Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Russia, Ukraine wheat drops as buyers withdraw
- CVB premiums rise $25/mt on safety concerns

The Russian and Ukrainian wheat markets saw a slight drop on July 16 as buyers withdrew firm FOB bids for these origins amid ongoing port strikes and disruptions.

The most competitive Novorossiysk offer was $238/metric ton, compared to bids at $235/mt. The market traded at $237/mt for August loadings.

Meanwhile, Ukraine saw reduced offers at $229-$230/mt, with no firm bids. "There are no buyers on FOB," a Ukraine-based wheat seller said.

There were market talks in Ukraine that military forces were planning to set up a special convoy to escort ships in and out of the country, a local Ukraine-based seller said.

Buyers in Egypt held off on bidding and awaited further clarity, with 12.5% offers at $254/mt for Aug-Sept ship.

The CVB market rose the most during the day as traders added premiums to ship out of these safer routes. The spread of the CVB market to Russia (12.5%) and Ukraine (11.5%) was about $25/mt, respectively. Limited 12.5% offers from Romania added to the price increase amid quality concerns about the new crop.

Nonetheless, strong demand remained a bottleneck. "It is difficult to find demand," a second seller based in Romania said. A trade was heard for Saudi Arabia's 12.5% specification, with lower-bid damage at $267/mt, as traders sought to cover August ship-tender demands.

The spread between the 11.5% and 12.5% CVB was $7-$8/mt and $10/mt in the feed wheat market. The most competitive bid for the 11.5% was Eur 10 under Matif Sept, while sellers were at a flat price to Matif.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Commentary

- Australian wheat strengthens
- Australian offers rise, interest thin

Australian Premium White rose $2/metric ton day over day July 16 to $274/mt, while Australian Standard White with no protein guarantee rose $3/mt to $270/mt, tracking higher value indications.

Several Asian and Australian trade sources said Australian wheat prices were slightly firmer on the FOB market, citing spillover bullishness from rallying offshore futures.

One of the trade sources said domestic cash prices were up A$10/mt ($7/mt).

"Still not a huge amount of demand around [for Australian wheat]," said a trader based in Perth.

Another Australian trader said he had not heard any panic to switch to Australian wheat just yet, but added that it was "worth bearing in mind that, longer term, the supply is still there in the Black Sea, [it] just needs to find [its] way out. If it gets pushed further out, [it] can start running against our new crop timing."

A containerized wheat exporter from Australia said that regional bids for Australian wheat were unchanged even as offers rose $5-$7/mt CFR day over day.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- September market reflects old-crop transition
- Farmers hold back sales amid protein concerns

Platts assessed Canadian Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward at $304.06/metric ton on July 16, up $1.11/mt from July 15, as market participants said the recent strength in futures could begin to pressure basis, although trading activity remained limited.

December Minneapolis Hard Red Spring wheat futures contract (MWZ) settling at 708.50 cents/bu, up 3 cents/bu day over day.

September continued to trade as a transitional market, with participants noting that delayed crop development due to delayed planting has kept nearby values tied to old-crop supplies. One Canadian trader commented that 125 cents/bu over MWZ appeared high for the best September offers, suggesting values closer to 110 cents/bu over MWZ, while bids were estimated around 90 cents/bu over MWZ. The mix of offer levels for September reflects the transition from old crop to new crop, with the old crop pricing at a premium amid supply constraints.

For new crop, market participants reported strong countryside cash prices but limited farmer selling. Another Canadian trader said producers remain reluctant to market wheat, adding they are likely to become more active if September MIAH futures move higher. The trader also said that there are expectations for a lower-protein crop this year, supporting wider protein premiums heard earlier in the week. CWRS 13.5% protein was last heard at a 15-cent discount to CWRS 13.8% protein.

A Latin American trader said stronger futures should result in a weaker offer side, although September demand remained limited, with September elevation capacity generally sold out.

"There isn't much demand for September," he said.

A fourth trader said Black Sea wheat premiums remain difficult to define amid recent conflicts, with bid-offer spreads heard as wide as $20/mt. This continued to support firm wheat futures day over day.

Corn

Platts Asia Corn Daily Commentary

- Asian corn prices surge on conflict spillover
- CFR Northeast Asia rises $4/mt to $269/mt
- Buyers stay sidelined as offers exceed targets

Asian corn prices rose July 16 amid firm FOB basis offers and spillover support from the adjacent wheat market, which saw an escalation in the Russia-Ukraine conflict, while Asian buyers remained on the sidelines.

