Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Russian wheat offers drop to $228/mt
- Saudi Arabia seeks 655,000 mt for Sep-Oct
- CVB offer-bid spread wide on quality concerns

The Platts Milling Wheat Marker fell a little as traders looked ahead of Saudi Arabia's wheat tender, taking place July 3. The Russian sellers lowered their offers to $228/mt, compared to bids at $227/mt. A rumored trade on the day was heard at $227 or $228/mt, traders said.

Saudi Arabia is looking to buy 655,000 mt of wheat for September-October deliveries for shipments to the Red Sea ports of Jeddah, Jizan and Yanbu, excluding the port of Damman, which goes through the Strait of Hormuz, the government said on its website. In a previous tender, the state bought 985,000 mt April 27 at an average price of $276.79/mt.

In the coasters market, offers were seen at $230/mt, compared to bids equivalent to $227/mt. Traders assumed prices might keep falling amid the Turkish harvest that concludes in September. In the Egyptian market, buyers said they would bid $245/mt, while offers stood at $247/mt. Though demand remains weak.

"Egypt will be quiet for some time. It is too early to bid as the market is breaking day by day," one miller said.

The Ukrainian wheat market fell as offers dropped to $225/mt, down from $223/mt in the first half of August. Meanwhile, the CVB market saw a $9/mt spread between offers and bids amid quality concerns for wheat, similar to last year's. "There isn't much 12.5% for much," one local seller said.

The French market dropped marginally amid little offers.

"Not a lot of offers nowadays, the market is more or less stable these days," a seller from France said.

During last week, from June 25 to July 1, the UK, Belgium and Italy were the major destinations for French wheat. Meanwhile, there were no milling wheat imports into Morocco in June, down from 178,670 mt in June last year, as the country focuses on the domestic harvest, according to FNCL data.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Commentary

- Australian wheat stable
- Asian demand subdued

Australian Premium White wheat and Australian Standard White with no protein guarantee were both stable day over day July 2.

Several Australia-based trade sources said that despite week-over-week declines in Australian wheat prices, Black Sea has continued to maintain a competitive advantage for Q3 shipments. "Looks hard to be competitive outside of inelastic demand," said a Perth-based trade source.

An Australia-based grains exporter said the market was slow and there was thin interest for both bulk and containerized shipments of Australian wheat.

Delivered prices of wheat to Southeast Asia have seen limited declines even as the Black Sea crop harvest begins amid expectations of a large production, as farmers have not been spared from diesel shortages in Russia, which could disrupt the pace of the new crop harvest, said a Southeast Asia-based buyer.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- Basis premiums hold steady amid slow farmer sales
- Asian buying activity supports forward month basis

Platts assessed Canada Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward at $286.24/metric tons on July 2, 64 cents/mt lower than July 1 as futures slipped slightly and basis premiums held steady.

The December (Z) MIA Hard Red Spring Wheat futures contract fell a minimal 1.75 cents/bushel on the day to 640 cents/bu as traders squared away positions ahead of the July 4th holiday in the US.

Market activity remained subdued as participants returned from the Canada Day holiday on July 1. Basis premiums held steady despite the modest futures decline, with farmer sales continuing to track at low levels.

"Haven't heard much lately," a Canadian trader said.

A second trader echoed the quiet sentiment, "This is one of the quieter weeks of the year."

Weather concerns emerged in parts of central Manitoba where bad storms were impacting some farming operations, though this had minimal immediate impact on trading activity.

A July 1 trade for October shipment was reported at Z plus 110 cents/bushel, aligning with the most competitive October offers heard on the market. According to market sources, increased buying activity from Asia may be supporting basis levels for forward months, though no fresh firm offers were indicated on the day.

"Feels like basis firming as we go [through] the week," a third trader said. "Buying activity, mostly from Asia seems to be driving this - combined of course with slow farmer sales so less sellers willing to put on more sales, especially for old crop."

Old crop prices were pricing at a premium to new amid tight supplies with low producer sales.

Market participants noted that rapidly changing conditions and recent swings in wheat futures have created an opaque basis environment. "Things are changing fast so hard to pinpoint," the third trader said.

