Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Black Sea wheat trades spot $221.50/mt
- Ukraine's August exports plunge 68% on month

The Black Sea wheat market was mostly unchanged on Aug. 10 as the market focused on spot demand on attacks on ships in the Black Sea.

Russian 12.5% Novossossik traded $221.50/metric ton for the spot market, with no trade inquiries heard for September deals. Offers for September were heard at $225/mt, with no firm FOB bids. The Baltic market traded at $240/mt in the week ended Aug. 7 and at $241.50/mt on Aug. 10 for September, with offers at $245/mt and bids at $241/mt.

Ukraine continued to see very little trading activity, with some flows via the Danube River. A reseller cargo tried to offer at $227/mt.

Wheat exports have totaled 93,200 mt so far in August, compared to 294,900 mt in the same period in July. Overall, grain shipments by rail toward the Greater Odesa ports fell to 40,000 mt, down from 84% in July, according to local lineup data.

The CVB market had bids at flat to Matif September, with offers at €7/mt over Matif for the 11.5% and 12.5% offers at €12/mt over the contract.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- December futures drop 7.25 cents amid volatility
- Crop quality uncertainty delays farmer sales

Platts assessed Canada Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward at $297.63/metric tons on Aug. 10, $2.66/mt lower than the last session, with limited fresh price discovery as futures moved lower while basis indications for October and November remained around recently heard levels.

The December Minneapolis Hard Red Spring wheat futures contract fell 7.25 cents/bu to settle at 695.00 cents/bu, continuing the volatility seen across the spring wheat market in recent sessions.

In the physical market, one trader indicated that 110-115 cents/bu over the December Minneapolis wheat futures contract (MWZ) remained representative for both October and November. "From what I have heard, that 110-115 MWZ seems to be in line for Oct and Nov," the trader said.

The Canadian wheat market remains cautious as both buyers and farmers wait for greater clarity on futures and the developing crop. Another trader described the market as "pretty lackluster" after an initially volatile start, with many

"trying to see where the futures are going." The trader added that buyers remain reluctant at current prices, while farmers are also hesitant to commit new-crop supplies amid uncertainty over yields and quality and the risk of weather damage before harvest.

Crop quality remains particularly uncertain, with less than 1% harvested. Excessive rainfall in northern growing areas has caused flooding and is expected to reduce yields while potentially diluting protein, the trader mentioned. In southern areas, early heavy rainfall initially pressured protein expectations, although recent hot, dry weather has improved the outlook somewhat. "The protein is higher than it was a month ago, but it's probably going to be lower than it is normally," the trader said, adding, "I think it's going to be a lower protein crop." Grade remains another key uncertainty until harvest progresses, leaving market participants cautious about forward commitments.

Corn

Platts Latin America Corn Daily Commentary

- Premiums in Latin America remain steady
- Corn harvest is almost finished in Mato Grosso

Platts assessed Latin America FOB corn prices lower on Aug. 10, along with Chicago Board of Trade futures.

The FOB Up River premiums for September loading and the Brazilian FOB Santos premiums for September loading were steady throughout the day.

The US dollar/Brazilian real exchange rate stood at 5.1085 reais/$1 as of 5:30 pm Brasilia time, up 0.21% day over day.

In Brazil's domestic market, prices were steady in the Sorriso and Rio Verde regions but fell in the Maringá region.

The number of silo-bags used for corn storage in the state of Mato Grosso increased compared with the previous crop, a cooperative said.

Winter corn crop harvest in Brazil's Center-South region reached 79% as of Aug. 6, up from 69% a week earlier but lower than 88% in the year-ago week, according to private consultancy AgRural on Aug. 10.

AgRural reported that harvest progress slowed in parts of Paraná, Mato Grosso do Sul, and São Paulo due to moisture from the rains. In the other states, mostly dry weather prevailed, supporting progress. In Mato Grosso, only the southern part of the state still had harvesters in the field.

In Mato Grosso, Brazil's largest corn-producing state, the winter corn harvest reached 99.10% of the planted area as of Aug. 7. In the same week in 2025, 98.72% had already been harvested in Mato Grosso, the state's Institute of Agricultural Economics reported on Aug. 7.

Estimates release Aug. 12.

"Market is very quiet, southern harvest starting to roll," a trader said. "Farmers [are] likely waiting to see what report does this week before selling any more."

"Extremely quiet session as trade limps into the August WASDE," a broker said.