Platts assessed feed-quality corn CFR Northeast Asia up $4/metric ton day over day at $269/mt for cargoes arriving over Oct. 14-Nov. 13.

South Korean buyers were on the sidelines for the entire week ending July 16, with no deals concluded, according to a local trade agent. The country will be on holiday on July 17 to celebrate Constitution Day.

Market participants discussed the impact of an escalating conflict between Russia and Ukraine, with grain-carrying bulk cargoes attacked at both Russian and Ukrainian ports, leading to a surge in regional prices and spillover into the international feed wheat market.

A Thai feed milling buyer's group opened and concluded a

US corn import tender on July 15 for September and October cargoes, with all offers passed and no deals inked. A Thai broker said offers were “at about $270/mt CFR” while the buyer’s target was at $265/mt CFR.

Meanwhile, replacement levels were higher, with Platts Corn Arbitrage Price Matrix showing CFR Northeast Asia basis replacement levels at $267.43/mt for Argentine September shipments and $280.69/mt for US Pacific Northwest-origin October shipments.

US Pacific Northwest corn basis offer indications for September shipments were heard higher day over day at 155 cents/bu over December (Z) Chicago Board of Trade futures contract.

In Vietnam, South American-origin corn offers were heard unchanged at $263.50/mt CFR Vietnam for September-shipment partial cargoes, up $1.50/mt day over day.

“Vietnam’s feed wheat and corn supplies are fine until September, but the problem is October-December shipments; market demand is quite weak now, and people are on the sidelines as prices are too high,” a Vietnamese feed miller source said.

A Singapore-based trader that offered to Vietnam said August-shipment South American corn offers had sold out, although there was “no rush for Vietnam as they have a lot of stock ... and they may also use more corn [compared with feed wheat] as corn has been cheaper.”

Platts Latin America Corn Daily Commentary

- Corn harvest reaches 62.2% in Argentina
- Slow negotiations in Goiás in the spot market

Argentine FOB Up River premiums for September loading saw limited interest in negotiations, with market participants still focused on August loading.

The Buenos Aires Grain Exchange reported on July 16 that the 2025-26 corn harvest in Argentina reached 62.2% as of July 15, up 5.80% from the previous week.

BAGE reported that it is 8.2% lower than the previous season at the same time, due to high grain moisture associated with ambient humidity recorded over the past weeks.

The Brazilian FOB Santos premiums for September loading saw a bid-offer spread of plus 113-127 cents/bushel, relative to the CBOT September (U) contract.

The US dollar to Brazilian real exchange rate stood at Real 5.1118/$1 as of 5:30 pm Brasilia time, up 0.39% day over day.

In Brazil’s domestic market, prices were steady in the Rio Verde and Maringá regions, while they rose in the Sorriso region amid higher bids.

According to a broker, trading activity on the spot market in the state of Goiás was sporadic.

A trade on the spot market was reported in Cascavel, in Paraná state, at Real 57.00/60 kilogram, with payment in 30 days.

Platts US Corn Daily Commentary

- US corn loses competitiveness to South America
- Export sales drop 44% in week ending July 9

The US corn market saw lower Chicago Board of Trade futures on July 16, driven by weaker export sales, as confirmed by the US

Department of Agriculture.

CBOT September (U) futures decreased 6 cents to $4.4150/bu.

The USDA reported corn net sales exports at 315,000 mt for the week ended July 9, a decrease of 44% from the prior week.

"Export sales were disappointing; the United States is losing competitiveness to Brazil and Argentina, while the influx of new South American crops continues to crowd out international demand," said a broker source.

After attacks on the ports and infrastructure in Ukraine, sources from Europe and Asia reported a stop in purchases, with shipowners canceling Charter Parties, declaring Ukrainian ports "unsafe".

"I don't know if it's realistic to see a lot more corn booked for exports. However, China has begun tendering corn out of Argentina as they are cheaper than all other offers currently," said a trader source.

In the domestic market, sources from Iowa said that crusher plants have cut back hours as they are full and are looking more for August and September coverage.

"Fresh grower selling is not nearly as active as I had expected this week, but it is still enough," another broker source said.