On the demand front, Bangladeshi buyers were reported covered for August and September shipments, while Indonesian buyers covered September this week. Japan's Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries tender from July 1 did not include CWRS wheat. The next MAFF tender on July 9 will include two cargoes of CWRS for September shipment.

Asian corn prices rose further July 2 amid another rally in the Chicago Board of Trade futures, while Asian feed millers were driven to the sidelines by the higher prices.

Platts assessed feed quality corn CFR Northeast Asia up $1.50/metric ton at $260/mt for cargoes arriving over Sept. 30 to Oct. 30.

South Korean feed millers were absent, with a South Korean trader saying, "This week I didn't hear anything [deal or bid-wise]...[buyers are] still looking for previously done deal levels."

The most recent deal was $257.91/mt CFR Pyeongtaek, according to Platts data.

South American-origin corn was offered at $257/mt CFR Vietnam for August-September shipment partial cargoes, up $2/mt day over day, while buyers expected $255/mt CFR for a deal to be concluded, according to a Vietnamese feed miller.

Vietnam's October-November arrival coverage was estimated at 70%-85%, according to the feed miller and a Vietnamese grains importer source.

The Vietnamese importer said that "feed production is not good, the market is slow now."

US Pacific Northwest corn basis offer indications for September shipment were heard in the high 150's cents/bu over September (U) Chicago Board of Trade futures contract, unchanged day over day.

"US Pacific Northwest is becoming less competitive with the incoming soybeans program, so it is expected that destination prices will be based on South American origin corn. So far, Pacific Northwest [corn market] is very quiet with not many suppliers giving rates," said a Japan-based trader.

New crop October shipment US Pacific Northwest corn was indicated at 145 cents/bushel over December (Z) CBOT, although a Singapore-based trader said "elevators refuse to offer since they need to sell soybeans rather than corn."

Platts assessed Latin American FOB corn prices mixed on July 2, with FOB Santos prices increasing and FOB Up River prices dropping.

Argentine FOB Up River premiums for August loading decreased amid lower offers and bids.

The Brazilian FOB Santos premiums for August loading were unchanged and continued with absence of clear bids.

The US dollar to Brazilian real exchange rate stood at Real 5.2224/$1 as of 5:30 pm Brasilia time, down 0.05% day over day.

In Brazil's domestic market, prices were steady in the Sorriso and Rio Verde regions amid an increase in the Maringá region.

The Paraná State Agribusiness Department reported on June 30 that the winter corn harvest reached 5% of the state area as of June 29. Regarding crop conditions, 79% were rated as good.

Elsewhere, DERAL reported that the winter corn crop in Paraná showed a predominance of areas in the fruiting and grain-maturing stages, with overall good development supported by soil moisture. Harvest is slow, often constrained by high grain moisture and rainfall. There was concern about potential impacts from frost and earlier dry spells on both yield and quality, although, in most areas, the damage was considered limited.

Platts US Corn Daily Commentary

- US corn prices rise on weather concerns
- Exports are down 1.5% but beat last year 37.4%
- USDA releases Crop Progress report July 6

US corn Platts outright prices increased on July 2, tracking the Chicago Board of Trade, where September (U) contracts gained 0.2 cents during the session to $4.2300/bushel.

“Stronger board with some weather uncertainty supporting prices,” a broker said.

Mindy Mcmurtry, corn analyst at S&P Global Energy CERA, said that the market may think that corn condition will be compromised due to the heat expected over the weekend in the Corn Belt.

“I don’t think that it should have that major of an impact since it’s supposed to be short-term,” Mcmurtry said, noting that moisture conditions were good across the Corn Belt and more rain was in the forecast.

On July 6, the US Department of Agriculture will release the Crop Progress report.

Meanwhile, for the week ended July 25, the USDA confirmed 732,200 metric tons of corn exports, a 1.5% decrease from the prior week and 37.4% above the same week last year, according to the Export Sales report released on July 2.

Sales came primarily from Mexico, Colombia, Portugal, Spain, and Japan. These were offset by reductions in El Salvador and Morocco.

