Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Turkey demand slows on import ban rumors
- Russia 2026/27 output rises to 90.2 million mt

The Russian market remained stable on the day, with low buying interest. The demand for coasters to Turkey from Russia also remained slow amid local harvests and rumors of a ban on wheat imports, importers said.

The offer for the new crop for CIF Marmara 12.5% coaster vessel size dropped for the new crop and was heard at $245/metric ton for H2 July/August shipment. An importer from Turkey said, "We are not bidding now because there are import ban restrictions rumors nowadays."

In Ukraine, the market remained stable amid slow demand and the wait for the new crop.

In the CVB market, the prices continued to drop with slow demand. Traders said the old crop supply is limited, and the buyers are awaiting the new crop. However, a Romanian seller said that farmers are not selling the new crop.

Meanwhile, demand from Egypt remains stable on a CIF basis. The seller and buyer were seen at $260/mt and $255/mt, respectively, for Russian 12.5%. An importer from Egypt said, "During the summer season, demand from flour mills tends to be stronger for Russian wheat than Ukrainian wheat."

S&P Global Energy CERA revised its Russia's 2026/27 wheat production forecast higher by 3 million metric tons to 90.2 million mt, driven by good winter wheat conditions and adjusted spring trend yields. Out of the total, the winter wheat crop is pegged at 67.5 million mt while spring wheat is seen at 22.6 million mt. Cool and wet weather in some southern regions of Russia may affect quality, but the yield outlook is promising due to adequate moisture for both winter and spring wheat, a CERA analyst noted in the latest report.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Commentary

- Australian wheat prices stable
- Philippines to seek Oct-arrival feed wheat June 10

Australian wheat prices were steady on the day June 9.

In Western Australia, wheat indications have resisted further declines, though an Australian trade source said downside potential remains due to a weak Australian dollar and improving new crop sentiment.

"It's difficult to want to own current [Australian wheat] values," said the same source.

Despite the recent weakness in wheat prices at origin, strong freight as well as lagging flour sales price adjustments in response to high wheat prices earlier in the year, will likely encourage flour mills to stick to a hand-to-mouth buying pace, said a Southeast Asian flour miller. Some buyers were also likely to wait for better liquidity of new-crop shipment offers of Black Sea wheat once harvest begins in a few weeks' time.

A Philippines feed buyer will be inviting offers for the October arrival of feed wheat in an international buy tender June 10, according to a Manila-based trade source.

Feed wheat demand from Thailand is expected to remain subdued in the near term, as the industry turns its focus to the recent approval of 1 million mt of tariff-free US corn imports, said a Bangkok-based trade source.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- Canadian wheat basis premiums hold steady
- July/August capacity tightening

The Canadian wheat market remained relatively quiet on the day as futures inched downward and offers were heard rangebound.

Platts assessed Canadian Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward at $269.06/metric tons on June 9, $14.24/mt higher than June 8 as prices in July were heard pricing similar to August as July liquidity thinned.

The September (U) MIAX Hard Red Spring wheat futures contract weakened 1.75 cents/bu from June 8 to 643.25 cents/bu, continuing its downward trajectory. Basis levels were firm on the day as futures continued to weaken, with CWRS wheat cash offers for July and August heard wide at U plus 90-110 cents/bu amid a slow market due to the planting season. Tight capacity for July and August influenced the firmer end of the range.

"All over the place," a buyer commented on the offers range.

On the buyer side, bids were heard "hanging low," with buyers hoping for lower prices with the recent boost in basis.

For trade activity interest was heard shifting towards new crop, with a September trade heard from the week ended June 5 executed at U plus 80-85 cents/bu. Buyers showed

Corn

Platts Asia Corn Daily Commentary

- Asian corn prices hold steady
- South American FOBs firms amid weak CBOT

Asian corn prices held steady June 9, following the release of offers at a South Korean corn tender.

Platts assessed feed-quality corn CFR Northeast Asia stable day over day at $255/metric ton for cargoes arriving over Sept. 7-Oct. 7.

A South Korean feed milling group launched a tender for two import corn cargoes, with the lowest offers at $260.31/mt CFR for Oct. 22 arrival and $262.50/mt CFR for Oct. 30 arrival.

US Pacific Northwest corn basis indicative offers for September shipment were reported at 145 cents/bu over September (U) CBOT futures.