Platts assessed the outright price for July shipments to New Orleans in the incoterm CIF at $213.60/mt on July 16 and for August shipments at $214.35/mt. September shipment under the FOB Gulf incoterm was assessed at $220.67/mt.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- Black Sea corn market stalls amid attacks
- Ship owners avoid Ukrainian ports currently

The Black Sea corn market moved sideways on the day amid minimal trading following attacks on the ports and infrastructure in Ukraine. Amid the ongoing conflict with Russia, market participants said export trading activity has decreased, and several sellers have halted exports.

"There are simply no FOB buyers for Ukraine now and no CIF sellers either," one seller from Ukraine said, adding there was no real market on the day.

"Very few ship owners are ready to call Ukrainian ports," another seller said. There were also market talks in Ukraine that military forces were looking to set up a special convoy to escort ships in and out of the country, a third local Ukrainian seller said.

$534.07/mt on July 16, while the basis was up 23 cents/bu at 249 cents/bu over August (Q) Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) futures.

Overnight, CFR China saw some demand for US Pacific Northwest soybeans and Brazilian soybeans, according to China-based soybean trade sources.

Six to seven cargoes of US PNW October shipments were heard traded at 293-295 cents/bu over November (X) CBOT, basis CFR China. One cargo of Brazilian September shipment was also heard traded at 249 cents/bu over November (X) CBOT, basis CFR China.

A China-based soybean trader said Chinese buying interest for October shipment Brazilian soybeans remained subdued amid rising seller offers.

"Old-crop soybean prices have continued to increase and offers around 255 cents/bu over November (X) for October shipment that were seen earlier in the week were no longer available," the trader said.

"Brazilian soybean prices are simply too high, leaving both September and October buyers largely on sidelines," the trader added.

According to another China-based soybean trader, as of July 14, 96% of the total open demand, at 7.9 million mt for August shipment, was covered. 68% of the total open demand, at 7.5 million mt for September shipment, was also covered.

For October shipment, open demand fell to about 6.8 million mt, while open demand for November shipment was at 7.5 million mt.

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- Lower CBOT pressures FOB prices
- FOB Paranaguá premiums strengthens

Lower Chicago Board of Trade futures pressured Brazilian soybean FOB outright prices on July 16, while stronger port differentials provided some support.

The CBOT September (U) contract settled at $11.8525/bushel, down 7 cents/bushel.

Traders managed tensions over the Middle East conflict with expectations regarding Chinese demand, sources said.

On the day, the US Department of Agriculture reported US soybean export sales of 4.60 million metric tons for the upcoming 2026-27 marketing year (September-October) in the week through July 9. China accounted for 1.30 million mt.

Premium levels in the FOB Paranaguá paper market strengthened for both old and new crops, offsetting the CBOT's drop, sources said.

Trading activity relied mainly on nearby shipments, with parcels negotiated for August and September dates. There was talk of buyer interest for 2027 deliveries, but no trades could be confirmed by the end of the day.

As for FOB Santos, no deals were heard.

Platts US Soybeans Daily Commentary

- Sources report tight supply in CIF NOLA market
- Shifting weather reportedly affects futures market

The US soybeans market saw the basis for CIF New Orleans for July shipment climb on July 16 as sources pointed to tight soybean supply at the Mississippi River, shifting weather forecasts, and no new reports suggesting China being active in the US market.

Platts assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for September shipment at $482.44/metric ton on July 16. Platts assessed basis for FOB Gulf for September shipment was at 118 cents/bushel over the November (X) soybeans futures contract.

Platts assessed the outright price for CIF NOLA for July shipment 64 cents higher on the day at $481.71/mt. Platts assessed basis for CIF NOLA for July shipment increased 9 cents on the day to 116 cents/bu over the August (Q) soybeans futures contract.

There were no reports suggesting that China might be active in the US market after several potential purchases were heard in the last few days.

"I think they are on break," a trader in the FOB Gulf market said. "If the US shows interest in letting ships through the Strait [of Hormuz] and de-escalates the [Middle East] war, I believe they will buy again."

Other market players said the trades from China and seasonality factors have tightened soybean supply at the river, boosting the CIF New Orleans basis.

"We have record crush this year, and China is starting to buy some of next year's obligations against the old crop," a trader in that market said. "And we're getting towards the time of year where supplies are naturally getting tighter as we wait for the new crop."

A second trader in the CIF New Orleans market said they were struggling to find buyers for July and August.

"The market has to lift if it wants to buy," the second trader said.

