2026.

The decree introduced broad changes to pilotage regulations, including tariff caps, open registration for service providers and exemptions allowing some foreign captains with local navigation experience to operate without hiring local pilots.

The association said the new regulatory framework could compromise navigation safety and expose professionals to legal liabilities. It also said it would take legal action against the decree, which it described as unconstitutional and damaging to the sector.

"The river is totally halted," an Argentina-based broker said, describing the stoppage as a "new kind of strike" that is likely to last "a couple of days more." The source ruled out the possibility of mandatory government-imposed conciliation, as the strike does not involve wage negotiations.

Local media reports indicated the disruption had spread quickly across Argentina's main export corridors, particularly along the Paraná River and the Rosario Up River hub, which handles a significant share of the country's grain exports.

At least 140 vessels were awaiting pilotage confirmations, with the backlog growing as more ships arrived, the reports indicated. The bottlenecks have already prompted some shipowners to redirect cargoes to ports in Uruguay and southern Brazil, according to the reports.

Market impact

Argentina, the world's largest soybean meal exporter, saw limited activity in the FOB Up River premiums market Aug. 3. Few spot-shipment bids and offers were reported during the session as traders moved to the sidelines to assess the duration and impact of the strike, sources said.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed FOB Up River soybean meal for September shipment at $355.38/mt Aug. 3, up 55 cents/mt from the previous day.

In Brazil, FOB Paranaguá soybean meal rose more sharply, up $2.75/mt to $365.30/mt. Market participants said tight crush margins and a potential shift in demand from Argentina to Brazil may already be supporting Brazilian prices.

S&P Global Energy CERA projects Argentina will export 29.50 million mt of soybean meal in the 2025-26 season, which runs from April to March.

In corn, export demand remains in place, but the market could become more difficult without an agreement to end the strike, a broker said. Spot demand could shift to Brazil as well if the disruption persists, the broker added.

Indeed, no agreement has been reached, and ports remain paralyzed, brokers said. The disruption has raised concerns over Argentina's export program at a critical point in the country's corn harvest.

S&P Global Energy CERA expects Argentina's 2025-26 corn production at 65 million mt, up sharply from 49 million mt in 2024-25, with corn exports at 43.4 million mt in the 2025-26 crop year, compared with 37.1 million mt in the previous season.

Platts assessed FOB Up River corn for September shipment at $211.52/mt Aug. 3, up $3.35/mt day over day. In Brazil, Platts assessed FOB Santos corn for September shipment at $225.68/mt, up $4.14/mt from the previous day.

Platts Wheat Marker hits 13-month low amid black sea disruptions, weak demand

- Wheat marker falls to 13-month low at $225.5/mt
- Black Sea attacks halt vessel calls at ports
- Egypt's July imports drop 57.6% year over year

The Platts wheat benchmark, the Milling Wheat Marker, dropped to its lowest level since June 2025, assessed at $225.5/metric ton on Aug. 4 for September loadings, as subdued FOB demand and heightened security risks in the Black Sea region weighed on prices.

The market has seen a sharp decline in vessel calls at Russian and Ukrainian ports amid intensified attacks, disrupting trade flows. This comes as the region looks to move a large harvest that began in July to global markets.

"I haven't seen any bids," one Russian-based seller, reflecting the lack of buying interest. Russian FOB bids stood at $224/mt, compared to sellers at a $3/mt premium.

"Vessels are available but don't want to call at Russia or Ukraine," a trader said, underscoring the logistical challenges.

Strikes along the Don-Azov route and the Kerch Strait have resulted in no offers or bids to one of the biggest destinations, Turkey, and wheat is being diverted from the route to deep-sea terminals. Offers appeared for 5,000 mt from the Novorossiysk port, CIF Marmara coasters, at $255/mt, but without firm bids.

Currency fluctuations on top of a fuel crisis in Russia are adding to market uncertainty. The ruble has depreciated to 80 rubles/$1 on Aug. 4, its weakest since April 2026.

"This means the export tax will be 300-400 rubles," said a second Russian seller, anticipating an increase in the tax to offset lower FOB prices, which have remained at zero for several weeks. The CPT Novorossiysk market stood at 15,000 rubles/mt. Baltic ports are providing some optionality for Russian wheat, with 12.5% protein trades at $235/mt FOB Vystotsk for end-September shipment.