Overnight, the Chicago Board of Trade July (N) contract rose 1.25 cents/bu to 418.75 cents/bu, while the September (U) contract edged up 0.50 cents/bu to 427.50 cents/bu.

A Singapore-based grains broker said FOB PNW corn prices are tracking futures market trends, with no significant changes observed in the export market.

"It is pretty quiet ex-PNW," said another Singapore-based trader.

In Vietnam, a feed mill reportedly purchased South American corn cargoes for Oct/Nov arrivals at $257-$258/mt CFR, according to a Vietnam-based trader.

"Perhaps the seller has a favorable basis long, enabling sales below replacement levels," the trader said.

"South American FOBs are firming up amid weak CBOT," said a Singapore-based trader. "Replacement costs for exporters are increasing, yet demand remains strong."

Platts Latin America Corn Daily Commentary

- South American FOB corn prices rise with CBOT
- Brazilian domestic prices fall on weak demand
- Producers limit sales amid cautious trading

South American FOB corn prices increased on June 9, tracking higher Chicago Board of Trade futures.

Argentine FOB Up River premiums for July loading remained steady day over day.

The Brazilian FOB Santos premiums for August loading increased amid higher bids and a higher indicative value.

The US dollar to Brazilian real exchange rate stood at Real 5.1915/$1 as of 5:30 pm Brasilia time, down 0.08% day over day.

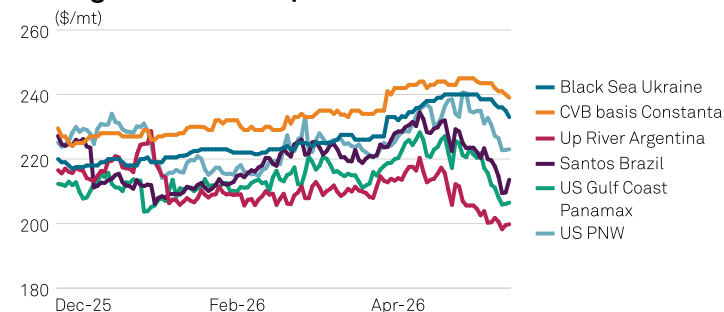

In Brazil's domestic market, prices remained steady in the Sorriso and Maringá regions, while they declined in the Rio Verde region.

"Producers' offers eased this week," a buyer based in the Rio Verde region said.

Brazil's domestic corn prices extended their losses in early June amid limited spot market demand, according to the Brazil Center for Advanced Studies on Applied Economics.

Buyers, adequately covered in the short term, are tracking the progress of the second-crop harvest and weaker international prices, which continue to pressure local prices.

Platts US Corn Daily Commentary

- USDA confirms 120,000 mt export sale
- Corn condition rated 67% good-to-excellent

US corn Platts outright prices increased on June 9, following the Chicago Board of Trade July (N) future contracts, which closed at $4.1950/bushel, gaining 0.75 cents on the day. While September (U) future contracts remained unchanged in the same period, settling at $4.2750/bu.

A broker source said that farmer offers sit well above the current market and end users continue to push bids to commercials to generate June July coverage.

On June 9, the US Department of Agriculture confirmed private exporters sales of 120,000 metric tons of corn for delivery to unknown destinations during the marketing year 2025-26 (September-August).

"We continue to have a strong export program with aggressive loadings the past week," said the broker source.

After the market closed on June 8, the USDA released the Crop Progress data, which showed the first corn condition rating of the season at 67% of the crop rated in good-to-excellent condition, unchanged from the prior week and slightly below last year's 71%. Emerging corn was reported at 86%.

USDA also reported corn planted at 97%, slightly above the 96% five-year average.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- Ukraine completes planting, targets 32.3 mil tons
- Turkey and Egypt demand remains weak on supply

The Black Sea corn market fell on June 9, with slow buying activity. In the FOB market, the competitive offer for July loading was $234/mt, down $2/mt from the previous day.

According to S&P Energy CERA, corn planting in Ukraine is completed, and CERA's Ukraine 2026-27 corn-production estimates remained unchanged at 32.3 million metric tons. The good soil moisture and favorable weather conditions so far support CERA yield projections.

In Turkey, demand for corn remained subdued, with sellers lowering their offers to Turkey. The competitive offer for CIF Marmara was heard at $253/mt for June/July loading. A feed producer from Turkey said demand for corn would reemerge in Turkey as the corn harvest would be delayed.