Chicago Board of Trade August (Q) soybean futures contract fell 7.25 cents to 1195 cents/bu on July 16, while the November (X) contract fell 6.75 cents to 1,195 cents/bu.

A third trader said the futures market was "mostly trading weather, it's hard to know exactly what it's doing day to day as we get multiple weather reports during every market session."

The US Department of Agriculture released its US Export Sales weekly report showing 188,300 mt in soybean net sales during the period July 3-9.

This amount is "up noticeably from the previous week, but down 23% from the prior 4-week average," the document said. It also fell on the lower end of market expectations ranging from 100,000-500,000 mt.

About 133,900 mt were purchased by China, 51,100 mt by Egypt and 40,900 mt by Japan. Some decreases or cancellations were also considered for each destination.

Platts Latin America Soybean Meal Daily Commentary

- Higher CBOT futures support FOB spot prices
- Brazil's July meal exports to reach 2.57 million mt: Anec

Higher Chicago Board of Trade futures supported South American soybean meal FOB prices on July 16, with the September (U) contract settling at $320.50/short ton, up $2.90/st.

Argentina's FOB Up River had no trades heard, while participants reported stronger cash basis levels, particularly on the offer side, following the recent upward movement in the Brazilian paper market.

The FOB Paranaguá, in turn, saw September parcels trade at $5/st and $6/st over the CBOT benchmarks.

Among other topics, Brazil is expected to export 2.57 million mt of soybean meal in July, up from 2.14 million mt a year earlier, according to the Brazilian grain exporters' association, Anec.

If confirmed, cumulative exports from January to July would total 15.31 million mt, up 14.2% year over year, according to Anec, whose projections are based on the current shipment schedule.

Northern Europe

The Dutch soybean meal market was quiet on July 16, with low demand for August, market participants said.

"There is literally nothing to sell at the moment and buyers would be stubborn with the bids," a Netherlands-based trader said.

Currently, for August loading from FOB Netherlands, offers were around Eur370-375/metric ton.

Southern Europe

The Spanish corn and soybean meal market was quiet on July 16, with little overall demand, traders said.

A second trader said the official offers for corn have increased slightly, but there were no changes to the bids; it remained at Eur225/mt, with offers at Eur232/mt.

The trader noted that, globally, grains are affected by many factors, including geopolitical conflicts and CBOT futures, which was reflected in the offers. But domestically, demand for corn remained the same.

Platts US Distiller Grains DDGS Daily Commentary

- Nearby market remains heavy
- Freight costs continue rising

The US dried distillers grains with solubles market remained quiet on July 16, with participants reporting little change in market conditions, while nearby domestic values continued to face pressure from ample supply and rising freight costs.

Platts assessed CIF New Orleans dried distillers grains with solubles barges for the July shipment period at $198/short ton, on July 16, the Chicago DDGS truck market for the July delivery period was assessed at $175/st, and the South California rail market for the July delivery period was assessed at $228/st.

One broker said market conditions were largely unchanged, and said values remained steady amid limited DDGS activity.

“Not really anything close enough to work on in DDGS,” the broker said. “Other products have my attention at the moment.”

Another broker said production remained healthy despite recent discussions surrounding 45Z tax credit incentives.

“I think production is fine,” the broker said. “We will see it reduced again during winter for 45Z credits, but I don’t think we currently have production issues.”

The second broker added that supplies remained abundant in some production regions.

“As a matter of fact, Iowa is swimming in product,” the second source said, adding that one nearby FOB offer reportedly failed to attract buyers because of weak pickup demand.

A third broker described the domestic market as softer in nearby positions.

“Market seems heavy out there in the nearby,” the third broker said, adding that freight costs continue to increase.

Platts Asia Palm Oil Daily Commentary

- Malaysian overall output up 3.66% July 1-15: SPPOMA
- India demand weakens on high stock levels

The Asian palm oil market was mixed on July 16, as palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia edged higher following a rise in US soybean oil and other vegetable oils, but the rally was capped by weakness in crude and Chinese soybean oil.

Malaysia’s Southern Peninsular Palm Oil Millers Association reported an increase in palm oil production for July 1-15 compared with the previous month. Yield increased 3.34%, oil extraction rose 0.06% and overall production rose 3.66%.

The benchmark palm oil contract for October delivery on the Bursa Malaysia commodity exchange rose MR6/metric ton to MR4,606/mt on July 16.