Meanwhile, the Ukrainian deep-sea ports Pivdennyi, Odesa, and Chornomorsk (POC) saw no firm FOB buyers. Some activity was noted at FOB Izmail and Reni, but draft restrictions on the Danube River are limiting trade. "I'd be happy to look at POC ports, but there is no freight available," one Ukrainian seller said, adding that most business is now shifting to the Danube.

The 11.5% protein coasters traded at $265/mt to Egypt, with freight at $60/mt. Traders are also exploring opportunities on the western borders.

In July, the FOB Romania-Bulgaria (CVB) market commanded an average premium of $21.76/mt over Russian and Ukrainian wheat, driven by short-covering and tender obligations. Worries over quality persist in the CVB region, with potential feed wheat quality at 40%-50% of the total harvest, according to a local seller.

Milling wheat activity in the CVB market remains limited, with traders focusing on feed wheat priced at €10/mt and €17/mt over Matif September.

Destination markets

In Turkey, buyers say the record domestic wheat harvest means there is little immediate need for imports, except for high-protein wheat after September. Some buyers are also considering imports from the Baltics, such as Latvia and Lithuania.

Egypt remains another key destination, with 12.5% handy wheat offered at $267/mt versus $263/mt bids, and 11.5% coaster trades at $265/mt. However, Egypt's wheat imports fell sharply to 305,978 mt in July, down 33.5% month over month and 57.6% year over year, according to the shipping agency LATT Trading & Shipping. The decline was attributed to healthy stock levels, ongoing disruptions in the Black Sea, and higher freight costs.

In July, the Platts Milling Wheat Marker averaged $230.71/mt, down from $237.30/mt in June, reflecting ongoing price pressure amid challenging market conditions.

EU DATA: MY 2026-27 corn imports rise 30% on year as of Aug. 2

- Corn exports fall 43% between July 1-Aug. 2
- Corn import forecast at 20 mil mt MY 2026-27
- Corn production seen at 54.8 mil mt MY 2026-27

The EU's corn imports during marketing year 2026-27 (July-June) totaled 1.26 million metric tons as of Aug. 2, up 30% year over year, EU Crop Observatory data showed Aug. 4.

Ukraine was the largest exporter at 681,098 mt during the period, followed by the US at 483,108 mt, while the largest importers were Spain at 390,240 mt and Italy at 199,039 mt.

In MY 2025-26, the EU imported 18.5 million mt of corn, according to data.

During July 1-Aug. 2, the EU exported 50,484 mt of corn, falling 43% year over year, data showed.

Lithuania was the largest corn importer in the EU, with 31,017 mt, followed by France at 6,197 mt and Poland at 4,333 mt. Turkey stood as the largest importer at 31,217 mt, followed by the UK at 5,928 mt.

In MY 2025-26, the bloc supplied 1.87 million mt of corn.

S&P Global Energy CERA forecast the EU's corn imports at 20 million mt and exports at 2 million mt in MY 2026-27.

The European Commission's Directorate-General for Agriculture and Rural Development, in its July 30 update, estimated total corn output at 52.1 million mt in MY 2026-27, down 14% on year.

CERA EU corn production forecast is at 54.8 million mt in MY 2026-27.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed corn FOB CVB basis Constanta at $241/mt Aug. 3, unchanged day over day.

Assessment Rationale

Grains

Platts Ags EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $225.50/metric ton on Aug. 4, up 50 cents from the previous assessment. Russian 12.5% handysize wheat, assessed at $225.50/mt, was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes Ukraine 11.5% at $231.63/mt when adding July's quality normalization of $8.63/mt, to account for its lower protein content, and CVB 12.5% wheat assessed at $262.75/mt on the day. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Sept. 1 - 15.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) up 50 cents at $225.50/mt on Aug. 4, above a bid at $224/mt and above an offer at $227/mt. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Sept. 1 - 15.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) up $1/mt at $223/mt on Aug, 4, in line with increases in other wheat markets and below an offer at $227/mt. Trading activity in Ukraine remains limited due to strikes on port and export infrastructure. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Sept. 1 - 15.

Exclusions: No market data was excluded from the Aug. 4 Black Sea wheat assessments.