"Corn harvest will be delayed in Turkey because the planting was delayed due to rains, so there will be a two-month gap after the quota till to the corn harvest," the feed producer said. "Feed factories, which are close to the ports, are a little far from the main harvest areas of barley. Barley may affect the corn consumption, but won't replace 1:1, and there will be a surplus for feed-grade wheat, but it must be cheap like corn for replacing it."

Meanwhile, in Egypt, importers said that demand for corn is currently weak in the country. "There are about 1 million tons of corn already available in storage, which is putting further pressure on prices," an importer from Cairo said. "The situation is also being affected by the temporary shutdown of many poultry farms, reducing consumption and overall demand."

Platts Asia Soybean Daily Commentary

- Limited trading activity
- Bearish sentiment for soybean complex

Platts assessed CFR China soybean month-one July shipment at $486.30/metric ton, up $2.02/mt day over day June 9, while basis was up 8 cents/bushel at 210 cents/bu over July (N) Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) futures.

Overnight, Chinese demand for Brazilian soybeans was thin, with multiple Chinese soybean trade sources saying, "There is no trading liquidity."

Last night's US trading session was muted, in line with similar conditions seen on June 5, according to a China-based soybean trader.

Offer indications for the July shipment were scarce. However, the tradable value was believed to be 210 cents/bu over July (N) CBOT, according to another China-based soybean trader.

Meanwhile, the tradable value for the August shipment would remain around 224 cents/bu over July (N) CBOT.

Fundamentals for soybeans remain under pressure on good US weather conditions and the absence of Chinese demand, with an Asian grain trade source saying, "Funds are net long on positions and have yet to liquidate."

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- Santos soybean prices fall $2.57/mt to $438.65
- CBOT futures drop on US planting progress at 92%

The Brazilian FOB Paranaguá paper market was active June 9 for both old and new crop loadings, with parcels for July to September 2026 and February 2027 loadings reported traded.

Despite trading higher earlier, the July 2026 basis ended the day at levels similar to those on June 8. FOB Santos cargoes, on the other hand, were reported under pressure, with lower offer levels and tradable values at par with FOB Paranaguá levels.

Platts assessed the SOYBEX FOB Santos soybean contract for July loading at $438.65/metric ton June 9, $2.57/mt lower than the previous assessment.

CBOT soybean futures continued to trend lower, pressured by rapid US planting progress — currently at 92% complete — and favorable weather in the main US producing regions, which favors a robust harvest, analysts said.

The soybean following period in Mato Grosso, Brazil's largest soybean-producing state, officially started on June 8 and will run until Sept. 7, according to the state's Federation of Agriculture and Livestock.

The soybean following period is a mandatory interval during which soybean cultivation is prohibited to control the spread of disease. During this period, all live soybean plants must be removed from fields, roadsides, storage areas, and any locations where spontaneous growth may occur.

This measure is considered one of the main strategies to reduce the survival of the fungus that causes Asian soybean rust between growing seasons.

The soybean phytosanitary calendar for the 2026-27 crop season in Mato Grosso was published in a Joint Normative Instruction by the State Secretariat for Economic Development and the Mato Grosso Agricultural Defense Institute, which also establishes the soybean planting window, authorized between Sept. 7, 2026, and Jan. 7, 2027.

Despite an overall lower-than-average vessel line-up for June so far, Chinese crushers remained focused on covering their demand requirements for July and August shipments, according to market participants.

The US dollar versus the Brazilian real settled at Real 5.1757/$1 at 4:30 pm Brasilia time. Domestic soybean prices were mixed in the main producing regions.

Platts US Soybeans Daily Commentary

- US soybean prices drop seventh straight day
- Futures fall amid massive position liquidation
- 92% of soybeans are planted across 18 states

US soybean prices fell for the seventh consecutive business day on June 9, amid further liquidation of positions in the futures market and no US-China trade announcements, sources say.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for July shipment 73 cents down from June 8 at $445.98/metric ton. Platts assessed basis for FOB Gulf for July shipment remained steady day over day at 100 cents/bushel over the July (N) soybeans futures contract.

Platts assessed the outright price for CIF New Orleans for June shipment 74 cents down from the previous business day at $438.26/mt. Platts assessed basis for CIF New Orleans for June shipment remained unchanged day over day at 79 cents/bu over the July (N) soybeans futures contract.