The market is focused mainly on the agency's new-crop area, yield, and production forecasts. After a hot and dry July, particularly for the Western Corn Belt, analysts with S&P Global Energy CERA expect the USDA to lower its expectations for yield and production.

CERA forecast US corn production at 15.912 billion bushels, down 283 million bu from the previous forecast. The reduced forecast reflects lower yields and fewer harvested acres.

"Very quiet lately, both corn and beans, despite the China soybeans buying," said another trader. "I think it's mostly due to farmers being quiet lately."

Related to exports, the USDA confirmed 1.702 million metric tons of yellow corn inspected for export in the week ended Aug. 6, down 9.8% from the prior week. Major destinations for the corn were Mexico, Japan, Colombia, and South Korea.

USDA reported cumulative inspections reached 3.110 billion bushels, representing 91% of S&P Global Energy CERA's projection.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed August CIF New Orleans corn at $212.30/mt and September at $217.05/mt Aug. 10, while October FOB Gulf was assessed at $227.85/mt.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- Black Sea corn trading slows significantly
- Bulgaria corn exports drop sharply in July

The Black Sea corn market remained stable on Aug. 10 amid slow trading activity for Ukrainian corn.

A seller from Ukraine said, "The market is not active. Overland business only." The seller added, "Only 40,000 metric tons were customs-cleared during Aug. 1-9."

Corn flows from Ukraine through the Danube are becoming slightly more active; however, traders said flows remain small, and the water level in the Danube is insufficient to support a consistent flow.

S&P Global Energy CERA has marginally decreased its forecast for Ukraine's 2026/27 corn production by 0.2 million mt to 32.1 million mt due to lower yields. While the weather was favorable for corn development in July, recent forecasts indicate predominantly hot, dry conditions in the first half of August, which could still limit yield potential, according to a CERA report.

Total corn exports from Bulgaria in July were only 2,000 mt, down from around 18,400 mt in July 2025.

A broker from Bulgaria said, "For 2024 and 2025, only coasters were traded for corn." Meanwhile, regarding Bulgaria's new crop, the broker said that only forward buyers were present in the market, and no sellers had been seen. The broker added, "Only bids and no sales for the new-crop corn, and the weather was beneficial for us in the Balkans."

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- Slow trading activity in Paranaguá
- CBOT futures rise on trader positioning

Platts assessed the SOYBEX FOB Santos soybean contract for September loading at $488.25/metric ton on Aug. 10, up $1.01/mt from the previous assessment.

CBOT soybean futures settled higher, as traders adjusted positions ahead of this week's US Department of Agriculture supply and demand report.

According to market analysts, the market remained caught between expectations for large global supplies and supportive factors, including recent Chinese purchases of US soybeans and lingering concerns about August weather during the critical pod-filling stage in parts of the Midwest.

While export demand and recent Chinese purchases of US soybeans provided some underlying support, the market remained focused on improving yield prospects ahead of next week's USDA World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates report.

Brazil is expected to export a record 114 million mt of soybeans in 2026, nearly 5% above the previous year, according to Anec, the Brazilian Grain Exporters Association.

The increase in shipments is expected to place additional strain on storage capacity, highways, rail networks, and port infrastructure amid another year of strong soybean production.

The growing pace of exports is already being reflected at the ports. According to data released by the Port Authority of Santos, the port has shipped 92.8 million mt of cargo in the first half of the year, up 5.05% from the same period in 2025. Soybeans remained Santos' leading export commodity, with 25.61 million mt shipped during the period.

There was slow trading activity to start the week in the Brazilian FOB soybean market, with no trades heard on the day.

For the first time in 2026, China booked more soybean cargoes from the US than from Brazil, according to the previous week's numbers, sources said.

The US dollar versus the Brazilian real settled at 5.1105 reais per dollar at 4:30 pm Brasilia time. Domestic soybean prices were higher in the main producing regions.

Platts US Soybeans Daily Commentary

- Outright export price rises, CIF NOLA price falls on day
- Futures, steady basis boost FOB Gulf outright price

The US soybeans market saw a quiet day in the export market on Aug. 10 as the outright price for FOB Gulf increased, boosted by futures, while CIF New Orleans prices fell.

Platts assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for September shipment $1.19/metric ton higher on the session at $478.22/mt. Platts assessed basis for FOB Gulf for September shipment remained unchanged day over day at 122 cents/bushel over the November (X) soybeans futures contract.

Platts assessed the outright price for CIF NOLA for August shipment $1.01/mt lower at $470.14/mt. Platts assessed basis for CIF NOLA for August shipment fell 6 cents day over day to 100 cents/bu over the November (X) soybeans futures contract.