USDA reported total export commitments of 3,361 million bushels for the marketing year 2025-26 (September-August), representing 99.6% of CERA’s current projections.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed on July 2 the outright price for July shipments to New Orleans in the incoterm CIF at $203.15/mt and for August shipments at $205.10/mt. For September shipments under the FOB Gulf incoterm, the price was $210.24/mt.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- New crop prices climb amid supply shift
- Turkey demand weakens as quota ends July 31

The Black Sea corn market improved marginally July 2, with buyers, although limited in number, active.

The lowest offer of $222/metric ton for July loading was traded July 1, making the most competitive offer for the day $224/mt for July-August shipment.

In addition, some multinationals were switching to the new corn crop as liquidity for the old crop diminished, and port facilities were busy with wheat.

“Logistics is running with wheat, and there is no liquidity in the old-crop corn,” a seller said.

The seller said about 3 million metric tons of old crop corn is still available for sale in Ukraine.

Offers for the new crop increased. In the FOB market, offers for November shipments ranged from $229/mt to $231/mt, while bids were in the low $220s/mt.

The impact of heatwaves in Europe on corn has yet to be seen, traders said. Ukraine experienced its highest temperatures on June 30, according to a trader there.

On the destination side, demand from Turkey remains subdued as its 3 million mt tariff quota for corn imports, with a

Platts Asia Soybean Daily Commentary

- CFR China rises on higher CBOT
- July demand coverage almost completed

The Platts-assessed CFR China soybean month-one August shipment was at $500.27/metric ton July 2, up $1.84/mt day over day, while basis was down 7 cents/bushel at 223 cents/bu over Aug (Q) Chicago Board of Trade futures.

Overnight, trading activity was subdued due to worsening domestic crush margins in China, according to a Chinese soybean trader.

“There may be some CFR China trades at cheap prices, but volumes are likely limited. After all, the Brazilian basis premiums have not weakened much, and old-crop soybean prices are holding up relatively well,” a second Chinese soybean trader said.

CBOT November (X) futures rose for the day, increasing 7.75 cents day over day to 1,154 cents/bu at the 0830 GMT Asian close July 2. Meanwhile, Brazilian basis premiums for September shipment eased 2 cents/bu day over day to 233 cents/bu over Nov (X) CBOT, basis CFR China.

A third Chinese soybean trader said their August shipments volumes have been fully sold, noting that trading activity is expected to be limited.

As of June 30, 99% of the total open demand, at 9.5 million mt of the July shipment, has been covered, according to the same trader.

Meanwhile, 83% of the total open demand, at 8 million mt, for the August shipment has been covered, the trader added. For the September shipment, open demand decreased to approximately 4.9 million mt, while open demand for the October shipment stands at 8.2 million mt.

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- Brazil soybean prices rise 37 cents/mt
- Paraná harvests record 26.3 million mt crop

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed the SOYBEX FOB Santos soybean contract for August loading at $457.94/metric ton on July 2, up 37 cents/mt from the previous assessment.

Nearby CBOT soybean futures settled slightly higher, driven by bargain buying and light short covering ahead of the US three-day holiday weekend, analysts said. Traders remained focused on favorable Midwest weather and potential Chinese purchases of US soybeans.

Paraná, Brazil's second-largest agricultural state, harvested a record 26.3 million mt of grains in the 2025-26 summer crop season, up 6% from a year earlier, according to Deral, the state's Department of Rural Economy.

The increase was driven by strong soybean yields and a recovery in corn production, reinforcing Paraná's standing as one of the country's leading agricultural producers.

Soybean production reached 21.8 million mt in 2025-26, remaining the state's main summer crop. Meanwhile, corn output recovered to 4.1 million mt from 3.1 million mt in the previous season, contributing significantly to overall growth, Deral reported.

Trading activity remained tepid in the Brazilian soybean FOB market, with no trades heard day over day.

Despite a slowdown in Chinese demand this week, market sources reported that the country still needs to buy an additional 7 million mt of soybeans to meet its August and September demand.