CBOT July (N) futures fell 2 cents on June 9 to 1,113.75 cents/bu, also following declines in other markets despite developments in the war in the Middle East.

Sources attributed the continued decline in soybean futures to entities liquidating long positions, as has been the case over

Platts Latin America Soybean Meal Daily Commentary

- Premiums continued to rise
- Prices mixed in Latin America

Platts assessed Latin American FOB soybean meal prices mixed June 9, with FOB Santos prices falling and FOB Up River prices rising.

Argentine FOB Up River premiums for July loading climbed due to higher bids.

Trading activity was slow during the day, according to a broker.

The Brazilian FOB Paranaguá premiums for July loading continued to increase day over day.

A broker said demand for soybean meal for exports was low this week.

The Mato Grosso Federation of Agriculture and Livestock System, or Famato, reported June 6 that the soybean sanitary void began June 8 and lasts until Sept. 7. During this period, the presence of live soybean plants is prohibited in fields, along roadsides, storage areas and in any other locations where spontaneous germination may occur.

The Chicago Board of Trade July (N) contract settled at $301.10/short ton, down $1.60/st.

Northern Europe

The Netherlands soybean meal market remained unchanged on June 18 amid quiet trading.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed FOB Netherlands market at Eur357/metric ton day over day.

Southern Europe

The Spanish corn and soybean meal markets were unchanged day over day.

The corn and soybean meal offer prices were unchanged at Eur223/mt for corn and Eur355/mt for the June-July period.

The International Grain Conference (London, June 9-10) featured a soybean meal session focused on global demand driven by population growth, rising animal protein consumption, and expanding feed needs.

An expert from the Brazilian market said that Brazil forecasts a 2025-26 crop of about 180 million mt, with higher 2026 exports and crushing supported by biodiesel demand and domestic soyoil use, though EUDR may create short-term EU compliance frictions.

Argentina may gain selective opportunities if buyers shift, but its exports remain largely oriented toward Asia as sustainability rules, biofuel mandates, and tax policies increasingly shape trade flows and the market, an Argentina-based expert said.

Platts US Distiller Grains DDGS Daily Commentary

- Market faces pressure amid weak demand
- Export activity remains absent amid high output
- Prices drop as feed consumption slows seasonally

The US dried distillers grains with solubles market remained under pressure on June 9, as participants cited weak export demand, strong production, and seasonally slow feed consumption as key factors weighing on sentiment.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed CIF New Orleans dried distillers grains with solubles barges for the June shipment period at $209/short ton on June 9, the Chicago DDGS truck market for the June delivery period was assessed at $186/st, and the South California rail market for the June delivery period was assessed at $231/st.

A trader said export demand has largely disappeared. "Exports don't exist right now," the trader said, adding that elevated production and lower futures markets have increased pressure on values. "Production is high along with a board washout."

The trader noted that lower prices may be necessary to remain competitive in feed rations. "We have to price this way to keep ration space," the trader said, adding that feed demand is unlikely to improve soon. "It seems like feed demand will stay down for a month here at least."

A Mexico-based buyer said that domestic DDGS availability remained limited despite weaker market conditions. "Supply of DDGS has been scarce," the buyer said, though demand has softened compared with previous months.

A broker described a broad-based decline across feed markets. "Definitely has a softer tone out here. DDGS, soybean meal, everything," the broker said, noting that lower corn and soybean meal values have contributed to the weakness.

The broker noted that export demand remained a major uncertainty. "Still no exports to speak of," the broker said, citing the lack of significant Chinese purchases. "If China comes in... and if they don't, it could get uglier."

A second trader also cited weak international demand. "Export demand is very weak right now. Everywhere," the trader said, citing high production and freight costs, along with competition from cheaper local feed ingredients in some importing countries.

The second trader added that weak export demand is feeding back into domestic markets. "When international demand is weak, there is pressure on domestic," the second trader said. "And domestic is weak because it is summer."

The Asian palm oil market weakened June 9.

Palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia Derivatives declined, tracking lower Chinese vegetable oil and Chicago soybean oil futures, alongside a weaker energy market and a stronger Malaysian ringgit versus the US dollar.

The benchmark palm oil contract for August delivery on the Bursa Malaysia commodity exchange dropped MR48/metric ton to MR4,527/mt on June 9.

