Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Russian wheat offers remain scarce in Turkey
- French wheat prices drop amid supply concerns
- France's 2026 crop shows strong protein levels

The Russian and European wheat prices remained unchanged on Sep 9.

A Russia-based trader said that no FOB Novo offers were heard during the day, while one CIF Egypt offer was reported at $325/metric ton, with no bids.

A Turkey-based trader said there were very few offers of Russian wheat in Turkey. He added that, despite Turkey's good harvest, with 10-13% of fields harvested, the country needs high-protein wheat with 10-13% protein content, which is usually imported from Russia.

The French wheat market weakened day over day, with FOB and CPT prices down €1.75/mt and €1.50/mt, respectively. A second trader based in France said buyers continued to seek alternatives to disrupted Black Sea shipments. However, the tighter supply outlook has supported North European basis levels, and any further escalation could provide additional support to prices.

Meanwhile, quality data from France's new soft-wheat crop offered a constructive signal. At least 53% of the collected 2026 soft-wheat volumes contained 11.5% protein or more, according to FranceAgriMer. France's 2026 durum-wheat harvest also recorded notably strong protein levels, with 73% of collected volumes reaching at least 14%, compared with the 2021-25 average of 64%.

A further 10% contained between 13.5% and 14% protein, compared with a five-year average of 20%. Wheat with protein content between 13% and 13.5% accounted for 9% of the crop, while 8% had less than 13%.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Commentary

- Australian old crop wheat supply tightens
- South Korea buys Canadian and US wheat
- Pakistan seeks 750,000 mt milling wheat

Australian wheat prices continued to climb Sept. 9 amid tight availability of old-crop November-shipment supply, while two South Korean tenders concluded for Canadian and US wheat.

Platts assessed Australian Premium White assessment up $1/mt day over day at $317/mt FOB Kwinana, while Australian Standard White wheat with no protein guarantee rose $2/mt to $309/mt on Sept. 9.

Several traders and exporters reported a lack of old-crop Australian wheat. "I am not hearing anything for old crop, apparently it is very expensive and hard to find, no offers even though we have been asking around," said a Singapore-based trader.

An Australian grains exporter said, "We are running very low on old crop [wheat], strong selling throughout the year."

In South Korea, two milling wheat import tenders concluded on Sept. 9, a Seoul-based trade agent said.

In the first tender for 50,000 mt of Canadian Western Red Spring No. 2 wheat (13.5% protein) with shipment over Jan. 15-Feb. 15 shipments, the buyer paid $332.27/mt for the cargo with a falling number of 280.

In the second tender for 50,000 mt of US milling wheat for Jan. 1-30 shipment, the buyer paid $273.78/mt for 23,000 mt of soft white wheat (9.0%-11% protein), $335.98/mt for 14,385 mt of hard red winter wheat (11.5% protein) and $335.52/mt for 12,615 mt of northern spring wheat (14% protein, DHV 50).

South Korean feed millers were also heard to have purchased 10,000-15,000 mt of Russian feed wheat from Far East ports through coasters in the week to Sept. 4.

A Pakistani state agency opened an import tender for 750,000 mt of milling wheat with a minimum 10% protein and a maximum 14.5% moisture for Oct. 11-30 shipment, a wheat trader said.

"Probably between Romania, Bulgaria, and maybe some smaller volumes from Australia could pencil, and Argentina, of course. October shipment is very tight though. I doubt they will get such large volumes on such short notice, or it will be very expensive," a Singapore-based grains analyst said.

Destination prices remained supported by "firm freight in recent days," according to a Vietnamese flour miller source.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- Farmer selling slows amid harvest delays
- Quality concerns meet uncovered demand

Platts assessed Canada Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward at $320.78/metric tons on Sept. 9, down $2.20/mt from the previous session, with farmer selling subdued as harvest delays and growing quality concerns kept producers from committing additional grain, while traders continued to see uncovered export demand.

The December Minneapolis Hard Red Spring wheat futures contract fell 6 cents/bushel to settle at 748 cents/bu.

One Canadian trader said farmer selling had slowed significantly after producers took advantage of higher prices during the recent rally. "They saw pretty high prices and now they've come off, and now they're more hesitant to sell," the trader said, adding that farmers were likely to remain cautious until they knew the quality of wheat coming from their fields.

Another trader similarly described farmers as "pretty dormant this week," with delayed harvest and quality uncertainty limiting fresh pricing. However, farmers had sold enough during the previous few weeks to cover some early movement, the trader said.