The US dollar versus the Brazilian real settled at Real 5.2090/$1 at 4:30 pm Brasilia time. Domestic soybean prices were higher across the main producing regions.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for August shipment $1.10/metric ton up from July 1 at $454.24/mt. Platts assessed basis for FOB Gulf for August shipment remained unchanged day over day at 100 cents/bushel over the August (Q) soybeans futures contract.

Platts assessed the outright price for CIF New Orleans for July shipment $2.02/mt up from the previous business day at $447.81/mt. Platts assessed basis for CIF NOLA for July shipment remained steady day over day at 87 cents/bu over the July (N) soybeans futures contract.

Sources reported limited trading ahead of the long weekend, with many participants out on the day.

"It's very quiet on my end," a trader in the CIF NOLA market said. "The only thing higher right now is soybean oil, which is finally finding some support with RINs moving a little higher."

CBOT futures rose on the day, with the July (N) contract increasing 5.5 cents on the day to 1131.75 cents/bu, and the August (Q) contract climbing 3 cents to 1136.25 cents/bu.

The US Department of Agriculture reported bearish weekly export sales in its US Export Sales weekly report, showing that during the period of June 19-25 about 41,800 mt of soybeans were sold for the 2025-26 marketing year – a marketing year low.

The total was "down 91% from the previous week and 88% from the prior 4-week average," the document said. About 65,400 mt were bought by China, 27,600 mt by Japan, and 10,400 mt by Taiwan.

"The weekly export sales offered little support to the market," a trader in the FOB Gulf market said. "Soybeans registered their lower volume during this commercial campaign, and once more there was no confirmation of the sales that the market attributes to China."

Weather in the corn belt is expected to have additional rain, the source said, but warm temperatures remain, although heat would be located more to the South and West compared to previous forecasts.

Platts Latin America Soybean Meal Daily Commentary

- FOB spot prices post minor changes
- FOB Paranaguá weakens for August

South American soybean meal FOB prices posted minor changes July 2 amid slightly higher Chicago Board of Trade futures and steady prompt premiums reported.

In Brazil, the FOB Paranaguá paper market again saw some August parcels negotiated, but a weaker tone was indicated as offer levels decreased throughout the session.

Argentina's FOB Up River, in turn, remained mostly quiet, with price discussions for August-loading cargoes standing at minus $3-$5/short ton to the CBOT futures.

The Argentine soybean crush totaled 4.20 million metric tons in May, according to government data, surpassing the S&P Global Energy CERA forecast of 4.10 million mt.

Platts European Animal Feed Daily Commentary

- Dutch soybean meal offer rises to $411/mt
- Spanish corn prices climb following CBOT
- Spain completes 90% of barley harvest

Northern Europe

The Dutch soybean meal market was active July 2.

The broker FOB Netherlands offer rose to $411/mt, up by $3/mt from the previous day, for the July loading period.

According to a corn broker, corn demand in the Netherlands is very slow now, as buyers focus on barley and feed wheat purchases. He added that this is because corn is very expensive compared to other grains.

Southern Europe

The Spanish corn market marginally increased day over day; market participants said the price is following the CBOT rally.

A broker mentioned that offers went up to Eur226/mt from Eur222/mt day over day, but buyer interest is very low.

He added that in Spain, 90% of the barley harvest is complete, but farmers are not happy with the prices.

Platts US Distiller Grains DDGS Daily Commentary

- Market stabilizes after recent drops
- Holiday slows market activity

The US dried distillers' grains with solubles market was quiet July 2, as trading remained limited with many participants stepping away ahead of the US Independence Day holiday.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed CIF New Orleans dried distillers' grains with solubles barges for the July shipment period at $182/short ton, the Chicago DDGS truck market for the July delivery period was assessed at $166/st, and the Southern California rail market for the July delivery period was assessed at $210/st.

One trader said the market appears to be stabilizing after recent sharp declines. "The market seems to be recovering after last week," the trader said, adding that participation remained light. "There aren't many people in the office this week ... holiday mode."

A broker also reported modestly stronger indications. "Seeing some firmer bids out there," the broker said, adding that engagement remained limited. "Not seeing very many engaged," the source said, noting that slightly higher futures were providing some support. The broker added that some participants were beginning to show interest in deferred shipment periods.