The Indian spot market was active, with two India-based sources reporting 20-25kt of palm oil traded throughout the day.

The cargoes were traded at $1,225/mt for July shipment to the west coast of India and at $1,212.50-$1,215/mt for June-July shipment to the east coast of India, according to the sources.

"The trades were executed because palm oil prices had reached the target level buyers had been waiting for," one of the sources said.

Platts assessed the CPO CFR WC India price at $1,222.50/mt on June 9 for June loading, down $10/mt from June 8, while the July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

Demand for Indonesian CPO was firmer from India, as Indonesian CPO prices were more competitive than Malaysian CPO.

"Indonesian CPO was discounted by at least $5/mt compared to Malaysian CPO," a Singapore-based trader said.

Platts assessed the CPO FOB Indonesia price at $1,185/mt on June 9 for June loading, down $2.50/mt from June 8, while the July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

Platts assessed the RBDPS FOB Indonesia price at $1,060/mt on June 9 for June loading, down $12.50/mt from June 8, while the July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

Platts assessed the PFAD FOB Indonesia price at $970/mt on June 9 for June loading, down $15/mt from June 8, while the July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- South American soybean oil prices rise modestly
- Argentine FOB basis drops 30 points in July
- Ample supply pressures export premiums

Brazilian and Argentine soybean oil FOB markets strengthened modestly on June 9, as Chicago Board of Trade soybean oil futures extended recent increases, while physical export premiums in South America remained pressured by abundant regional soybean oil availability and continued exporter competition.

CBOT July soybean oil futures rose 0.47% day over day to settle at 74.91 cents/pound. Market participants said soybean oil futures continued to stabilize following last week's sharp selloff, although broader sentiment across agricultural and energy-linked commodity markets remained cautious amid favorable US crop conditions and uncertainty surrounding export demand.

Participants continued monitoring developments in US renewable diesel demand and biofuel policy, which remained key sources of support for soybean oil futures throughout 2026. Traders said the market also remained focused on the growing divergence between policy-supported US soybean oil futures and structurally well-supplied physical soybean oil export markets in South America.

In Argentina, Platts assessed the soybean oil FOB Up River price for July loading at $1,170.88/mt on June 9, up $1.11/mt from June 8. The basis for July loading in the Up River paper market was assessed 30 points lower at minus 2,180 points to the July (N) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

In Brazil, Platts assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for July loading at $1,173.08/mt on June 9, up $3.31/mt from June 8. The basis for July loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 20 points lower at minus 2,170 points to the July (N) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Platts also assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for August loading at $1,162.06/mt on June 9, up $1.77/mt from June 8. The basis for August loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 20 points lower at minus 2,090 points to the August (Q) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Market participants said FOB soybean oil basis levels in South

America remained historically weak despite recovering from the record discounts seen earlier in June, reflecting continued elevated soybean oil supplies across the region and only moderate export demand growth.

Participants continued monitoring record soybean production and crush projections in Brazil after Conab maintained its 2025-26 soybean crop estimate at 180.13 million mt, while ABIOVE projected Brazilian soybean processing at a record 62.5 million mt in 2026.

Demand into Asia remained broadly steady but continued lagging the pace of South American supply growth. Participants said elevated freight costs and competitively priced palm oil continued to constrain delivered arbitrage opportunities for soybean oil exports into Asian destinations.

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- Spain overtakes India as top sunflower buyer
- Energy demand continues supporting rapeseed oil trade
- Processed exports challenge European crushing sector economics

European vegetable oil markets softened slightly in the rapeseed oil complex while sunflower oil remained stable, reflecting a market increasingly influenced by evolving trade flows and processing dynamics. FOB Black Sea sunflower oil held unchanged at $1,374/metric ton, while RSO FOB Dutch Mills front-month declined Eur2 to Eur1,164/mt and second position slipped Eur1 to Eur1,164/mt. Deferred rapeseed oil positions were unchanged, suggesting that the correction was limited to nearby values rather than a broader shift in sentiment.

Trade flows within the sunflower oil market continue to evolve, with Europe becoming an increasingly important destination for Ukrainian exports. According to a trader based in Ukraine, Spain became the largest buyer of Ukrainian sunflower oil during the 2025/26 season, importing 578,500 mt and overtaking India, which imported 571,500 mt. This shift highlights the growing importance of European demand in supporting Ukrainian sunflower oil exports and reinforces Europe's position as the primary premium destination for Black Sea-origin oil.