Demand remained present, particularly from China, according to the first trader, although some buyers remained unwilling to pay current elevated prices. The trader said there was still "a lot of uncovered demand" as export capacity filled and quality concerns increased.

Weather-related quality concerns could also redirect some demand between North American origins. "In theory, [it] should push some demand to PNW, and increase WRS demand to Latin Americas," another trader said.

Attention was also turning to next week's Japanese MAFF tender for around 120,000 mt of No. 1 CWRS 13.8% with a 330 Falling Number specification, which the trader expected could be particularly significant given the developing Canadian quality concerns.

Corn

Platts Asia Corn Daily Commentary

- Asian corn prices drop $1/mt to $295
- South Korean buyers stay out of market
- Trader estimates Vietnam Oct shipments 90% covered

Asian corn prices softened Sept. 9 amid a lack of buying interest. Platts assessed the feed-quality corn CFR Northeast Asia marker $1/metric ton lower at $295/mt for cargoes arriving Dec. 8-Jan. 7.

South Korean buyers did not open any import tenders on Sept. 9, with a local trade agent saying, "it looks like buyers still have no target and are watching the market."

However, South Korean feed millers were reported to have purchased 10,000-15,000 mt of Russian feed wheat from ports in Russia's Far East using coasters in the week ended Sept. 4, according to a Korean trader.

Vietnamese buyers were also "quiet last night," according to a Singapore trader who had offered corn. The trader also said, "October shipment, we are seeing about 90% covered."

In Vietnam, offers for South American-origin corn were reported at $288.50/mt CFR Vietnam for partial cargoes loading in October, $291/mt for November loading and $294/mt for December loading.

Platts Latin America Corn Daily Commentary

- Higher premium in Argentina amid stability in Brazil
- Winter corn harvest is almost finished in Brazil

Latin America FOB corn prices decreased on Sept. 9, following a drop in Chicago Board of Trade futures prices.

The FOB Up River premiums for October loading increased due to higher bids during the day.

The Brazilian FOB Santos premiums for October loading were unchanged. No trade was reported.

The US dollar/Brazilian real exchange rate stood at 5.1094 reais/$1 as of 5:30 pm Brasilia time, up 0.45% day over day.

In Brazil's domestic market, prices held steady in the Rio Verde and Maringá regions, while they rose 0.50 real in the Sorriso region.

A Mato Grosso-based cooperative said spot corn trading activity in the Sorriso region remained limited, as buyers, including ethanol producers, had already secured their September requirements.

"Almost no spot deals are being concluded," the cooperative said.

A similar scenario was reported in the Maringá region. A broker said buyers were seeking corn for October loading, while sellers continued to prioritize spot market sales, leading to limited trading activity.

Winter corn harvest reached 96.6% of the nationwide area as of Sept. 4, down from 98.3% in 2024-25 at the same time. Summer corn planting reached 11.0% of the nationwide area as of Sept. 4, up from 9.6% in 2025-26 at the same time, according to data published by the Brazilian agricultural agency Conab on Sept. 7.

Conab reported that heavy rains in Paraná at the beginning of the week temporarily halted harvesting operations. In Goiás, the harvest was nearly complete, with only a few late-sown areas remaining in the fields.

Platts US Corn Daily Commentary

- Outright prices, futures fall on day
- Crop conditions are mixed: USDA

The US corn market saw outright prices fall on Sept. 9, along with the Chicago Board of Trade corn futures.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed the CIF New Orleans outright price for US yellow corn No. 2 for September shipment down $3.85/metric ton from Sept. 8 at $234.95/mt.

Platts assessed the CIF New Orleans outright price for October shipment down $3.45/mt from the previous business day at $241.65/mt.

Platts assessed the basis for CIF NOLA for September down 4 cents on Sept. 9 to 69 cents/bushel, and assessed the basis for October shipment down 3 cents to 86 cents/bu, both over the December (Z) corn futures contract.

The FOB Gulf outright price for US No. 2 yellow corn for November shipment was assessed down $2.26/mt from Sept. 8 to $248.72/mt. Platts assessed the FOB Gulf basis for November shipment at 104 cents/bu over the December (Z) corn futures contract.

Chicago Board of Trade December (Z) corn futures contract fell 5.75 cents day over day to 527.75 cents/bu.