Sources in the export market reported a quiet day in trading, with bids and offers at the same level as those heard on Aug. 7, but with Chicago Board of Trade futures boosting the outright price. November (X) contract increased 3.25 cents to 1179.5 cents/bu on Aug 10.

"Everybody I talk to is playing catch-up on paperwork today and not trading," a trader in the FOB Gulf market said.

CIF NOLA sources said there was some activity in the market

One trader in the CIF NOLA market said second-half August traded at 102 cents/bu over the November (X) futures contract.

"Those soybeans are really only going to one place: New Orleans," the trader added.

The US Department of Agriculture published its Grains Inspected and/or Weighed for Export weekly report, showing that 399,201 mt of soybeans were inspected during the week ended Aug. 6. The volume was 51,955 mt higher on the week but 145,143 mt lower on the year.

About 86,260 mt went to Germany, 81,851 mt went to Mexico and 65,935 mt went to China, the USDA data showed.

The USDA is expected to publish its monthly World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates report on Aug. 12.

Platts Latin America Soybean Meal Daily Commentary

- FOB prices fall, tracking lower futures
- FOB Paranaguá basis strengthens

South American soybean meal FOB prices fell Aug. 10, tracking lower Chicago Board of Trade futures, as the September (U) contract settled at $305.50/short ton, down $3.40.

In Argentina, price discussions for FOB Up River September-loading cargoes widened to $9-$12/st over the CBOT benchmarks, without trades heard.

Regarding Brazil's FOB Paranaguá, nearby premiums strengthened amid higher offers and bids. The session was generally calm, with no trades reported.

The market's attention has increasingly turned to the upcoming 2026-27 Brazilian soybean crop, with planting in some areas starting in September.

S&P Global Energy CERA analysts see a "challenging environment for farmers" due to El Niño-related concerns and rising fertilizer costs. They project an acreage expansion of only 300,000 hectares to 49.10 million hectares in the new cycle.

"Although the recent recovery in soybean cash prices has provided some support to farm profitability, we estimate that 20%-25% of the current crop remains unsold," the analysts said in the Global Soybean Complex Short-Term Outlook released Aug. 7. "As a result, the price rally is unlikely to materially improve the average price received by farmers during the season."

Platts European Animal Feed Daily Commentary

- Dutch soybean meal prices drop €1/mt
- Summer holidays drain market liquidity
- Spanish feed prices hold steady at €230/mt

Northern Europe

The Dutch soybean meal market started the week on a slightly softer note Aug. 10. Platts assessed the market down €1/metric ton at €355/mt.

Market participants cited sluggish activity and demand as the peak summer holiday period drains liquidity. Buyers were comfortable with their coverage, and with minimal nearby inquiry, sellers had to lower their expectations. The forward structure was assessed as flat, reflecting a lack of nearby buying pressure.

Southern Europe

In Spain, animal feed prices ended stable day over day, with both corn and soybean meal offers in line with the assessments.

The ex-works Spain corn and soybean meal prices were assessed unchanged at €230/mt and €363/mt, respectively, EXW Tarragona, Aug. 10.

A Spain-based trader said the market was exceptionally quiet, with many participants away on holiday and few buyers active. Buyers were well covered and sellers lacked leverage to force higher prices. Spot prices have held at similar levels to the previous week.

although participants reported continued container demand from Vietnam and some domestic business in the Eastern US.

Platts assessed CIF New Orleans dried distillers grains with solubles barges for the August shipment period at $204/short ton Aug. 10. The Chicago DDGS truck market for the August delivery period was assessed at $183/st, and the South California rail market for the August delivery period was assessed at $227/st.

One broker said Vietnam was “definitely in the hunt for DDGS,” after receiving inquiries over the weekend. While some inquiries appeared to be buyers checking market levels, the volume of interest suggested actual purchasing was taking place.

“With so many asking, they are definitely buying,” the broker said, adding that the business was focused on containers.

Domestic activity remained limited, although the broker reported some Eastern trade, including around 80 trucks for October-November-December. Ethanol plants were also seeking forward sales, while soybean meal basis was described as slightly weaker.

Meanwhile, a trader said CIF NOLA activity remained subdued. “There isn’t much activity in CIF,” the trader said. “Every day, bids and offers change, but they maintain the distance.”

“No trades,” the trader added regarding the Chicago trucks and CIF NOLA markets.

The trader said greater market clarity could eventually encourage more transactions.

