Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Black Sea wheat prices stay flat, with bids of $224/mt
- Ship shortage disrupts Black Sea port flow

The Black Sea wheat market moved sideways Aug. 5 as traders worried about a shortage of vessels calling at Black Sea ports.

"The price doesn't matter; only available vessels," a Russian seller said about the difficulty in booking ships to export wheat amid security concerns.

"I have only seen $226-$227/metric ton offers, and I haven't heard any bids," said a second Russian seller. Some bids were at $223-$224/mt. The CIF Egypt sellers are at $266/mt, but "buyers are not eager to buy," said a third Russian seller, adding that a 7,000-metric-ton ship bid was at $262/mt.

Freight from the Novorossiisk port was at $40/mt. Buyers in Bangladesh tried to bid $10/mt below the most competitive offer of $295/mt.

In Ukraine, only three vessels have sailed from POC ports in August carrying sunflower oil, barley, and soybean meal. Other vessels have been waiting to enter or commence loading since mid-July.

Ukraine's top-three destinations for wheat shipments in July were Bangladesh at 271,213 mt, Indonesia at 218,700 mt, and Algeria at 212,200 mt.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Commentary

- Australian wheat prices ease
- South Korea buys milling wheat for Dec shipment
- Thailand passes on feed wheat tender

Prices for Australian Premium White and Australian Standard White with no protein guarantee both weakened by $1/mt day over day to $285/mt and $278/mt, respectively, Aug. 5, continuing to track weak regional buying interest.

Several Asian trade sources said they observed regional interest in bulk container shipments of Australian wheat to cover nearby positions while awaiting fulfillment of Black Sea bulk shipments for more deferred deliveries. Another trade source based in Perth said buyers were continuing to price-check bulk shipments but were not yet ready to commit to current offer levels of Australian wheat.

Australian wheat in bulk shipments still remained too expensive for regional buyer appetite, and they were not expected to adjust their expectations higher, barring a prolonged disruption in shipping logistics out of the Black Sea, said an Asian grains trader.

A South Korean miller purchased 50,000 mt of US milling wheat for shipment over Dec. 1-31 in an international buy tender

Aug. 4, said several Asian grains traders. The buyer paid $265.84/mt for 19,590 mt of soft white wheat (9.5%-11% protein), $323.34/mt for 12,320 mt of hard red winter wheat (11.5% protein) and $323.60/mt for 18,090 mt of northern spring wheat (14% protein, DHV 50), according to the same sources.

Another South Korean miller entered the market Aug. 5, inviting offers for 36,800 mt of US milling wheat for shipment over Dec. 20, 2026 to Jan. 20, 2027, said a Seoul-based and two Singapore-based grains traders. The buyer paid $261.35/mt for 13,000 mt of soft white wheat (9%-11% protein), $319.25/mt for 13,500 mt of hard red winter wheat (11.5% protein) and $320.36/mt for 10,300 mt of northern spring wheat (14% protein, DHV 50), according to the same sources.

Meanwhile, a group of feed wheat buyers in Thailand invited offers of optional-origin feed wheat for shipment across August to December in an international buy tender Aug. 5, said two trade sources based in Bangkok. Several Singapore and Bangkok-based trade sources said the buyers passed on all offers in the tender, with offers heard around mid $300s/mt CFR LO for September shipment.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- Traders await Japan MAFF tender for clarity
- Limited farmer selling restricts supply offers

Platts assessed Canada Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward at $302.40/metric ton on Aug. 5, down 46 cents from the last session, with October offers indicating a firmer tone for later shipment dates as participants awaited greater clarity from Japan's MAFF tender.

The December Minneapolis Hard Red Spring wheat futures contract fell 1.25 cents/bushel to settle at 708 cents/bu. Market participants said the upcoming Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries wheat tender is expected to provide greater transparency on October demand and pricing direction.

Market participants reported differing views on October values, reflecting limited price discovery and ongoing uncertainty. One trader reported hearing October at Z plus 105 cents/bu MWZ as a representative value.

The same trader indicated offers at Z plus 105 cents/bu over the December Minneapolis wheat futures contract for the first half of October and Z plus 110 cents/bu MWZ for late October, reflecting a 5-cent/bu premium for the second half of shipment. The trader said they would offer Oct. 1-15 at 105 cents/bu and second-half October at 110 cents/bu.

Another trader said limited farmer selling continued to restrict the offer side, adding that "perhaps 110 MWZ would make more sense as we're thin on the offer side."

The trader also added that current indications remained reasonable as the broader market moved lower.

A third trader reported hearing an October trade at 95 cents/bu MWZ, although the date and destination could not be confirmed, highlighting continued variation in market indications.