On Sept. 9, the US Department of Agriculture confirmed private sales of 182,880 mt of corn for delivery to Mexico in the 2026-27 marketing year.

The USDA's Crop Progress report was released on Sept. 8, showing that, as of Sept. 6, 42% of planted corn was in good condition, down 2% from a week prior, while the percentage in excellent condition was 14%, up 1% week over week.

About 27% of corn was reported in fair condition, 1% more week over week, while the percentages in poor and very poor conditions were unchanged from the previous week at 11% and 6%, respectively.

As of Sept. 6, about 5% of the corn planted had been harvested, up 1% week over week and up 2% from the 2021-25 average. About 25% of the corn planted in the 18 main producing states was mature.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- Ukrainian corn prices remain flat at $224/mt
- Farmers hold inventory despite weak demand

The Black Sea corn market held steady on Sept. 9, with Ukrainian corn assessed unchanged at $224/metric ton for October shipment, while the Constanta-Varna-Burgas market edged 50 cents/mt lower to $276/mt.

"We are at mid-seasonal mood and zero export via POC," one Ukrainian seller said. "All values are nominal, nothing traded via Black Sea ports."

The lack of activity comes as Ukraine's corn exports continue to flow primarily through alternative routes, with Danube shipments running at about 1 million mt per month, according to market sources. That level suggests Ukraine could reach about 12 million mt in total seasonal exports against the backdrop of continued Black Sea port closures.

In the CVB market, the October bid-offer spread remained around 30 cents per bushel over December corn futures, with sellers at 190 cents over and buyers at 160 cents over.

Market sources said farmers continued to hold corn, hoping for better prices. "Usual strategy: wait and hope for better prices later, as it cannot get much worse," one seller said, describing the approach amid weak logistics and mounting storage pressures.

However, a broker noted that even the farmers' willingness to sell has not generated activity.

"Even when farmers want to sell, demand is poor and on top logistics are very tough," the broker said.

Platts Asia Soybean Daily Commentary

- China buys more US soybeans
- China's Aug soybean imports rise 3% MOM

CFR China soybean month-one October shipment was up $4.78/metric ton day over day at $597.64/mt Sept. 9, while basis was up 7 cents/bushel at 307 cents/bu over Nov (X) Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) futures.

Overnight, Chinese soybean trade sources observed active trading in the US soybean market, though most of the trades were concentrated in the FOB market.

China state reserves were heard to have purchased up to 14 cargoes of US soybeans for December-February shipment at about 120-125 cents/bu over Jan (F) CBOT, basis FOB US, according to multiple Chinese soybean trade sources.

US December and January shipments were also heard traded at about the low 310s cents/bu basis CFR China.

Trading liquidity for Brazilian soybeans was minimal, despite a Chinese soybean trader saying "Brazil's farmer selling weekly is estimated at 2 million mt".

Elsewhere, China imported 12.14 million metric tons of soybeans in August, up 3.1% from July but down 1.1% from a year-earlier, according to preliminary data released by the General Administration of Customs Sept. 8.

China's cumulative soybean imports in January-August totaled 74.11 million mt, up 1.1% from 73.33 million mt a year-earlier, the customs data showed.

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- No trades reported in Paranaguá
- CBOT futures decline on trader positioning

Platts assessed the SOYBEX FOB Santos soybean contract for October loading at $537.40/metric ton on Sept. 9, down $3.22/mt from the previous assessment.

CBOT soybean futures are trading slightly lower today, with contracts dipping around 5 to 6 cents down to the $12.95 to $13.06 per bushel range. According to market analysts, this minor pullback is driven by traders positioning ahead of the upcoming US Department of Agriculture WASDE report.

Despite the slight daily decline, the CBOT futures continue to hover near multiyear highs, heavily supported by underlying bullish factors, including robust export demand, highlighted by flash sales of 340,000 metric tons to China, and rising crude oil prices, which bolster the biofuel sector.

According to Aprosoja-MS, the Soybean Producers Association of Mato Grosso do Sul, soybean planting in the state for the 2026-27 season will begin on Sept. 16, following the end of the state's soybean fallow period.

The association projects average yields at 52.4 bags/ha, down 13.2% from the previous season. Weather conditions will be closely monitored, with forecasts pointing to near- to above-average rainfall through November, although precipitation may be unevenly distributed across the state. Above-average temperatures could also affect soil moisture and early crop development.