“When there is more definition, there will probably be more trades,” the source said.

Platts Asia Palm Oil Daily Commentary

- Asian palm oil surges
- Malaysia exports rise up to 14.8% early Aug
- India prefers palm oil over soybean oil

The Asian palm oil market surged Aug. 10, with palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia rising on the strength of rival vegetable oil futures and stronger export estimates for Malaysia.

Malaysia’s palm oil exports data by cargo surveyor for Aug. 1-10, compared with the same period last month, show increases: Amspec reported 432,742 metric tons, up 14.8%; Intertek Testing Services reported 445,466 mt, up 2.62%.

The benchmark palm oil contract for October delivery on the Bursa Malaysia commodity exchange increased MR47/mt to MR4,724/metric ton Aug. 10.

The benchmark RBD Palm Olein for September delivery on the Dalian Commodity Exchange rose RMB 55/mt to RMB 9,406/mt Aug. 10.

The benchmark Soybean Oil for September delivery on the Dalian Commodity Exchange soared RMB 10/mt to RMB 8,433/mt Aug. 10.

The Indian market was slow amid Singapore’s holiday, with no trades heard day over day.

Buyers were not aggressive in purchasing and were not chasing the market as prices rose, an India-based trader said.

Soybean oil offers were heard at $1,280-$1,295/mt on a CFR West Coast India basis for September to December shipment.

The spread was around $30-40/mt between palm oil and soybean oil. India buying preference remained on palm oil compared to soybean oil.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- South American soy oil FOB prices rise Aug. 10
- Argentine basis weakens 110 points in September
- Brazil retains $2.21/mt premium over Argentina

South American soybean oil FOB prices strengthened Aug. 10 as a rally in Chicago Board of Trade soybean oil futures more than offset weaker export basis values in Argentina and Brazil.

CBOT September soybean oil futures settled at 69.53 cents/lb, up 1.29 cents/lb, or 1.89%, from Aug. 7. The stronger futures market lifted outright South American export values, although regional basis levels weakened as participants adjusted differentials to the higher underlying market.

In Argentina, Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed soybean oil FOB Up River for September loading at $1,197.77/mt Aug. 10, up $4.19/mt from Aug. 7.

The September Up River paper basis weakened 110 points to minus 1,520 points against the CBOT September soybean oil futures contract. The decline in basis absorbed a substantial portion of the futures rally, limiting the increase in the outright FOB assessment.

In Brazil, Platts assessed soybean oil FOB Paranaguá for September loading at $1,199.98/mt, up $1.99/mt from Aug. 7.

The September Paranaguá paper basis weakened 120 points to minus 1,510 points against CBOT September futures. Brazilian September soybean oil retained a $2.21/mt premium to the comparable Argentine assessment, while the Paranaguá basis stood 10 points stronger than the Up River basis.

Brazil's October market also strengthened in outright terms. Platts assessed soybean oil FOB Paranaguá for October loading at $1,194.91/mt, up $5.52/mt from Aug. 7.

The October Paranaguá paper basis weakened 100 points to minus 1,510 points against the CBOT October soybean oil futures contract. September and October basis values were therefore assessed at parity, while September retained a $5.07/mt premium in outright terms.

Market participants said the Aug. 10 session continued a pattern seen throughout recent weeks in which South American basis levels moved inversely to sharp changes in CBOT futures. Basis values strengthened substantially during the late-July futures selloff, cushioning outright FOB prices, while subsequent futures recoveries have prompted exporters to lower differentials.

Despite Aug. 10's substantial basis adjustment, South American outright prices remained close to $1,200/mt, highlighting the relative stability of physical soybean oil values compared with recent fluctuations in CBOT futures.

With Argentina's recent pilotage disruption resolved and navigation along the Paraná River normalized, traders said regional attention remained focused on export demand, crush economics and the relative competitiveness of Brazilian and Argentine soybean oil.

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- Rapeseed oil extends recovery across curve
- Indian sunflower oil availability continues tightening
- Black Sea logistics support sunflower prices

European vegetable oil markets strengthened on Aug. 10, with rapeseed oil extending its recovery across the forward curve while Black Sea sunflower oil remained unchanged.

Rapeseed oil FOB Dutch Mills front-month rose €11/metric ton to €1,186/mt, while the second position increased €12/mt to €1,161/mt. Third and fourth positions increased €14/mt and €8/mt to €1,157/mt and €1,101/mt, respectively. FOB Black Sea sunflower oil remained assessed at $1,379/mt.

