Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Russian wheat demand remains slow
- Turkish imports drop as local harvest starts

The Russian market remained stable on June 8, amid slow demand.

"It doesn't look like we have active buying," a Russia-based seller said. The demand for Russian wheat coasters in Turkey was also subdued day over day amid the progressing local harvest in the country.

"Can't see a proper demand as production expectations are high," a Turkey-based importer said.

"Demand is almost dead as the local harvest has started," a second importer said.

In Ukraine, the 11.5% market dropped day over day, with sellers reducing the offers due to weak demand. In the FOB market, the competitive offer for July loading for 11.5% was at $235/metric ton.

"Buyers covered their prompt demand and are waiting for the new crop. And then we see what happens when harvest arrives," a Ukraine-based seller said.

In the CVB market, prices fell slightly amid weak demand and as buyers followed the MATIF trend. The competitive seller for 12.5% was seen at $245/mt for July loading, while the buyer was at $240/mt.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Commentary

- Australian wheat price steady
- Philippines buys Australian feed wheat

Australian wheat prices remained stable day over day June 8.

Extended losses on offshore futures markets and a weaker Australian dollar could lend some bearishness to Australian wheat prices, on top of favorable rain forecast this week, according to several Southeast Asian trade sources.

The Australian dollar was trading at 70.5 US cents at 1630 SGT (0830 GMT), down 0.36% week over week and down 2.8% from 72.5 US cents in early May 2026.

However, a regional grains broker said that the recent crude rally would likely keep prices from any drastic declines on the day.

More rain is expected across much of Australia's wheat belt in the coming week, bringing much-needed follow-up rains across Western Australia, according to precipitation forecasts by Australia's Bureau of Meteorology.

A feed buyer from the Philippines purchased 60,000 mt of Australian feed wheat for August arrival in an international buy tender closing late June 5, according to a Southeast Asian trade source. The buyer paid mid-$300s/mt CFR for a two-disport cargo.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- Wheat futures fall; CWRS holds
- Exporters short with few farmer sales

Platts assessed Canadian Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward unchanged June 8 as both futures and basis also remained unchanged in the nearby.

The July (N) MIAH Hard Red Spring wheat futures contracts held at 619.50 cents/bushel while the September (U) contract dipped, settling 1.25 cents lower at 645 cents/bu.

Overall activity remained quiet, with sellers heard short and few farmers making sales due to ongoing planting operations and weakened futures. One trader speculated that the industrywide shortage for old crop could total 1 million metric tons.

Lower flat prices supported demand according to a second trader, but no firm trades were heard executed day over day. The demand and lower futures supported basis levels, which held firm day over day.

CFR Chittagong levels were heard about $3 lower day over day for July/August shipments, tracking futures at $316-$317/metric ton, compared with $320/mt levels heard June 6.

Basis levels saw a significant boost over the previous week, as traders had expected.

Basis levels rose significantly from the previous week, as traders had expected. "I think everyone knew the market was going to overshoot and then correct," a trader said, referring to the wheat futures market rallying following the May US Department of Agriculture's World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates bearish report.

Dissipated concern over delayed planting in Canada, with farmers mostly caught up across the Prairies, also allowed for a return to normal, the trader added.

Corn

Platts Asia Corn Daily Commentary

- South Korean feed millers prepare Oct arrival corn tender
- Philippines reportedly buys August cargo in low $260s/mt

Asian corn prices fell June 8, tracking lower Chicago Board of Trade futures, while a South Korean buying group signaled intent to conclude a deal.

Platts assessed feed-quality corn CFR Northeast Asia down $1/metric ton day over day at $255/mt for cargoes arriving over Sept. 6-Oct. 6.

A South Korean feed miller group was reported by a local trade agent to be preparing to open a tender for two positions of October arrival corn June 9.

In the Philippines, a feed milling group was said to have purchased a cargo of August arrival South American corn June 5 in the low $260s/mt CFR Batangas and Bataan.

US Pacific Northwest corn basis tradable values for September shipment were reported higher at 142 cents/bu over September (U) CBOT futures amid a decline in futures.