Aprosoja-MS estimates 2026-27 soybean production in Mato Grosso do Sul at around 16.6 million mt, slightly below the 16.7 million mt harvested in 2025-26, reflecting the lower yield outlook.

Trading activity in the FOB-Paranaguá paper market remained slow, with no trades heard on the day.

Paranaguá FOB premiums continue to diverge from domestic soybean values. Strong interior prices and deeply negative crushing margins continued to limit crusher demand, market participants said.

Participants also reported early soybean planting in irrigated areas of western Mato Grosso and parts of western Paraná, while weather models point to favorable rainfall in central Brazil and excessive precipitation in southern regions.

The US dollar versus the Brazilian real settled at 5.1083 reais per dollar at 4:30 pm Brasilia time. Domestic soybean prices were lower in the main producing regions.

Platts US Soybeans Daily Commentary

- Outright soybean prices fall on day
- 340,000 mt confirmed sold to China

The US soybeans market saw outright prices fall on Sept. 9, amid the US Department of Agriculture confirming more purchases to China on the day and crop conditions even to the previous week.

Platts assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for October shipment down $2.48/metric ton from Sept. 8 at $525.99/mt. Platts assessed basis for FOB Gulf for September shipment remained unchanged day over day at 122 cents/bushel over the November (X) soybeans futures contract.

Platts assessed the outright price for CIF New Orleans for September shipment down $2.48/mt from the previous business day at $519/mt. Platts assessed basis for CIF NOLA for September shipment remained steady day over day at 103 cents/bu over the November (X) soybeans futures contract.

Chicago Board of Trade November (X) soybeans futures contract fell 6.75 cents day over day to 1,309.5 cents/bu.

The US Department of Agriculture confirmed on Sept. 9 private sales for 340,000 mt of soybeans for delivery to China during the 2026-2027 marketing year, and 100,000 mt for delivery to unknown destinations.

According to S&P Global Energy CERA, the amount confirmed for delivery to China during this marketing year stood at 8.631 million mt as of Sept. 9.

Platts Latin America Soybean Meal Daily Commentary

- Premiums increase on day
- Brazil sees intense trading

Platts assessed Latin America FOB soybean meal prices higher on Sept. 9 as Chicago Board of Trade futures rose.

The CBOT October (V) contract settled at $345.10/short ton, up $1.80/st.

Argentine FOB Up River premiums for October loading and the Brazilian FOB Paranaguá premiums for October loading increased during the day.

The trading activity was intense in Brazil. Trades were reported in FOB Paranaguá for loadings in October, November, January 2027 and February 2027.

S&P Global Energy CERA analysts increased the 2026-27 soybean import forecast by 500,000 metric tons to 7.5 million mt in Argentina, reflecting a positive production outlook in Paraguay, the main import origin for Argentina's crushing industry.

Argentina's 2025-26 soybean farmers' sales advanced 5 percentage points in August to reach 52% complete, lagging the five-year average of 57%, CERA data showed. Sales totaled 26.5 million mt, with the crush industry purchasing 21.9 million mt. Soybean sales have progressed gradually, as market attention remains focused on corn, according to CERA analysts.

Platts European Animal Feed Daily Commentary

- Dutch soymeal holds steady at €400/mt
- Ukrainian corn arrives at ARAG ports via Poland
- European market awaits release of USDA report

Northern Europe

The Dutch soybean meal market was unchanged amid a quiet market, market participants said.

A trader noted that the tradable value remains around €400/mt FOB Netherlands for the October loading period, despite the market being very quiet.

Another trader added that although the dollar weakened and futures fell slightly, the market remains at the same level.

A Netherlands-based grain broker said that Ukrainian corn is reaching the ARAG ports via train to Poland. Currently, the old crop is offered; new crop offers would start by early October.

Southern Europe

The Spanish corn and soybean meal were unchanged on Sep 9.

Spanish brokers and traders noted that, with the dollar depreciating and futures prices lower, offers for corn and soybean meal softened slightly, but tradable levels remain unchanged.

The first trader noted that the market is active now after the summer holidays, but buyers will be in panic mode when the USDA report comes out on Sept. 11.

Platts US Distiller Grains DDGS Daily Commentary

- Market stays quiet with low liquidity
- End users resist elevated September prices
- October bids rise amid maintenance season lull

The US dried distillers grains with solubles market remained quiet Sept. 9, with limited liquidity and elevated values continuing to discourage end user participation.