The Indian market was slow on July 16, with no trade heard, amid weakened demand.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- South American soy oil prices drop amid CBOT fall
- August loading sees liquidity, basis stable
- Crushers shift to exports as biodiesel margins fall

South American soybean oil cash prices for August loading decreased July 16, as basis negotiations maintained stability and saw further liquidity against a dropping CBOT.

Platts assessed the Brazilian soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for August loading at $1,188.95/mt July 16, down $8.60/mt from July 15. September loading was assessed at $1,168.67/mt July 16, down $8.16/mt day over day.

CBOT August soybean oil futures settled 0.49 cent/lb lower at 72.43 cents/lb.

For Brazil, August loading negotiations narrowed on the day, with liquidity. "The market is well defined," a Brazil-based trader said, who explained that such movement is likely due to CBOT's lower volatility.

"There are many positions still open for August that traders want to exit," the trader also said about August's liquidity.

"There were a lot of sellers for August-September, which I think is due to export negotiations, as biodiesel is coming in with lower margins and many crushers have turned to the export market," another Brazil-based trader said.

In Argentina, the market for August also narrowed, with the most competitive offer at minus 1,880 points and the most competitive bid at minus 1,950 points against the August (Q) contract at the market close.

Meanwhile, October-November-December negotiations remain illiquid, according to participants in both markets.

Platts assessed the Argentine soybean oil FOB Up River price for August loading at $1,173.52/mt July 16, down $6.39/mt from July 15.

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- Deferred rapeseed oil continues strengthening
- Muted sunflower trading reflects supply constraints
- Harvest and logistics dominate market sentiment

European vegetable oil markets remained firm July 16, with deferred rapeseed oil positions continuing to strengthen while sunflower oil held stable. FOB Black Sea sunflower oil remained unchanged at $1,379/mt, reflecting a market supported by constrained physical availability despite heightened logistical uncertainty. RSO FOB Dutch Mills front-month held steady at Eur1,196/mt, while second and third positions gained Eur7 to Eur1,184/mt and Eur1,173/mt, respectively. Fourth position also strengthened, rising Eur6 to Eur1,167/mt. The continued gains in deferred contracts suggest that market participants remain cautious about forward supply despite a stable nearby market.

concern over supply security rather than any notable improvement in demand. While front-month values stabilized following recent gains, stronger deferred positions indicate that buyers continue to assign a premium to forward availability. This suggests uncertainty surrounding harvest execution, logistics and processor demand continues to outweigh broader bearish influences from global oilseed markets.

Sunflower oil remained unchanged for another session, with muted trading activity reflecting a lack of fresh physical business. Recent strikes on Ukrainian port infrastructure, combined with reduced operating rates and maintenance at domestic processing plants, have curtailed seller activity and limited the volume of offers entering the market. At the same time, subdued destination demand has reduced buying interest, leaving the market balanced despite ongoing logistical disruption. As a result, tight physical availability has been sufficient to maintain FOB Black Sea sunflower oil values at current levels.

For Europe, the market remains driven by regional fundamentals rather than broader futures movements. Stable sunflower oil prices alongside firmer deferred rapeseed oil values indicate that participants continue to focus on harvest progress, export logistics and processing capacity rather than immediate consumption trends. Until greater clarity emerges on Black Sea export infrastructure, processor operating rates and new-crop availability, the vegetable oil complex is likely to retain a cautious but supported tone.

US net corn sales totaled 315,000 metric tons in the week to July 9, down 44% from the previous week, US Department of Agriculture data showed July 16.

During the week, Japan, Colombia, South Korea, Venezuela and Vietnam booked the largest volumes.

Total US corn export commitments for marketing year 2025-26 (September-August) stood at 86.28 million mt as of July 9, up 24.2% year over year, the data showed.

So far in MY 2025-26, Mexico, Japan, South Korea, Colombia and Spain have been the top buyers of US corn.

The USDA forecast corn exports at 84.46 million mt in MY 2025-26, up 15.7% year over year, in its World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates report released July 10.

The US is expected to harvest 432.34 million mt of corn in MY 2025-26, 14.3% higher year over year, according to the USDA.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed US corn CIF New Orleans at $215.95/mt on July 15, up $3.95/mt day over day.

USDA-FAS forecasts record 22.5 million mt wheat output in Turkey for MY 2026-27

- Wheat imports seen falling by 1.4 million mt
- Corn production forecast cut by 800,000 mt
- Corn import forecast stable at 4.8 million mt

Turkey's wheat production is forecast to hit a record 22.5 million metric tons in the 2026-27 marketing year (June-May), up 5.7 million mt from the previous year, according to the latest US Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agricultural Service attaché report.