Despite the mixed indications, participants consistently reported higher values for the full month of October or the second half of October than for the first half.

Asian corn prices fell Aug. 5 amid a large offer-bid gap and softer Chicago Board of Trade futures.

Platts assessed feed-quality corn CFR Northeast Asia down $1.50/metric ton day over day at $273.50/mt for cargoes arriving over Nov. 3-Dec. 3.

Although CFR South Korea offer levels were higher in the day at $280/mt CFR and above, buyers remained absent from the market, with no bids heard. Local South Korean trade agents said prices needed to be in the low to mid-$270s/mt CFR for a deal to be possible.

An import tender from Thailand for US corn with August, September and October shipment positions closed on Aug. 5, with all offers passed and no deal concluded. The lowest offers for September and October shipments were heard in the mid-$280s/mt CFR, while no offers were heard for the August shipment.

Thailand's new corn crop was expected to start harvesting in September, a local broker said, which should increase market availability. Spot liquidity, however, was described as "minimal."

Meanwhile, US Pacific Northwest corn basis offer indications rose in the day. October shipment offers were up 5 cents/bushel at 150 cents/bu over December (Z) CBOT, while November shipment offers were at 149 cents/bu over December (Z) CBOT.

In Vietnam, South American-origin corn offers were heard up $5/mt day over day at $270/mt CFR Vietnam for September shipment partial cargoes, and up $4/mt at $268/mt CFR for October shipments on Aug. 4.

Indonesian corn inventories were "quite okay" following the completion of a "big harvest," and amid competitive feed wheat offers from state supplier Berdikari, an Indonesian feed miller source said.

Domestic corn prices in Jakarta were heard at 7,150-7,250 rupiah/kg ($400-$405/mt), while prices in East Java were at 6,850-7,000 rupiah/kg ($380-$390/mt). Meanwhile, feed wheat was offered at 7,350 rupiah/kg ($410/mt), which "made corn traders hold back from selling," the feed miller source added.

South American FOB corn prices fell on Aug. 5, tracking weaker Chicago Board of Trade futures.

The FOB Up River premiums for September loading and the Brazilian FOB Santos premiums for September loading both increased during the day.

In Argentina, an agreement was reached with the pilots, and the ports are functioning normally, according to a broker.

The US dollar-to-Brazilian real exchange rate stood at 5.1381 reais/$1 as of 5:30 pm Brasilia time, down 0.09% day over day.

In Brazil's domestic market, prices were steady in the Sorriso, Rio Verde and Maringá regions.

In the state of Goiás, buyers were trying to negotiate loading starting in September, a buyer said. There were no trades heard in the spot market.

The Paraná State Agribusiness Department reported on Aug. 4 that the winter corn harvest reached 52% of the state's area as of Aug. 3. Regarding crop conditions, 85% were rated as good, up 4% from the previous week.

DERAL reported that winter corn crops were mostly in the final stages of maturation and harvest. Operations were progressing unevenly due to alternating rainy periods and stretches of dry weather, with occasional stoppages caused by excessive soil moisture and high grain moisture.

Platts US Corn Daily Commentary

- Rain forecast lifts US corn market sentiment
- USDA confirms 120,000 mt Mexico corn export sale

The US corn market reported positive sentiment on Aug. 5, driven by rain forecast for the Corn Belt and a strong export program.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration forecast rain across the Corn Belt, especially in Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, and other states, which would help alleviate the dryness of recent weeks.

On Aug. 5, the US Department of Agriculture confirmed private exporter sales of 120,000 metric tons of corn for delivery to Mexico, with 30,000 mt for marketing year 2026-27 (September-August) and 90,000 mt for MY 2027-28.

Despite positive sentiment about the weather and the export program, a trader said he had not seen much trading activity week over week.

"Not much trading this week," the trader said, adding that freight costs in the CIF market have been firm.

Platts data showed that August shipments of barges loaded at Mid-Mississippi and bound for New Orleans were priced at $1.1916/bushel, 23.1% higher than a month ago.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed the CIF New Orleans outright price for August shipments at $212.90/mt on Aug. 4, while September shipments were assessed at $216.85/mt. The FOB US Gulf outright price for October shipment was assessed at $227.17/mt.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- Ukraine's Egypt share drops; Brazil, Argentina dominate
- Ideal flowering conditions support above-average yields

The Black Sea corn market declined on Aug. 5, as demand remained limited and the spread between buyers and sellers for Ukrainian corn was about $10/metric ton.

The market remained stable on the selling side on an FOB basis, with buying ideas absent. On a CIF basis, the spread between buyers and sellers for CIF ARAG was also $10/mt.