Platts assessed CIF New Orleans dried distillers grains with solubles barges for the September shipment period at $241/short ton on Sept. 9, the Chicago DDGS truck market for the September delivery period was assessed at $202/st, and the South California rail market for the September delivery period was assessed at $260/st.

Another broker pointed to a broader lack of buying interest. "I don't think we have any demand," the source said, as participants continued to resist current price levels.

In the Chicago truck market, a trader said October bids were higher. The source said maintenance season had contributed to subdued market activity, with trading remaining limited despite the approaching fall supply disruptions.

Vegetable Oils

Platts Asia Palm Oil Daily Commentary

- CPO offers easing across FOB Indonesia, CFR India market
- Palm futures fall on profit-taking, weak demand

The Asian palm oil market weakened Sept. 9, with palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia declining alongside rival vegetable oil futures, while bids and offers fell across the CFR India and FOB Indonesia markets and no trades were reported.

The benchmark palm oil contract for November delivery on Bursa Malaysia Derivatives fell 10 ringgit/mt to 4,967 ringgit/mt on Sept. 9.

The benchmark refined, bleached and deodorized palm olein contract for January delivery on the Dalian Commodity Exchange decreased 98 yuan/mt to 10,307 yuan/mt on Sept. 9.

The benchmark soybean oil contract for January delivery on the DCE declined 46 yuan/mt to 9,143 yuan/mt on Sept. 9.

The decline in futures reflected profit-taking and weak demand after prices rose in previous sessions, with buyers remaining cautious, an India-based trader said.

The Indian market remained quiet, with no trades heard, the trader said. The September-October carry for crude palm oil CFR West Coast India was unchanged from the previous session.

The FOB Indonesia market was described as very quiet. Few trades were reported during the day, with bid-offer spreads remaining wide and most market participants awaiting the next Bursa Malaysia Derivatives session, a trader said.

Platts assessed September-loading CPO CFR West Coast India at $1,282.50/mt Sept. 9, down $10/mt day over day, while the October shipment price was $15/mt higher than the September price.

Platts assessed September-loading CPO FOB Indonesia at $1,230/mt Sept. 9, down $10/mt day over day, while the October shipment price was $20/mt higher than the September price.

Platts assessed September-loading RBDPS FOB Indonesia at $1,072.50/mt Sept. 9, down $7.50/mt day over day, while the October shipment price was $25/mt higher than the September price.

Platts assessed September-loading PFAD FOB Indonesia at $1,007.50/mt Sept. 9, down $7.50/mt day over day, while the October shipment price was $25/mt higher than the September price.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- Argentine basis strengthens 20 points to minus 1,480
- Brazil maintains $15.43/mt premium over Argentina
- US soybean crop reaches 26% leaf-drop maturity

South American soybean oil FOB prices were mixed Sept. 9 as Chicago Board of Trade soybean oil futures edged lower, while export basis levels strengthened in Argentina and Brazil.

CBOT October soybean oil futures settled at 70.08 cents/pound, down 0.14 cent/lb, or 0.20%, from Sept. 8.

The modest settlement change followed the stronger Sept. 8 session, when October futures gained 1.93% despite falling to an early-morning low of 68.73 cents/lb before recovering through the trading day.

A Brazil-based soybean oil trader also pointed to the latest US crop-development data as the market moved further into September. Monday's Crop Progress report from the US Department of Agriculture's National Agricultural Statistics

Service showed 26% of the US soybean crop dropping leaves, while condition ratings remained unchanged at 58% good to excellent, the trader said.

The advancing maturity of the US crop kept attention on the approaching harvest and prospective soybean availability, while unchanged condition ratings provided little additional direction to soybean oil futures.

Against the slightly weaker futures backdrop, South American export differentials strengthened.

In Argentina, Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed soybean oil FOB Up River for October loading at $1,218.72/metric ton Sept. 9, up $1.33/mt from Sept. 8.

The October Up River paper basis strengthened 20 points to minus 1,480 points against the CBOT October soybean oil futures contract. The firmer differential more than offset the modest futures decline, lifting the Argentine outright assessment.

In Brazil, Platts assessed soybean oil FOB Paranaguá for October loading at $1,234.15/mt, down 88 cents/mt from Sept. 8.

The October Paranaguá paper basis strengthened 10 points to minus 1,410 points against CBOT October futures, cushioning the decline in the underlying futures market. Brazilian October soybean oil maintained a $15.43/mt premium to the comparable Argentine assessment, while the Paranaguá basis stood 70 points stronger than the Up River basis.