A buyer said values in the Central/Northeast truck market fell quickly over the past two weeks, but have become more mixed this week. Slightly firmer corn prices have offered some support, although the upcoming holiday has encouraged plants to move product.

The buyer added that there are early signs that export demand may be improving. "Hearing maybe exports are back," the source said. However, healthy ethanol margins continue to encourage strong production, suggesting supplies should remain ample. The buyer expects values to weaken again after the holiday weekend.

The Asian palm oil market declined July 2, as palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia fell following a decline in crude oil prices after Middle East peace talks and a decline in other rival oils, losses capped by a stronger ringgit against the dollar and a rise in Chinese soybean oil.

Malaysia's export data for June 1-30, when compared to the previous month, showed increases; SGS reported a 7.15% increase for June 1-30 to 972,710mt, up from 907,763mt in May 2026.

Indonesia's B50 mandate took effect on July 1, including the 3-month transition where retailers can clear their existing inventories.

The benchmark palm oil contract for September delivery on the Bursa Malaysia commodity exchange fell MR50/mt to MR4507/mt on July 2.

The Indian market was slow on July 2 with two trades heard, with total volume 7-8kt at $1217 for July and August.

"We are waiting to see if demand might pick up more in the next 10-15 days with the August festive starting in the upcoming month," an India-based trader said.

Platts assessed CPO CFR WC India price at $1,216/mt July 2 for July loading, down $1.50/mt from July 1, while August shipment was $5/mt higher than July.

Platts assessed CPO FOB Indonesia at $1,180/mt July 2 for July loading, down $6.25/mt from July 1, while August shipment was $10/mt higher than July.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- Brazilian, Argentine soy oil FOB prices fall
- CBOT August futures rise 0.12% to 66.77¢/lb
- Basis levels ease after mid-June recovery

Brazilian and Argentine soybean oil FOB markets weakened July 2 as Chicago Board of Trade soybean oil futures posted modest gains, while FOB basis levels in both countries eased following the strong recovery seen during the second half of June.

CBOT August soybean oil futures rose 0.12% day over day to settle at 66.77 cents/pound. Market participants said soybean oil futures traded in a relatively narrow range as the market consolidated following the sharp correction seen in recent weeks. Traders continued to monitor favorable US crop conditions, abundant global soybean supplies, and the implications of the USDA acreage and quarterly stocks data released earlier this week.

In Argentina, Platts assessed the soybean oil FOB Up River price for August loading at $1,154.56/mt, down $7.06/mt day over day. The basis for August loading in the Up River paper market was assessed 40 points lower at minus 1,440 points to August (Q) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

In Brazil, Platts assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for August loading at $1,172.20/mt July 2, down $4.85/mt. The basis for August loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 30 points lower at minus 1,360 points to the August (Q) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Platts also assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for September loading at $1,149.49/mt July 2, down $5.95/mt. The basis for September loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 30 points lower at minus 1,420 points to the September (U) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Market participants said the modest weakening in FOB basis reflected a pause in the recent recovery that has characterized South American soybean oil markets since mid-June. Despite the decline, basis values in both Argentina and Brazil remained substantially stronger than the historically weak discounts recorded in early June, continuing to support physical export values.

Participants added that the divergence between financial and physical soybean oil markets remained evident. While CBOT soybean oil futures continued to be driven primarily by expectations for large US and South American soybean supplies, speculative positioning, and macroeconomic sentiment, South American FOB markets remained underpinned by steady export demand and active commercial participation.

Traders also noted that Brazil's record soybean crop and crush outlook continued to provide ample soybean oil availability for export. Nevertheless, the resilience of FOB basis levels suggested that physical market conditions remained firmer than futures market performance alone would imply, with export demand continuing to absorb available supplies.

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- Black Sea sunflower oil offers stay firm
- Rapeseed oil prices show mixed moves
- Malaysia palm oil exports rise 7.15% in June

The Black Sea sunflower oil market was stable July 2 as market participants highlighted firm offers against no bids on the day.

Muted trading activity was observed in the Ukrainian market on the day.

The FOB-6-Ports sunoil markets saw lower offers on the day at $1,495/metric ton for August loading, down $5/mt day over day against no bids.