Overnight, the Chicago Board of Trade July (N) contract was down 7 cents/bu at 417.5 cents/bu, and the September (U) contract was down 5.75 cents/bu to 427 cents/bu.

Platts Latin America Corn Daily Commentary

- South American corn prices rise with CBOT
- Argentine premiums climb on higher values
- Brazil's Mato Grosso state harvest reaches 5.85%

South American FOB corn prices increased on June 8, tracking higher Chicago Board of Trade futures.

Argentine FOB Up River premiums for July loading continued to rise amid higher indicative value.

"CBOT futures rose today, but not enough to ease port premiums," an Argentina-based broker said. "Last week's drop was too sharp."

The Brazilian FOB Santos premiums for August loading were unchanged day over day.

The US dollar to Brazilian real exchange rate stood at Real 5.1956/$1 as of 5:30 pm Brasilia time, up 0.42% day over day.

In Brazil's domestic market, prices remained steady in the Rio Verde and Maringá regions, while they declined in the Sorriso region.

A buyer based in the Sorriso region said trading was slow, with deals happening at lower prices than last week.

In Mato Grosso, Brazil's largest corn-producing state, the winter corn harvest reached 5.85% of the planted area as of June 5. In the same week in 2025, 2.66% had already been harvested in Mato Grosso, the state's Institute of Agricultural Economics reported on June 5.

at $4.1875/bu, increasing 1.25 cents during the session, while September (U) closed at $4.2750, gaining 0.50 cent in the same period.

During the business day, sources reported a quiet market with a steady value basis for CIF and FOB compared with the previous session.

"Quiet day in CIF," said a trader source.

"Very steady," said another trader source from the FOB market.

A logistics source said there is very little downside price risk left in corn after last week's price tumble.

"Corn exports are still strong — except for the odd low shipment week — ethanol demand for corn is still good," said the logistics source.

On June 8, the US Department of Agriculture confirmed a private export sale of 103,000 metric tons of corn for delivery to Japan. Of the total, 40,000 mt is for delivery during the marketing year 2025-26 (September-August), and 63,000 mt is for delivery during MY 2026-27.

US yellow corn inspected for export totaled 1.805 million mt in the week ended June 4, up 5.7% from the previous week, and cumulative inspections at 2,512 million bushels, the USDA weekly Federal Grain Inspection Service report showed June 8.

The values report was slightly above S&P Global Energy CERA's projection.

Platts assessed on June 8 the outright price for June shipments to New Orleans in the incoterm CIF at $195.20/mt and for July shipments at $198.35/mt. Platts assessed FOB Gulf for August at $206.10/mt.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- Black Sea corn prices fall on weak demand
- Ukrainian sellers lower offers as buyers are scarce

The Black Sea corn market fell on June 8, amid weak demand. Sellers in the market were seen dropping their offers due to slow demand. In the FOB market, the competitive offer for July loading was $236/metric ton, down $1/mt from last week.

In the destination market in Turkey, importers said demand for corn is subdued due to competitive pricing of other feed grains. Traders also noted that the corn import quota, valid until July 31, might not be fully utilized due to weak demand.

"The consumption of corn came down, and most of the feed producers will change the ratios to feed wheat as the harvest started," a Turkey-based importer said. "There is also the cost of finance, which is high; it doesn't mean that the quota has to be fulfilled."

Amid weak demand from Turkey, Europe remained the main destination for Ukrainian corn, traders said.

"The market is lacking demand, so sellers are coming down," a Ukraine-based broker said.

Meanwhile, sellers from Ukraine said the drop in the Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) is also influencing buyers in Europe. "There are no firm buyers," a Ukraine-based seller said. "Chicago (CBOT) is the one to blame. All buyers follow that when it's red."

In the CVB market, traders said that liquidity remained low for July loading. Only a limited number of sellers were present in the market for June loading, as the old-crop supply stayed tight. However, slow demand gave the market a bearish tone.