At the same time, demand from the energy sector is reshaping rapeseed market dynamics. The trader based in Ukraine noted that "growing demand for rapeseed oil from the energy sector continues to reshape regional trade flows and strengthen the role of the crushing industry." Biodiesel demand remains an important source of support for rapeseed oil markets, encouraging greater processing activity and increasing the value of downstream products relative to raw seed exports.

Ukraine's export strategy is also evolving. According to the same source, "Ukraine is steadily increasing exports of rapeseed oil and meal while reducing its reliance on raw seed exports." This transition towards higher-value processed exports could create "new competitive challenges for European crushers," particularly in regions with structural rapeseed deficits and significant processing capacity. For Europe, this suggests a gradually more competitive environment in rapeseed products, even as demand from the energy sector continues to underpin the market. The result is a vegetable oil complex where sunflower oil remains supported by strong European demand while rapeseed markets increasingly reflect changing processing and trade dynamics.

CANADIAN WHEAT WRAP: Delayed planting, futures rally drive May market

- CWRS prices surge to highest since June 2025
- Export demand remains weak amid competition
- Delayed planting limits farmer selling activity

Canadian Western Red Spring wheat prices saw significant volatility in May, surging to their highest level since June 2025 after a sharp rally in US wheat futures, before retreating as futures corrected and export demand remained weak. Basis premiums fluctuated in response to futures moves and farmer selling patterns, while planting delays and weather uncertainty supported prices amid a generally quiet physical market amid the planting season.

Platts CWRS Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver: Basis vs. Flat Price

Source: S&P Global Energy

Futures volatility drives prices

The most notable event in May was the dramatic rally in US wheat futures following the bearish May 12 release of the US Department of Agriculture's World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates report, which projected lower US wheat stocks and production for 2026-27. This triggered a surge in the MIAH Hard Red Spring wheat futures contract, boosting Platts Canadian Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward to $289.54/mt on May 12, its highest level since June 2025. The rally spurred a wave of farmers selling as price targets were hit, but also reduced price clarity in the spot market as traders reassessed values amid broader market volatility. Although automated sales on price targets were heard, overall farmer selling was limited as seeding progressed, and many growers waited for improved weather and price clarity.

As the market digested the WASDE report and futures retreated, flat prices followed suit. By mid- to late-May, prices had eased, and basis levels began to stabilize.

Low export demand

Export demand for CWRS wheat remained subdued throughout May as firm futures and higher flat prices discouraged major buyers. An international tender from Japan provided some price clarity, with Japan's Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries tender trading at lower-than-expected basis levels as exporters struggled to make sales.

Competitive pressure from other global wheat origins, particularly Black Sea and Australian wheat, continued to weigh on US and Canadian export prospects. Latin American buyers, for example, were heard shifting interest to Russian wheat amid the wide price spread between North American and European supplies.

Delayed planting slows market engagement

Cold weather and spring thaw delayed planting across much of the Canadian Prairies, running about two weeks behind normal. This kept farmers selling subdued for much of the month, with many producers focused on getting the crop in the ground rather than marketing old crop wheat. Basis levels generally held steady or appreciated during periods of futures weakness, supported by limited farmer participation and ongoing capacity constraints at ports.

By the end of May, warmer and drier weather allowed for rapid planting progress, with most market participants expecting seeding to be nearly complete by early June. The delayed start, however, provided underlying support to the basis and limited the volume of wheat offered to the market, as growers prioritized fieldwork over sales.

Indonesia to probe about 300 palm oil firms over farmgate pricing, minister says

- Ministry currently probing irregularities in palm oil exports
- Farmers allege higher prices are not being passed on
- Government tightens oversight of natural resource exports

Indonesia's agriculture minister said that the government will investigate about 300 palm oil companies for failing to pass on the benefits of higher global prices to farmers, warning firms to stop using market volatility as an excuse and to immediately raise purchase prices for oil palm fresh fruit bunches, or FFB.

The move comes as the world's biggest palm oil producer and exporter tightens oversight of its key export sector in the last month, with the setting up of a government regulator to oversee exports, as well as launching a separate investigation into 10 palm oil companies over suspected trade misinvoicing.