The FAS post in Ankara upwardly revised the outlook on the back of favorable weather and above-average rainfall.

However, unrelenting May and June rains have delayed the nationwide harvest by approximately three weeks, with only 25% of the crop collected by late June, the report said July 15.

Turkey's wheat imports are forecast at 5 million mt in MY 2026-27, down 1.4 million mt from MY 2025-26, based on stable demand from wheat product producers and exporters and an expected increase in domestic production. Meanwhile, wheat exports are projected at 6 million mt.

The attaché expects the country's wheat consumption to rise to 18.7 million mt in MY 2026-27, up 800,000 mt from the previous year, largely due to increased feed use.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed wheat 12.5% CIF Marmara at $227/mt July 16, unchanged day over day.

Turkey's corn production forecast is reduced by 800,000 mt year over year to 7.1 million mt in MY 2026-27, as farmers shift toward wheat, oilseeds, and vegetables in Central Anatolia and the Aegean.

Meanwhile, the corn import forecast is stable at 4.8 million mt for MY 2026-27, while total consumption is expected to fall to 11.5 million mt from 12.2 million mt in the previous year.

Brazilian soybean export prices hit over 2.5-year high on CBOT gains, firm demand

- SOYBEX FOB Santos hits highest level since Dec 2023
- Brazilian export basis firm despite record soybean crop

Brazilian soybean export prices hit an over two-and-a-half-year high July 15, supported by gains in Chicago Board of Trade futures and firm overseas demand, which has kept port differentials firm despite a record domestic crop.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed SOYBEX FOB Santos for August loading at $483.66/metric ton on July 15, the highest level for a spot shipment since Dec. 29, 2023. The Brazilian soybean assessment has risen nearly 20% so far in 2026.

The gains have been partly driven by stronger CBOT soybean futures amid renewed optimism over Chinese purchases of US soybeans. The latest reported deal came July 10, when the US Department of Agriculture announced private sales of 136,000 mt of soybeans for delivery to China in the marketing year 2026-27 (September-October).

US farmers are preparing to harvest the upcoming crop in the coming months, while adverse weather in early July — including hot and dry conditions across parts of the US Midwest — also supported Chicago benchmarks.

Against this backdrop, the front-month CBOT soybean futures contract settled at $12.0225/bushel on July 15, up 17% since the start of 2026.

Firm basis

Alongside the gains in CBOT futures, Brazilian soybean FOB outright prices have also been supported by relatively firm port differentials, underpinned by steady export demand.

The SOYBEX FOB Santos basis was assessed at a premium of 114 cents/bu to Chicago futures on July 15, after reaching a 116 cents/bu premium on July 14, the highest level for a spot loading since mid-December 2025.

A year earlier, the basis stood at a 147 cents/bu premium, reflecting escalating trade tensions between the US and China, which further boosted demand for Brazilian soybeans.

Brazilian soybean export premiums have remained resilient even after the country harvested a record 182 million mt of soybeans in the 2025-26 season, up more than 10 million mt from the previous cycle, according to S&P Global Energy CERA estimates.

Overseas demand for Brazilian soybeans remains strong, particularly from China, supporting premiums in the world's largest producer and exporter of the oilseed.

Brazil exported 14.50 million mt of soybeans in June, a record for the month, with China taking 71% of the total, according to Brazil's Foreign Trade Secretariat, or Secex.

Brazil's cumulative soybean exports in the 2025-26 season, which runs from January to December, reached 70 million mt, up 5 million mt from the same period a year earlier, with China accounting for 48.60 million mt of the total, the Secex data showed.

For July, Brazil is expected to export 13.76 million mt of soybeans, also a record for the month, according to estimates released on July 14 by the Brazilian Grain Exporters Association, or Anec.

The projected July volume would be up 15.2% year over year but largely unchanged month over month. Anec's estimate is based on the current vessel lineup at Brazilian ports.

INDONESIA DATA: Palm oil exports fall 28% in May amid high prices, stock rise

- Indonesia's palm oil production falls in May
- Jan-May palm oil use for biodiesel pegged at 10.7 mil mt
- Cargo data shows June exports rising to 2.6 mil mt

Indonesia's palm oil exports fell 28.2% month over month in May to 1.99 million metric tons, as high prices weighed on demand and pushed ending stocks above 3 million mt, the Indonesian Palm Oil Association (GAPKI) said July 15.