- Market quiet overnight
- CBOT futures could extend downtrend

CFR China soybean month-one July shipment was down $3.49/metric ton day over day at $484.28/mt June 8, while basis was up 2 cents/bushel at 202 cents/bu over July (N) Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) futures.

Overnight, trading liquidity was thin for CFR China physical with limited old crop offers during the US trading session.

The bid-offer gap for nearby shipments was about 10 cents/bu, with the highest indicative bid for August heard at 218 cents/bu over July (N) CBOT, basis CFR China.

The tradable value for August would remain in the 220s cents/bu over July (N) CBOT, according to an Asian grain trader.

The weekly soybean crushing rate remained at about 2.4 million mt, largely unchanged week over week, according to a Chinese soybean trader.

The ramp-up in crush volumes has been slower than expected as soybeans have moved into storage rather than being crushed,

CBOT soybean futures may remain under pressure in the near term, as fund liquidation could continue ahead of the June USDA report, according to another Chinese soybean trader.

"There is still a possibility of an adjustment in the US soybeans planted area. However, the downside of the CBOT futures could be limited," the same trader said. "Market direction will depend on weather developments and potential Chinese demand, with a lack of fresh drivers likely to keep CBOT prices rangebound."

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- FOB soybean Brazil shows limited trading activity
- CBOT futures decline on favorable US crop prospects

Brazilian soybean FOB prices started the week at a weaker tone on June 8, as favorable weather in the US Midwest pressured the futures market and Brazilian FOB premiums for nearby loadings remained stable.

The SOYBEX FOB Santos soybean price for July loading ended the day at $441.22/metric ton on June 8, a $2.11/mt drop from the end of the previous week.

Market analysts reported that the lower US prices were driven by favorable Midwest weather and rapid planting progress, signaling a possible strong US harvest, as well as spillover pressure from falling soybean meal prices.

The Mato Grosso Institute of Agricultural Economics, or Imea, has maintained its estimates for area, yield, and production of the 2026-27 soybean crop in Mato Grosso, Brazil's largest soybean-producing state, as there have been no significant changes in the fundamentals supporting the projections released at the start of the season.

Planted area is still forecast at 13.05 million hectares, yield at 62.44 bags per hectare, and production at 48.88 million tons. This would represent a 5.1% decline from the 2025-26 crop, when output reached 51.5 million mt and set a record for the state.

Although the estimates have been maintained, the scenario still requires attention. Production costs remained high, especially due to rising fertilizer prices. By April, about three-fifths of the inputs needed for the 2026-27 crop had been purchased.

With tight margins, weak prices, elevated costs, and tighter credit, farmers are likely to stay cautious, slowing area expansion and possibly cutting back on input usage, Imea said.

There was thin trading activity in the FOB Paranaguá paper market, with only a trade for FOB Paranaguá paper market traded at 80 cents/bushel to CBOT July futures.

According to market participants, China booked more than 30 soybean cargoes from Brazil in the prior week, with port inventories reaching 8.5 million mt, the highest levels since October 2025.

The US dollar kept rising against the Brazilian real, settling at Real 5.1956/$1 at 5:30 pm Brasilia time. Domestic soybean prices were lower in the main producing regions.

- Outright prices decline for sixth straight day
- Lack of summer export program affects market: sources

The US soybeans market saw outright prices fall for the sixth consecutive business day June 8, with the CIF New Orleans basis and futures pressured amid the lack of US-China trade news and low demand reported by sources.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for July shipment down $2.11/metric ton from June 5 at $446.71/mt. Platts assessed the basis for FOB Gulf for July shipment steady day over day at 100 cents/bushel over the July (N) soybeans futures contract.

Platts assessed the outright price for CIF NOLA for June shipment down $3.21/mt from the previous business day at $439/mt. Platts assessed the basis for CIF NOLA for June shipment down 3 cents day over day to 79 cents/bu over the July (N) soybeans futures contract.

The CBOT July (N) futures contract was also pressured, falling 5.75 cents June 8 to 1,115.75 cents/bu.