"There is no reason for prices not to return to normal — or even increase," Agriculture Minister Andi Amran Sulaiman said at a press conference June 8 after a meeting attended by business associations, farmer representatives, the National Police Food Task Force and the National Police's Directorate of Special Criminal Investigation.

The government will monitor around 1,900 palm oil companies nationwide and require firms to provide written commitments on pricing. A task force involving law enforcement agencies will verify violations, the minister said, adding that compliant companies would not be affected.

Indonesia's palm oil farmer groups have said that rising global crude palm oil (CPO) prices have not been reflected in fair domestic prices.

According to government data cited at the meeting, global CPO prices have risen about 47% over the past year, while exchange rate movements have added roughly 10% in gains. By contrast, domestic FFB prices have increased only around 29% to 32%, and in some regions have fallen by as much as 17%.

Farmer groups also reported persistent disparities across regions. In Banten province, growers said prices have been stuck at about Rupiah 2,500/kilogram ($0.14), with no official provincial pricing mechanism in place since 2018. In East Kalimantan, prices ranged widely from about Rupiah 2,860-3,600/kg, with an average of Rupiah 3,214/kg, reflecting uneven recovery.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed the price of CPO FOB Indonesia at $1,190/metric ton June 9, up 19.3% from June 9, 2025.

Indonesia's palm oil sector is central to global vegetable oil markets, accounting for more than half of the global palm oil supply. The commodity is used in food, cosmetics and increasingly in biofuel, making its price movements critical for importers such as India and China.

Benchmark edible oil prices have seen volatility since the war in the Middle East began, as vegetable oils are also used as feedstock for biofuel production.

Indonesia's own push to increase biodiesel blending is set to begin on July 1, when the country shifts from its current biodiesel blending mandate of 40%, or B40, to 50%, or B50.

The minister said Indonesia should leverage its dominant position to help shape global prices, including by managing export volumes. "Indonesia must control global palm oil prices," he said, adding that the country should prioritize domestic value creation through biofuel and future gasoline alternatives.

US DATA: Corn planting reaches 97% in week to June 7, above five-year average

- Kentucky, Nebraska, North Carolina planting complete
- US corn emergence reaches 86%
- US farmers intend to plant 95.3 mil acres of corn in 2026

US corn planting reached 97% in the week to June 7, ahead of both the previous year and the five-year average of 96%, the US Department of Agriculture said June 8.

Planting progress exceeded 90% in 16 of 18 major corn-producing states by the end of the week, the USDA's weekly Crop Progress report showed.

Planting was complete across key states, with Kentucky, Nebraska, and North Carolina at 100%, according to the report.

Most other major producers were near completion, with Minnesota and South Dakota at 99%, while Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, Tennessee, and Colorado reported 98% progress.

US corn emergence reached 86% as of June 7, in line with the year-ago levels and the five-year average, the report said.

Kentucky and North Carolina led at 96%, with Tennessee at 95% and Texas at 94%, according to the report.

US farmers intend to plant 95.3 million acres of corn in 2026, down 3% from 2025, the USDA said in its March 31 Prospective Plantings report.

According to S&P Global Energy CERA, US farmers are projected to plant corn across 95.7 million acres in the marketing year 2026-27 and produce 16.26 billion bushels, down 4.5% year over year.

In the World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates report released May 12, the USDA forecast US corn production at 406.29 million metric tons in MY 2026-27, down 6% year over year.

The US is expected to export 80.01 million mt of corn in MY 2026-27, down 4.5% year over year, the USDA said.

Assessment Rationale

Grains

Platts Ags EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $240.25/metric ton on June 9, unchanged from the previous assessment. Ukraine 11.5% handysize wheat, assessed at $234/mt, was normalized to the nearest 25 cents of $240.25/mt when adding May's quality normalization of $6.15/mt, to account for its lower protein content. It was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes CVB 12.5%, assessed at $241/mt, and Russian 12.5% wheat assessed at $241/mt on the day. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 7 -21.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) unchanged at $241/mt on June 9 amid low demand and below an offer at $242/mt for H2 July loading. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 7 -21.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) unchanged at $234/mt on June 9, below an offer for July at $235/mt and above a bid at $232/mt. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 7-21

Exclusions: No market data was excluded from the June 9 Black Sea wheat assessments.