Brazil's November market also edged lower. Platts assessed soybean oil FOB Paranaguá for November loading at $1,229.52/mt, down 66 cents/mt from Sept. 8.

The November Paranaguá basis strengthened 10 points to minus 1,480 points against the CBOT December soybean oil futures contract. October maintained a $4.63/mt premium to November, while the nearby basis stood 70 points stronger than the deferred position.

The Sept. 9 session continued the recent tendency for South American export basis levels to strengthen as CBOT futures weakened. However, with the underlying futures move limited to 14 points, changes in outright FOB prices were comparatively modest.

Brazilian and Argentine physical values remained above $1,200/mt, with Brazil continuing to command a notable premium to Argentina as market participants monitored regional export demand, crush economics and developments surrounding the approaching US soybean harvest.

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- Sunflower oil falls $100/mt across three sessions
- Weak exports pressure Ukrainian seed prices
- European RSO remains comparatively well supported

Black Sea sunflower oil extended its decline on Sept. 9, with FOB Ukraine assessed $50/mt lower at $1,249/mt amid increasingly bearish market sentiment. Weak buying interest and expectations of greater new-crop availability continue to weigh on prices, with buyers showing little urgency to secure forward volumes.

Bearish pressure is also increasingly evident in Ukraine's domestic sunflower seed market. Limited export capacity for processed products has weighed on domestic prices, as Ukraine exported only 147,000 mt of sunflower oil and 110,000 mt of sunflower meal in August. With export outlets constrained, crushers have been reluctant to build large feedstock inventories and expect further pressure on sunflower seed purchase prices. Lower feedstock values could, in turn, reduce the cost base for Ukrainian crushers as the new crop becomes available.

The situation underscores the growing importance of distinguishing between physical logistics and underlying supply. Black Sea export disruptions continue to constrain the amount of oil reaching international markets and are also limiting Ukrainian crushers' ability to move processed products. With reasonably good crop prospects and weak export demand, supply is becoming more readily available domestically even as international flows remain constrained. Any meaningful improvement in export logistics could release additional volumes into the international market and further reinforce bearish pressure on sunflower oil.

European rapeseed oil remained comparatively firm. RSO FOB Dutch Mills front-month and second position were unchanged at €1,221/mt and €1,199/mt, respectively. The third position increased €4/mt to €1,191/mt, while the fourth rose €10/mt to €1,141/mt. Strength further along the curve narrowed the front-to-fourth spread to €80/mt from €90/mt, although the market remains backwardated, reflecting stronger nearby physical values.

China buys 340,000 mt of US soybeans for MY 2026-27: USDA

- China's MY 2026-27 US soybean commitments reach 8.813 mil mt
- CERA forecasts 25 mil mt of US soy exports to China in MY 2026-27

US private exporters reported sales of 340,000 metric tons of soybeans to China for delivery in marketing year 2026-27 (September-August), the US Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agricultural Service said Sept. 9.

The sale follows USDA-reported flash sales of 192,000 mt on Sept. 3, also for delivery in MY 2026-27.

Chinese purchases of US soybeans have accelerated in recent weeks, with total known commitments for MY 2026-27 reaching 8.813 million mt, according to Platts calculations, based on USDA data.

Outstanding sales of US soybeans to China for MY 2026-27 totaled 7.761 million mt as of Aug. 27, according to USDA data released Sept. 3. Additional flash sales to China reported by the USDA after Aug. 27 totaled 1.052 million mt.

Chinese purchases of US soybeans have increased since the Beijing summit in May.

Under the Busan agreement reached in October 2025, China is expected to purchase at least 25 million mt of US soybeans annually from 2026 through 2028, according to a White House fact sheet.

Current commitments for MY 2026-27 cover 35.3% of the 25 million mt annual US soybean purchase commitment, according to Platts calculations based on USDA data.

S&P Global Energy CERA expects US soybean exports to China to reach 25 million mt in MY 2026-27.

USDA forecasts total US soybean exports at 1.66 billion bushels for MY 2026-27, up 9.2% year over year. CERA projects exports slightly higher at 1.725 billion bushels, up 12.4% year over year.

As of Sept. 3, US soybeans traded at a premium to Brazilian supplies before tariffs, but the additional 10% tariff left US-origin cargoes uncompetitive for Chinese private crushers, CERA said in a Sept. 4 report.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed Mo1 SOYBEX CFR China at $597.64/mt on Sept. 9, up $4.78/mt day over day.