Sources in the CIF NOLA market attributed the decrease in basis to the lack of concrete news related to US-China soybean trade and bearish export demand reported. However, US crushing margins remained strong due to biofuels, they said.

“The longer we go with no defined China business, the lower we will go on the board and basis,” a trader said. “There just isn’t enough of a summer [export] program.”

Another trader said domestic basis, in rail and truck soybean markets used for crushing, “is a little firm, but CIF is very weak for corn and soybeans, adding that crush margins “are still extremely good and will have to remain so to meet the Renewable Volume Obligation.”

The US Department of Agriculture published its Grains Inspected and/or Weighed for Export weekly report June 8, showing that 398,186 mt of soybeans were inspected during the week ended June 4.

The amount is 106,923 mt less than the previous week and 160,724 mt less than the same week of 2025.

Of the total, 118,598 mt went to Egypt, 68,379 mt went to China, and 63,603 mt went to Mexico.

In the morning of June 8, the USDA also reported the sale of 264,000 mt of soybeans for delivery to unknown destinations during the 2026-27 marketing year.

The World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates monthly report is expected to be published by the Department June 11.

Platts Latin America Soybean Meal Daily Commentary

- Argentina FOB corn premiums rise on demand
- Argentine soybean harvest reaches 91.7% done
- CBOT July contract falls $5.80 to $302.70

Latin America FOB corn prices fell on June 8, tracking Chicago Board of Trade futures.

Argentine FOB Up River premiums for July loading rose amid higher bids.

According to a broker, Argentina experienced heavy rainfall over the weekend. Farmer sales remained slow, and truck arrivals at the port were also sluggish. Despite this, FOB demand was beginning to rise.

The Buenos Aires Grain Exchange reported on June 4 that the 2025-26 soybean harvest in Argentina reached 91.7% as of June 3, up 7.0% from the previous week and 11% higher than the previous season at the same time.

BAGE reported that harvesting activities are concentrated in the southern part of the agricultural area, where yields are below average, and operations remain delayed. In contrast, in the northern part of the agricultural area, results remained above the average for the past five seasons.

The Brazilian FOB Paranaguá premiums for July loading increased day over day. A broker said trading interest in Brazil was low.

The CBOT July (N) contract settled at $302.70/short ton, down $5.80/st.

Platts European Animal Feed Daily Commentary

- Dutch soybean meal market falls to $400-$403/mt
- South American exports pressure soybean meal prices
- Spanish corn rises to Eur223/mt on stronger dollar

Northern Europe

The Dutch soybean meal market was quiet on June 8, with the market falling amid a CBOT rally, traders and brokers said.

The feed mills and brokers’ price list shows that the July soybean meal price FOB the Netherlands is in the $400-$403/metric ton range.

According to the Platts Analytics report published on June 5, the soybean meal market is expected to remain under pressure as South American exports increase, which is weighing on prices. US soybean meal production is also expected to rise, supported by stronger crush expectations.

Demand remained mixed, with China's hog-sector overcapacity limiting soy meal consumption, while the Philippines could provide some upside as swine repopulation supports feed demand.

Southern Europe

The Spanish corn market experienced a slight price rise, driven by a stronger dollar, traders reported.

"As of last Friday, offers were at Eur222/mt, but today, with the dollar's strength, restocking prices have increased, pushing offers to Eur223/mt," a broker said.

An Italy-based broker said that the situation in Italy mirrors that in Spain, with very weak demand.

The broker noted that this is seasonal and that Italian feed buyers are not switching from corn to barley, as in Spain.

Platts US Distiller Grains DDGS Daily Commentary

- Weak demand pressures market
- Summer slowdown weighs on sentiment
- Lower values are expected in forward months

The US dried distillers grains with solubles market remained quiet on June 8, with participants continuing to expect lower values later this summer, though some believe any substantial adjustment is still several weeks off.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed CIF New Orleans dried distillers grains with solubles barges for the June shipment period at $209/short ton on June 8, the Chicago DDGS truck market for the June delivery period was assessed at $186/st, and the South California rail market for the June delivery period was assessed at $231/st.