Platts assessed FOB Black Sea sunflower oil at $1,379/mt, unchanged day over day.

Conversely, rapeseed oil markets were mixed across the curve.

Platts assessed the FOB Dutch Mill RSO front run at Eur1,146/mt, up Eur2 despite decreases in the related Euronext front-month rapeseed futures contract, which settled at Eur505.25/mt, down Eur2 day over day.

Meanwhile, the second run showed a Eur4 loss day over day at Eur1,144/mt, while the third run stood flat at Eur1,134/mt. At the end of the curve, the fourth run was assessed at Eur1,131/mt, down Eur1 day over day.

Elsewhere in veg oil markets, Asia palm oil prices fell on the day, mirroring crude oil prices after Middle East peace talks and drops in rival oils.

In data news, Malaysia's export data for June 1-30, compared with the previous month, showed an uptick; SGS reported a 7.15% increase to 972,710 mt, up from 907,763 mt in May.

MONTHLY ASIA CORN WRAP: Prices dip in June on favorable weather, US-Iran ceasefire

- Asian corn prices fall $14/mt in June
- South Korea buys 12 cargoes for Oct-Nov arrival
- US-Iran peace deal cuts freight $6-$10/mt

Asian corn prices declined in June, weighed by favorable weather reports and a ceasefire between the US and Iran midmonth that brought grain bulk freight rates lower.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed the feed quality corn CFR Northeast Asia price at $256/metric ton June 30, down $14/mt month over month.

South Korean feed milling groups maintained a strong buying pace, with 12 Panamax-sized corn cargoes procured for the October-November arrival period, with cargoes purchased on an average of 140 days forward, compared to the usual arrival window of 90 to 120 days forward and the previous month's average of 128 days forward, according to Platts hears data.

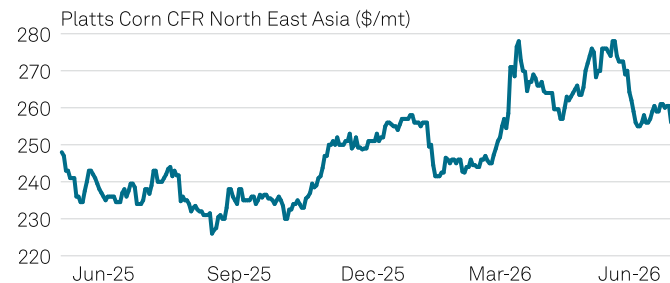

Two of the South Korean deals were said to be for South American-origin corn, while the remaining 10 cargoes were likely US Pacific Northwest-origin corn, several trader sources said.

Market participants held bearish sentiment towards the corn market as "there is good weather in the US playing the biggest impact and also uncertainty that China will actually purchase US products as promised," a Singapore-based trader said.

Following the peace deal between the US and Iran on June 14, freight rates eased $6-$10/mt month over month in June.

US Pacific Northwest to Pyeongtaek freight rates were reported at the range of $34-$36/mt for October/November shipments, while Argentina-Pyeongtaek freight was reported at $54-$55/mt and Brazil-Pyeongtaek freight for August/September shipments was estimated at $48/mt, in a survey of several grain traders on June 25.

Platts Asia EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $227.5/metric ton July 2, down 50 cents from the previous assessment. Russian 12.5% handysize wheat, assessed at $227.5/mt, was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes Ukraine 11.5% at $233.13/mt when adding June's quality normalization of $6.63/mt, to account for its lower protein content, and CVB 12.5% wheat assessed at $235.75/mt on the day. The structure between the second half of July and the first half of August was assessed flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 30-Aug. 13.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) down 50 cents at $227.5/mt July 2, below an offer at $228/mt and above a bid at $227/mt. The structure between the second half of July and the first half of August was assessed flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 30-Aug. 13.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) down $2.50/mt at $224/mt on July 2, below an offer at $225/mt, and above bid at $223/mt. The structure between the second half of July and the first half of August was assessed flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 30-Aug. 13.

Exclusions: No market data was excluded from the July 2 Black Sea wheat assessments.