Palm oil production fell to 4.55 million mt in May, from 4.99 million mt in April, GAPKI said. Ending stocks for the month were pegged at 3.04 million mt.

For the first five months of 2026 (January-May), Indonesia used 10.74 million mt of palm oil for biodiesel, up from 10.2 million mt in the same period last year.

Indonesia has raised its biodiesel blending target to 50% or B50 from July, from an earlier 40% mandate.

In a separate release, cargo surveyor data showed Indonesia's June palm oil exports rose to 2.59 million mt, up 75% month over month from 1.48 million mt in May, according to Intertek Testing Services July 16.

Exports to the Indian subcontinent, which includes the largest palm oil buyer, India, surged to 738,251 mt in June, up 204% month over month, according to ITS data.

China's palm oil purchases rose to 491,531, up 137.4% from May, ITS data showed.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed the price of crude palm oil FOB Indonesia at $1,177.50/mt July 15, down 0.4% day over day.

Heat-hit EU corn crop sets stage for higher imports in MY 2026-27: sources

- EU heatwave slashes corn output to 52.7 mil mt
- France corn production drops to 20-year low
- Ukraine poised to boost EU market share in MY 2026-27

The EU grain trade association COCERAL has cut its corn production forecast for marketing year 2025-26 (July-June), leading to expectations of higher imports in MY 2026-27, with Ukraine's share set to increase, multiple market sources said July 15.

COCERAL's production forecast was lowered to 52.7 million metric tons from 57.2 million mt previously, below the 57.4 million mt harvested last season. Rising temperatures and persistent heatwaves across major corn-producing regions have reduced production prospects and driven corn prices higher ahead of the harvest.

The association attributed the downgrade to heat stress during the critical pollination period in France, Hungary and other parts of the EU, according to its July 10 report.

France, one of the EU's key corn producers, has been among the hardest hit. COCERAL pegged the French corn crop at 9.4 million mt, down from 13.8 million mt last year and the lowest level in more than two decades. Weather conditions have already begun to affect corn pollination in southern France and Hungary, with further heat damage expected elsewhere in the EU, according to S&P Global Energy CERA.

Still, traders said the impact of the heatwave has varied significantly across the bloc.

In Spain, which accounts for around 13% of total EU corn output, heat damage has been limited because much of the crop is irrigated and water availability remains sufficient, a Spanish broker said.

"Italian corn production has not been significantly affected by the heatwave so far," an Italian procurement manager said, adding that cooler air expected to move into eastern Europe in the week ahead could help limit further crop stress.

However, Italy's domestic output remains insufficient to meet demand, leaving the country dependent mainly on imports from Ukraine, with only limited volumes coming from France, the procurement manager said.

In the Netherlands, corn remains the most expensive feed grain compared with feed wheat and barley, a Dutch broker said. Multinational suppliers are asking for premiums of about Eur10/mt, partly reflecting continued risks linked to the war in Ukraine, the broker added.

As a result, buyers have already shifted some demand toward alternative feed grains, including barley and feed wheat.

The deteriorating EU production outlook has also been reflected in official import expectations. The USDA raised its EU corn import forecast in its latest WASDE report to 22.1 million mt in July, up from 19.5 million mt in June and 4 million mt above the 18.5 million mt estimated for MY 2025-26.

Ukrainian sellers expect the EU to remain a promising destination in MY 2026-27 as the bloc's import requirements increase. Spain has historically been a major buyer of Ukrainian corn, although Turkey later became a larger destination. In MY 2023-24, Spain was the leading destination for Ukrainian corn, taking more than 18% of total exports.

Ukraine corn exports by destination

Data is for July-25 to June-26

Source: Ukraine port line-up shared by traders

Current line-ups from Ukrainian traders show the EU continuing to account for a significant share of Ukrainian corn exports, with Italy, the Netherlands and Spain among the main EU importers.

"It is highly likely that Ukraine will have more opportunities than last year to supply the EU," a Ukrainian seller said, adding that the EU's share of Ukrainian corn exports could exceed Turkey's in the coming season.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed Ukrainian Corn FOB Black Sea at $226/mt up by $1/mt week over week and Spain Corn EXW Terragona at Eur226/mt up by Eur2/mt week over week.