A broker said seasonal demand has already softened, but feed formulations are largely set for the near term. "Demand is lowered already," the broker said. "It will take a while to get a good enough relative value to oust some other products."

Additionally, the broker noted that feed decisions for June have largely been finalized. "It won't come any earlier than July."

A second broker described the market as subdued. "Quiet overall," the second broker said, while agreeing that freight costs remained elevated and that demand had not been sufficient to support higher price levels. "Overall demand wasn't there at those higher values."

The second broker noted that broader market dynamics have been unusual this year, with freight and fertilizer costs, geopolitical uncertainty, and pockets of tight supply clashing with softer pricing trends. "Demand's a problem," the second broker said, while also pointing to investment fund liquidation as a contributor to recent weakness.

Despite the softer tone, the second broker believes the market could rebound once selling pressure subsides. "It'll get overdone here," the broker said. "And [it'll] have a boomerang day."

A trader also agreed that the market was unchanged day over day.

Platts Asia Palm Oil Daily Commentary

- Asian palm oil market mixed
- US dollar strength lifts BMD futures prices
- India buying awaits wider soybean premium

The Asian palm oil market was mixed June 8, with palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia Derivatives rising amid a strengthening US dollar, but declines in rival oil futures and the energy market limited gains. While the BMD finished higher, it effectively was a drop when converted to US dollars.

"The futures market lacked direction, as it remained volatile across related markets due to swings in the energy market," a Singapore-based trader said.

The benchmark palm oil contract for August delivery on the Bursa Malaysia commodity exchange rose MR19/metric ton to MR4,573/mt June 8.

The Indian market remained sluggish. Although the ask-bid spread narrowed, no trades were heard as the gap between soybean oil and palm oil prices was still tight to prompt buying.

"Soybean oil is currently priced with a $20-$30/mt premium over palm oil. The premium needs to exceed $50/mt for buyers to shift to palm oil. Only India has shown higher buying interest in palm oil," an India-based trader said.

Platts assessed CPO CFR WC India at $1,232.50/mt June 8 for June loading, up $2.50/mt from June 5, while July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

Platts assessed CPO FOB Indonesia at $1,187.50/mt June 8 for June loading, up $5/mt from June 5, while July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

Platts assessed the RBDPS FOB Indonesia at $1,072.50/mt June 8 for June loading, down $5/mt from June 5, while July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

"The demand for PFAD is expected to pick up soon, as prices are reaching buyers' favorable range," another Singapore-based trader said.

Platts assessed the PFAD FOB Indonesia price at $985/mt June 8 for June loading, down $7.50/mt from June 5, while July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- CBOT soybean oil futures rise 0.59% to 74.56 cents/lb
- Argentine FOB Up River climbs $9.70 to $1,169.77/mt
- Brazil's record 180.13 million mt crop pressures basis

Brazilian and Argentine soybean oil FOB markets were mixed on June 8, as Chicago Board of Trade soybean oil futures recovered modestly following last week's sharp selloff, while South American export premiums remained pressured by abundant regional supply and continued exporter competition.

CBOT July soybean oil futures rose 0.59% day over day to settle at 74.56 cents/pound. Market participants said soybean oil futures stabilized following the sharp declines seen June 4-5, although broader sentiment across the vegetable oil complex remained cautious amid favorable US crop conditions and uncertainty surrounding export demand.

Participants continued monitoring developments in US biofuel policy and renewable diesel demand expectations, which have remained a key source of support for soybean oil futures throughout 2026. At the same time, traders said improving US crop conditions and the absence of confirmed Chinese soybean purchases continued limiting upside momentum in agricultural commodity markets.