Platts assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans at $528.47/mt Sept. 8, up $1.29/mt day over day.

Brazil vegetable oil exports start September at strong pace

- Vegetable fats, oils exports reach 57,000 mt in first four working days
- Sept. pace could approach 300,000 mt if maintained: trader
- Brazil soybean oil FOB price rises 1.4% since Sept. 1

Brazilian vegetable fats and oils exports started in September at a strong pace, with preliminary government data showing shipments significantly above year-earlier levels, while Brazilian soybean oil FOB prices strengthened despite a decline in Chicago Board of Trade futures.

Brazil exported around 57,000 metric tons of vegetable fats and oils during the first four working days of September, according to preliminary data from the country's Foreign Trade Secretariat, or SECEX.

The average daily shipment rate was 231% higher than a year earlier and 15% above the previous reporting period, according to market calculations based on the preliminary data.

If the current pace holds steady over September's 21 working days, shipments could reach approximately 297,000 mt, compared with an earlier market expectation of around 100,000 mt, a Brazil-based trader said.

The trader cautioned that early-month shipment rates could change substantially because of vessel scheduling, delays or cancellations.

The SECEX category comprises vegetable fats and oils and is therefore broader than soybean oil alone. Market participants nevertheless monitor the data as an indicator of Brazilian soybean oil export activity.

The strong early-September shipment pace coincided with firmer Brazilian soybean oil export values.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed soybean oil FOB Paranaguá for October loading at $1,235.03/mt Sept. 8, up $16.98/mt, or 1.39%, from $1,218.05/mt Sept. 1.

The increase occurred despite CBOT October soybean oil futures declining 3.08% over the same period to 70.22 cents/lb from 72.45 cents/lb. Brazil's October FOB basis strengthened 300 points to minus 1,420 points over the period, offsetting the decline in the underlying futures market.

Argentina showed a smaller increase. FOB Up River soybean oil for October loading rose $5.95/mt, or 0.49%, to $1,217.39/mt Sept. 8 from $1,211.44/mt Sept. 1, while its basis strengthened 250 points to minus 1,500 points.

Consequently, Brazil's premium to comparable Argentine soybean oil widened to $17.64/mt Sept. 8 from $6.61/mt Sept. 1.

Brazilian November soybean oil also increased, rising $14.77/mt, or 1.22%, over the period to $1,230.18/mt.

Strong export activity could be contributing to the relative firmness of Brazilian soybean oil differentials as exporters compete with domestic biodiesel demand for available supplies, the Brazil-based trader said.

An India-based vegetable oil trader separately placed India's soybean oil vessel lineup at around 660,000 mt for September and 799,000 mt for October, although the volumes remain subject to vessel delays and cancellations.

Ukraine corn market stalls as EU warns of looming storage crisis

- Farmers hold corn, hoping prices improve
- EU warns 9 million mt faces storage shortage risk
- Demand remains thin despite seller willingness

Ukraine's corn market lacked clear direction, trade sources said Sept. 9, with one seller describing pricing conditions as "not formed well yet."

The uncertainty comes as the EU Delegation to Ukraine warned this week that the country could face a shortage of crop storage capacity by October, leaving more than 9 million metric tons of grain without adequate storage. The EU said Ukraine's overall grain exports have roughly halved compared with last year amid continued attacks on ports, shipping routes and agricultural infrastructure, with the Black Sea still handling about 90% of the country's agricultural exports.

Alternative routes through the EU's Solidarity Lanes are helping sustain exports but cannot fully replace maritime shipments, the EU said, adding that prolonged export and storage constraints could also affect global food markets given Ukraine's role as a major grain and oilseed supplier.

Asked about farmer behavior amid that backdrop of weak logistics and rising storage costs, one seller described a wait-and-hope approach. "Usual strategy: wait and hope for better prices later, as it cannot get much worse," the seller said.

A separate broker source described demand as thin, even where farmers are willing to sell. "Even when farmers want to sell, demand is poor and on top of logistics — very tough," the broker said.

The latest FOB list, shared Sept. 9, showed Ukrainian corn for Handysize loading offered at $225/mt FOB POC for September and $233/mt FOB POC for November, alongside a $285/mt FOB Gdansk offer for October loading.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed Ukraine corn FOB POC at $224/mt on Sept. 8 for Oct. 06-20 loading.