Rapeseed oil has now recovered for several consecutive sessions following the sharp correction at the beginning of August. Gains were relatively broad across the curve, although the substantial premium for nearby material remained intact. The structure continued to indicate greater tightness in prompt availability despite expectations for improved new-crop supply as the European harvest progresses.

Black Sea sunflower oil remained unchanged amid continued limited FOB market activity, although signs of tightening availability have become increasingly apparent at destination markets. A source based in India said sunflower oil prices were firming locally as availability declined, with several shippers citing logistical difficulties and requesting shipment extensions of up to one month. July and August shipments are expected to be lower, potentially providing additional support to Indian domestic prices.

Logistics remain the principal risk to sunflower oil supply. The India-based source said restrictions on vessels entering the Black Sea through Turkey were creating additional challenges, while the potential for further escalation in the Russia-Ukraine conflict could disrupt supply and shipping.

The combination of reduced shipment availability, delayed cargoes and persistent Black Sea uncertainty continued to support sunflower oil despite expectations for larger new-crop production.

Brazilian corn exports to Middle East fall 20% YOY in Jan.-July: Secex

- Iran, Saudi Arabia, Israel largest importers
- July corn imports into bloc jump 375% MOM

Brazil-origin corn exports to Middle East totaled 2.6 million metric tons in January–July, down 20% from the same period a year earlier, according to monthly data from the Secretariat of Foreign Trade or Secex.

The corn exports include corn seed, corn in grain and corn except in grain.

Iran was the largest importer, followed by Saudi Arabia and Israel. Iran imported 1.54 million mt of corn during January–July, marking a 43% year-over-year decline, while Saudi Arabia's volumes rose 18% to 442,043 mt. Israel bought 214,712 mt, a 348% jump compared to the same period last year, according to Secex data.

Other key buyers were Iraq at 149,722 mt and Yemen at 135,504 mt.

Brazil's corn exports totaled 9.98 million mt during January–July, up 12% year over year, according to the data.

In July, corn exports to the Middle East dropped 27% year over year to 439,073 mt, but climbed 375% compared to last month, Secex data showed. The largest buyer was Israel at 214,669 mt, followed by Iran at 74,204 mt.

Brazil's July corn exports rebounded sharply by 370% month-over-month to 2.05 million metric tons, though shipments still lagged 15% behind last year's pace.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed Brazilian corn FOB Santos at $221.64/mt on Aug. 7, unchanged day over day.

US DATA: Corn export inspections fall 7.8% on week to 1.74 million mt

- Mexico leads US corn destinations with 422,988 mt
- MY 2025-26 exports as of Aug. 6 rise 25.1% on year

US corn export inspections fell 7.8% week over week to 1.74 million metric tons over July 31-Aug. 6, data from the US

Department of Agriculture showed Aug. 10.

Mexico was the top destination for US corn inspected for export, with 422,988 mt, followed by Japan with 328,351 mt and Colombia with 180,223 mt, the data showed.

Corn export inspections through Aug. 6 in marketing year 2025-26 (September–August) rose 25.1% year over year to 79.02 million mt, according to the USDA.

The USDA forecast MY 2025-26 corn exports at 84.46 million mt, up 15.7% year over year, in its July 10 World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates report.

Cumulative US corn export inspections remain above the five-year average, according to Mary Kate Scruggs, senior research analyst for corn and minor grains at S&P Global Energy CERA.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, last assessed US corn CIF New Orleans at $212.6/mt on Aug. 7, down 80 cents/mt day over day.

GLOBAL CORN WEEKLY: Asian, Black Sea and Latin American corn markets are bearish

- Asian corn demand slows
- FOB offers drop in Black Sea corn market
- US focuses on crop ratings

Asian corn prices slipped week over week Aug. 7 due to tepid demand from destination markets.

The Black Sea corn market turned bearish during the week as FOB offers dropped.

Asia

Asian corn prices slipped week over week Aug. 7 due to tepid demand from destination markets. Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed corn CFR Northeast Asia down $2/metric ton week over week to $272/mt.

The South Korean market was sluggish amid summer holidays and high temperatures, which depressed livestock feed demand, according to market sources. A South Korean feed milling group returned to the market Aug. 7 with an import tender for two cargoes for Dec. 10 and Dec. 20 arrivals. Demand is expected to increase in the following week ending Aug. 14 as buyers return from the holidays.