In Argentina, Platts assessed the soybean oil FOB Up River price for July loading at $1,169.77/metric ton on June 8, up $9.70/mt from June 5. The basis for July loading in the Up River paper market was unchanged at minus 2,150 points to the July (N) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

In Brazil, Platts assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for July loading at $1,169.77/mt on June 8, up $3.08/mt from June

5. The basis for July loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 30 points lower at minus 2,150 points to the July (N) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Platts also assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for August loading at $1,160.29/mt on June 8, down $17.64/mt from the last assessed price on June 5. The basis for August loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 100 points lower at minus 2,070 points to the August (Q) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Market participants said FOB soybean oil basis levels in South America remained historically weak despite recovering from the record discounts seen earlier in June, reflecting continued abundant soybean oil availability across the region.

Participants continued monitoring record soybean production and crush projections in Brazil after Conab maintained its 2025-2026 soybean crop estimate at 180.13 million mt, while ABIOVE projected Brazilian soybean processing at a record 62.5 million mt in 2026.

At the same time, traders said Brazil's B15 biodiesel mandate continued supporting domestic soybean oil demand, helping absorb part of the expanding soybean oil supply despite ongoing pressure on export premiums.

Demand into Asia remained broadly steady but continued lagging the pace of South American supply growth. Participants said elevated freight costs and competitively priced palm oil continued to constrain delivered arbitrage opportunities for soybean oil exports into Asian destinations.

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- Ukraine sunflower oil holds at $1,374/mt
- Rapeseed oil climbs $15 to $1,166/mt
- Summer crushing slowdown approaches in July

Thin activity was seen in the European oilseeds markets on June 8, as both low stocks and weak demand remained in place.

Neither buyers nor sellers showed any urgency to push transactions as a seasonal summer lull approached.

Ukraine sunflower oil prices were supported on the day by tight availability, but no demand was heard to meet the few offers on display. Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed Ukraine FOB Black Sea sunflower oil stable day over day at $1,374/metric ton.

Summer months would bring a slowdown to crushing, a refiner said, with maintenance work beginning in July for many producers working on sunflower seeds.

Rapeseed oil prices posted gains day over day, with the front-run FOB Dutch Mills assessment up Eur15/mt to $1,166/mt. With thin availability left in the sunflower oil market, traders have turned to new rapeseed crop runs for more competitive value.

CHS to sell three southern Minnesota grain elevators after 2026 fall harvest

- CHS will close three Minnesota elevators post-2026
- Facilities hold 6 million bushels storage capacity

US-based farmer-owned cooperative CHS will close three Minnesota grain elevators after the fall harvest and put them up for sale, the company said via email to Platts on June 5.

"While smaller facilities, such as these three, have served CHS well in the past, the grain supply chain in southern Minnesota has evolved into a market where local corn/soybean processing facilities and river terminals are the primary markets," Jim Morken, senior director of operations at CHS, said.

The facilities are located in Kasson, Ostrander and Wykoff, with a storage capacity of more than 6 million bushels of grain, and will be operated through the 2026 fall harvest.

"CHS has recently made significant investments in Mankato and Fairmont, and more farmers in this area are now delivering directly to those facilities," Morken said.

The previous transactions made by CHS were in 2025 when it acquired the Scoular grain facility in Nebraska and West Central Ag Services.

The cooperative said it will continue to evaluate its facilities to determine whether they meet the needs of the cooperative system and its customers.

During the second quarter of the fiscal year 2026, which ended Feb. 28, the company reported a net loss of $147.1 million and revenue of $8.4 billion, compared to a net loss of $75.8 million and revenue of $7.8 billion in Q2 of fiscal year 2025, related to significantly higher expenses for renewable energy credits, along with weaker soybean and canola crush margins.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed the corn outright price for June shipments to New Orleans in the incoterm CIF at $194.70/metric ton and for the price for July shipments at $197.85/mt on June 5. FOB Gulf for August price was assessed at $205.91/mt.

EMEA AGRICULTURE: Key market indicators for June 8-12

- Russian wheat traders monitor Turkish demand
- Ukrainian corn falls $2.50/mt WOW amid slow demand
- Sunflower oil falls amid ample inventory

Wheat

- The Platts wheat benchmark, the Milling Wheat Marker, fell $4/metric ton to $241/mt in the week to June 5, tracking mostly Russian wheat prices for loading over July 3-17. French wheat, FOB Rouen, fell $7/mt during the week. Platts is part of S&P Global Energy.