Thailand feed millers pass on all offers at first US corn import tender

- Thai feed millers reject US corn offers
- Offers around $270/mt miss $265/mt target
- Domestic Thai corn prices reach $320-$350/mt

Thailand's feed millers have passed on all offers at the first US corn import tender, resulting in no deals, according to three traders and grains brokers involved in the July 15 tender.

The buyers, part of the Thai Feed Millers Association (TFMA), had opened a tender for two cargoes of US-origin corn with 63,200 mt for September shipment and 59,000 mt for October shipment.

However, offers for the cargoes were reported to be "around the $270's/mt CFR" while the buyer's target was $265/mt CFR, according to a Thai broker source.

FOB US Pacific Northwest corn basis offers for September shipments were at 150 cents/bu over September (U) Chicago Board of Trade or $235.23/mt FOB, or about $273/mt CFR

Thailand after accounting for freight, according to the trader.

Meanwhile, October shipment basis offers were at 155 cents/bu over December (Z) CBOT or about $283.85/mt CFR Thailand.

Domestic Thai corn prices were higher than US corn, with the Thai broker source saying that domestic delivered-at-mill corn prices were at Baht 10.9-11.6/kg ($320-$350/mt).

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed feed quality corn CFR Northeast Asia up $4/mt at $269/mt on July 16, for cargoes arriving over Oct. 14 to Nov. 13.

Platts Ags EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $234.75/metric ton on July 16, down $2/mt from the previous assessment. Ukraine 11.5% handsize wheat, assessed at $228/mt, was normalised to the nearest 25 cents of $234.63/mt when adding June's quality normalisation of $6.63/mt, to account for its lower protein content, was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes CVB 12.5%, assessed at $261/mt, and Russian 12.5% wheat assessed at $237/mt on day. The structure between the first and second halves of August was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Aug. 13-27.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) down $1/mt at $237/mt on July 16, in line with a trade heard at $237/mt, below an offer at $238/mt and above a bid at $235/mt. The structure between the first and second halves of August was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Aug. 13-27.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) down $2/mt at $228/mt on July 16, below an offer at $229/mt for the first half of August. Market participants said there were no firm FOB bids amid ongoing war escalations at the ports. The structure between the first and second halves of August was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Aug. 13-27.

Exclusions: No market data was excluded from the July 16 Black Sea wheat assessments.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Assessment Rationale

Platts assessed Australian Premium White wheat up $2/metric ton at $274/mt FOB Kwinana July 16 for cargoes loading between Sept. 14 and Oct. 14, tracking a higher indicative value at $274/mt and under indicative offers at $279/mt.

Platts assessed Australian Standard White wheat with no protein guarantee up $3/mt at $270/mt for cargoes loading over the same period, tracking higher indicative values at $270/mt and under indicative offers at $273/mt.

This narrows the spread between Australian Premium White and Australian Standard White with no protein guarantee to $4/mt.

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Assessment Rationale & Exclusions

Platts assessed the SOYBEX FOB Santos soybean contract on July 16 at $484.40/metric ton, on the first day of assessment for September 2026 loading.

The FOB Santos basis for September loading was assessed at plus 133 cents/bushel to the Chicago Board of Trade September (U) contract. The assessment considered an FOB Santos spread heard at plus 5 cents/bu to the FOB Paranaguá paper market, as neither offers nor bids were heard for FOB Santos September-loading cargoes during the day.

The FOB Paranaguá basis for September loading was assessed at plus 128 cents/bu to the CBOT U contract, taking into consideration a trade heard at that level, higher bids at plus 125 cents/bu and higher offers at plus 140 cents/bu to the CBOT U contract at market close.

Platts assessed the SOYBEX FOB Santos soybean contract for March loading on July 16 at $445.17/mt, $1.84/mt lower from the previous assessment.

The FOB Santos basis for March loading was assessed 1 cent/bu higher at minus 2 cents/bu to the CBOT March (H) contract, based on a spread to the FOB Paranaguá paper market heard at plus 5 cents/bu. Bids for H1 March and H2 March loadings were heard at minus 15 cents/bu and minus 20 cents/bu, respectively, to the H contract.

The new crop FOB Paranaguá basis for March loading was assessed 3 cents/bu higher at minus 7 cents/bu to the CBOT H contract, considering an indicative value last heard at that level, higher bids at minus 10 cents/bu and offers at minus 5 cents/bu to the CBOT H contract at the market close.