Vietnamese feed millers remained on the sidelines, waiting to see whether tensions in the Black Sea and Strait of Hormuz would ease and lead to lower prices. The offer-bid gap narrowed from a peak of $10/mt in the previous week to $4/mt for October–December shipments, according to a Singapore-based trader offering into Vietnam.

The Thai market saw a tender for imported US feed corn and open-origin feed wheat but passed on all offers, as its target price was $10/mt below the lowest offer received, according to market sources.

The local Thai corn harvest is expected to begin in September, and feed millers have started domestic procurement.

EMEA

The Black Sea corn market was bearish during the week as FOB offers fell amid higher freight rates due to an escalation of geopolitical tensions in the region.

Corn trading activity could remain limited for Ukraine, although some coaster trade was observed through the ports of Constanta in Romania and Izmail and Reni in Ukraine. Traders anticipate more activity by rail in the coming weeks amid lower water levels on the Danube.

Spain's corn market experienced downward pressure due to African swine fever outbreaks, particularly in Catalonia and Aragon, alongside Newcastle disease in poultry, which reduced regional feed consumption. This, coupled with high summer temperatures that have reduced livestock appetites, has weighed on demand. Market sentiment was bearish due to ample import availability and strong competition from feed wheat, which remained economically viable in rations, reducing buyers' incentive to increase corn inclusion. With most buyers already comfortably covered for their August and September requirements, spot interest slowed, and sellers found little leverage in pushing values higher.

Platts assessed Ukrainian corn FOB POC at $222/mt, Romanian and Bulgarian corn FOB CVB at $248/mt for Handysize cargoes loading Sept. 4-18, and ex-works Spanish corn at Eur230/mt on Aug. 7 for the Aug. 6 to Sept. 5 loading period.

Latin America

Corn prices dropped in Argentina for FOB Up River and in Brazil for FOB Santos in the week ended Aug. 7.

The Buenos Aires Grain Exchange reported Aug. 6 that the 2025-26 corn harvest in Argentina reached 73.7% as of Aug. 5, up 3.9 percentage points from the previous week.

Brazil's domestic corn prices increased in the Sorriso and Maringá regions, while dropping in the Rio Verde region.

Platts assessed spot corn in Sorriso, Mato Grosso, at Real 43.60/60 kg on Aug. 7, while prices in Rio Verde, Goiás, ended the week at Real 53.00/60 kg. Prices in Maringa, Parana, were at Real 61.10/60 kg.

According to a buyer in Mato Grosso state, buyers were more interested in negotiating to load in October or November.

The winter corn harvest reached 69.1% of the nationwide area as of July 31, down from 75.2% during the same period in 2024-25, according to data published by the Brazilian agricultural agency Conab on Aug. 3.

North America

In the week started Aug. 10, the US corn market was expected to track crop progress across the Corn Belt amid rains. The World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates report is due Aug. 12.

The latest crop progress report released by the US Department of Agriculture showed that 48% of the corn crop was rated in good condition, while 13% was rated in excellent condition.

The market expected conditions to improve following the rains in the Corn Belt.

In the WASDE report, the market would focus mainly on the agency's new-crop area, yield and production forecasts following hot, dry conditions in July, particularly in the Western Corn Belt. S&P Global Energy CERA expects the USDA to lower its yield and production expectations.

CERA forecast US corn production at 15.912 billion bushels, down 283 million bushels from the previous forecast. The reduction reflected lower yields and fewer harvested acres.

Platts assessed August CIF New Orleans corn at $217.30/mt and September at $217.30/mt on Aug. 7. October FOB Gulf was assessed at $228.35/mt.

Assessment Rationale

Grains

Platts Ags EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $223/metric ton on Aug. 10, unchanged from the previous assessment.

Russian 12.5% handysize wheat, assessed at $223/mt, was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes Ukraine 11.5% at $228.63/mt when adding July's quality normalization of $8.63/mt, to account for its lower protein content, and CVB 12.5% wheat assessed at $260/mt on the day. The structure between the first half of September and the second half of September was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Sep. 7 - 21.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) unchanged at $223/mt on Aug. 10, below an offer at $225/mt amid no firm FOB bids. The structure between the first half of September and the second half of September was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Sep 7 - 21.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) unchanged at $220/mt on Aug. 10, below an offer at $227/mt amid no firm FOB bids. Trading activity in Ukraine out of POC ports have significantly reduced due to strikes on port and export infrastructure. The structure between the first half of September and the second half of September was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Sep. 7 - 21.

Exclusions: No market data was excluded from the Aug. 10 Black Sea wheat assessments.