- Russian wheat sellers were monitoring demand from Turkey, with the progressing local harvest in the country being delayed due to rain.
- Black Sea traders are anticipating increased demand from Middle East and North Africa, following the tenders and trades reported last week.
- Ukrainian wheat traders are also closely monitoring corn and 11.5% wheat prices, which have reached parity now.

Corn

- Platts assessed FOB Ukraine corn down $2.50/mt at $236/mt in the week to June 5 for loading over July 3-17, and CVB corn fell $2.50/mt to $241/mt.
- Traders of Ukrainian corn will be closely monitoring demand from Turkey amid slow buying activity.
- Market participants are anticipating CPT prices to fall further following the drop observed last week.
- In the destination market in Egypt, importers are anticipating increased South American corn ships to reach the market.
- Black Sea traders are expecting European destinations to remain competitive this week for Ukrainian corn, amid slow buying from the Middle East.

Vegetable oil

- Platts assessed FOB Black Sea sunflower oil down $5/mt week over week at $1,374/mt and FOB Dutch Mill rapeseed oil front run up Eur6/mt week over week at Eur1,151/mt on June 5.
- Market participants are reducing sunflower oil buying as destination demand remains subdued and inventories remain comfortable.
- Traders are increasingly positioning around new-crop rapeseed availability as processors seek alternatives to expensive and limited sunflower seed supplies.
- Market participants are supporting rapeseed oil values while anticipating continued outperformance versus sunflower oil ahead of the Black Sea harvest period.

European importers face increased costs as Indian shrimp antibiotic testing rates rise

- Testing incidence rises from 50% to 65% of Indian shipments
- Delays stretch to 1-2 weeks, tightening pre-sold margins

EU seafood importers are facing mounting financial pressure as antibiotic testing rates for Indian shrimp shipments have risen to about 65% from a nominal 50%, adding costs and delaying deliveries on pre-sold contracts, according to importers from Northwest Europe.

The higher testing frequency, driven by computerized customs selection systems, is adding one to two weeks to delivery times for some consignments. The scrutiny comes from ongoing EU concerns about veterinary drug residues in Indian aquaculture products, with the Trade Control and Expert System automatically flagging more shipments based on historical warnings and localized increases at specific border control posts.

“Over the last six, seven months, we paid Eur150,000 in testing alone,” a Belgian importer said. “The incidence is 50% [nominally], but recently we’ve seen them reaching over 65%. The increase is particularly difficult for importers working under pre-negotiated contracts, where margins are set in advance and additional costs cannot easily be passed on to buyers.”

A Dutch importer said the computerized selection system can create a “multiplying effect,” explaining that exporters with historical warnings, or shipments moving through certain ports such as Antwerp or Rotterdam, face a higher probability of testing.

Delays are also extending logistical timelines, further impacting contracts within the market. “It used to be two months, it’s now four months. So you’re taking a higher risk,” the Belgian importer said.

Recent audits by the EU’s Directorate-General for Health and Food Safety in India have identified deficiencies in official control systems for veterinary drug residues, prompting heightened scrutiny of Indian aquaculture imports.

The increased testing frequency affects major Indian shrimp products, including head-on, shell-on and peeled, deveined, tail-on shrimp, both key specifications for European seafood markets.

Assessment Rationale

Grains

Platts Ags EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $240.25/metric ton on June 8, down 75 cents from June 5. Ukraine 11.5% handysize wheat, assessed at $234/mt, was normalized to the nearest 25 cents of $240.25/mt when adding May’s quality normalization of $6.15/mt, to account for its lower protein content. It was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes CVB 12.5%, assessed at $243/mt, and Russian 12.5% wheat assessed at $241/mt on the day. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 6-20.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) unchanged at $241/mt on June 8 amid low demand and below an offer at $242/mt for H2 July loading. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 6-20.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) at $234/mt on June 8, down $2/mt, below an offer for July at $235/mt. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 6-20.

Platts is part of S&P Global Energy.