US DATA: Corn good-excellent ratings slip to 56% in week to Sep 6

- Good-excellent ratings fall in nine states, rise in three
- Corn harvest begins; 5% complete
- 96% of corn crop reaches dough stage

The US Department of Agriculture (USDA) rated 56% of the US corn crop in good to excellent condition as of Sept. 6, down from 57% a week earlier and 68% a year earlier, according to its Crop Progress report released Sept. 8.

The share rated good fell to 42% from 44% a week earlier, while the excellent rating rose to 14% from 13%. The poor to very poor rating was unchanged at 17%, compared with 9% a year earlier.

Across the 18 major corn-producing states, good-to-excellent ratings declined in nine states and improved in three.

Iowa, the largest US corn-producing state, was rated 77% good to excellent, compared with just 19% in North Dakota, where 48% of the crop was rated poor to very poor, the highest share among the major corn-producing states.

USDA also began reporting corn harvest progress for the season, with 5% of the crop across the 18 major producing states harvested as of Sept. 6, ahead of 4% a year earlier and the five-year average of 3%.

Texas led corn harvesting progress among the major producing states, with 69% of the crop harvested as of Sept. 6.

The corn crop was 96% in the dough stage across the top 18 producing states by Sept. 6, up from 92% a week earlier and above the year-ago level and the five-year average of 94%, USDA data showed.

About 76% of the US corn crop reached the dent stage as of Sept. 6, up from 62% a week earlier and ahead of both the year-ago level and the five-year average of 72%.

As of Sept. 6, 25% of the corn crop across 18 states had matured, ahead of 24% a year earlier and the five-year average of 23%, USDA data showed.

USDA lowered its marketing year 2026-27 (September-August) US corn yield forecast to 180.7 bushels/acre from 183 bu/ac in its Aug. 12 World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates report.

The agency projects MY 2026-27 corn production at 16.013 billion bushels, down 5.9% year over year, with farmers expected to harvest corn across 88.6 million acres.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed US corn CIF New Orleans at $238.80/metric ton Sept. 8, down $1.25/mt day over day.

China’s Sept. 9 imported soybean auction clears no volumes for 2nd straight week

- All 68,012.6 mt remain unsold
- Auctions sell 3.61 mil mt so far in MY 2025-26

All 68,012.56 metric tons of imported soybeans offered by China’s Sinograin at a state reserve auction Sept. 9 remained unsold, according to four China-based grain traders.

The auction offered imported soybeans from the 2022, 2024 and 2025 crop years, stored in Guangxi and Sichuan, with reserve prices set at 4,320-4,390 yuan/mt ($644-$654/mt), the traders said.

The Sept. 9 auction marked the second consecutive imported soybean auction in China to end without any sales, after all 68,012.56 mt offered at the Sept. 2 auction also remained unsold.

China has sold about 3.61 million mt, or about 72% of the 5.03 million mt offered, through 11 state reserve soybean auctions in the 2025-26 marketing year (October-September), according to auction results compiled by Platts, part of S&P Global Energy.

The reserve auctions are intended to release older soybean inventories to domestic crushers and free up storage capacity ahead of new-crop imported soybean arrivals.

Soybean inventories at major Chinese ports were estimated at nearly 9.4 million mt in early September, according to a Sept. 4 S&P Global Energy CERA report.

Platts contacted Sinograin and the National Grain Trade Center, the auction operator, to verify the auction results on Sept. 9 but did not immediately receive responses.

Platts assessed SOYBEX CFR China first month at $597.64/mt on Sept. 9, up $4.78/mt day over day.

Platts Ags EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $210/metric ton Sept. 9, unchanged from the previous assessment. Russian 12.5% handysize wheat, assessed at $210/mt, was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes Ukraine 11.5% at $211.31/mt when adding August’s quality normalization of $2.31/mt, to account for its lower protein content, and CVB 12.5% wheat assessed at $300.5/mt on the day.

The structure between the first half and the second half of October was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window of Oct. 7-21.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) unchanged at $210/mt Sept. 9, below an offer at $211/mt for October shipment. The structure between the first half and the second half of October was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window of Oct. 7-21.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) unchanged at $209/mt Sept. 9. The structure between the first half and second half of October was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window of Oct. 7-21.

Exclusions: No market data was excluded from the Sept. 9 Black Sea wheat assessments.