Ukrainian corn was also offered via the CVB ports for September and October loading. However, traders said that flows through the Danube and via rail were not transparent in the market.

A trader from Romania said there would be a rail route from Ukraine to Constant through Moldova, with Ukrainian corn entering the Romanian market as Moldovan goods. The trader said that Ukraine-Constanța railway rates were about $78-$80/mt, compared with about $38-$40/mt from Reni/Izmail.

In Egypt, an importer said that Brazil and Argentina together accounted for 84.5% of Egypt's corn imports in 2026, while Ukraine's share declined significantly amid ongoing logistical challenges in the Black Sea region. "Lower poultry prices, reduced import margins, and weaker demand from feed manufacturers encouraged importers to delay new purchases," the importer said.

In CVB, offers for September shipment were heard at €234/mt for handy cargoes and at €230/mt for late September and early October shipments on an FOB CVB basis.

For the new crop, market participants said the critical month for flowering and pollination was nearly ideal across most producing regions. This supports expectations for yields above the long-term average.

- Nearby shipment traded
- China's domestic crush margins weakened

CFR China soybean month-one September shipment fell $3.77/metric ton day over day to $526.90/mt Aug. 5, while basis rose 8 cents/bu to 263 cents/bu over November (X) Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) futures.

Overnight, one cargo of the September shipment was heard traded at 266 cents/bu over November (X) CBOT, basis CFR China.

A Chinese soybean trader noted that while the traded value was reasonable, demand remained scarce at current price levels.

Overall, CFR China trading activity remained subdued overnight, as higher Brazilian basis premiums continued to weigh on buying interest, according to a second Chinese soybean trader.

The stronger Brazilian basis premiums are driven by lower CBOT futures, which eroded the Chinese domestic crush margins.

As of Aug. 4, the spot crush margins were calculated at minus Yuan 102/mt, down Yuan 12/mt day over day, according to the same trader.

According to the first soybean trader, as of Aug. 4, 92% all of the total open demand, at 7.5 million mt of the September shipment, has been covered.

Meanwhile, 68% of the total open demand, at 9.5 million mt, for the October shipment has been covered.

For the November shipment, open demand decreased to approximately 7.1 million mt.

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- FOB spot prices decline amid lower CBOT futures
- Brazil's soybean farmer sales hits 77% for old crop

Brazilian soybean FOB outright prices fell on Aug. 5, tracking lower Chicago Board of Trade futures, as the September (U) contract settled at $11.5650/bushel, down 2.25 cents/bu.

The FOB Paranaguá paper market posted a relatively quiet session. September parcels traded at a 168-cent/bu premium to the CBOT benchmarks, but premium levels weakened throughout the day.

New crop loadings, in turn, showed a more supportive sentiment, despite no deals being heard. Stronger offers and bids were reported for the curve from March to June 2027.

According to S&P Global Energy CERA analysts, Brazil's old-crop farmer sales advanced 6 percentage points in July to reach 77% complete, near the historical average and representing 141 million metric tons sold.

For the upcoming 2026-27 forward sales reached 17% complete, up 4 percentage points on the month and behind the average of 24%.

"The slower-than-usual sales pace has been limited by farmers holding out for better price quotes and ongoing weather uncertainties," the analysts said in the Global Soybean Complex Short-Term Outlook released on July 31.

Platts US Soybeans Daily Commentary

- Rain forecast offsets China buying strength
- Barge freight costs surge 23% in four weeks

On Aug. 5, the CBOT showed for November (X) future contracts a decrease of 3 cents in the session, closing at $11.7475/bushel.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration forecast rain across the Corn Belt, which would help alleviate the dryness of the last weeks.

A trader said that the CIF market has also been facing firm basis, due to higher barge freight costs.

Another trader said that China has been pushing the basis up this week in the FOB market.

The US Department of Agriculture confirmed two private export sales in the first 5 days of August. The first was on Aug. 3 for 488,000 metric tons and the second was 132,000 mt on Aug. 4.

Platts data showed that for August shipments, barges loaded at Mid-Mississippi and bound for New Orleans were priced at $1.1916/bu, 23.1% higher than 4 weeks ago.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for September shipment at $477.94/metric ton Aug. 5, down about $5.33 from the previous assessment. And CIF New Orleans for August shipment at $472.80/mt.

Platts Latin America Soybean Meal Daily Commentary

- FOB spot prices decrease amid lower CBOT
- Maritime pilots' strike ends in Argentina

South American soybean meal FOB prices decreased on Aug. 5, tracking lower Chicago Board of Trade futures, while the maritime pilots' strike in Argentina came to an end.

On the evening of Aug. 4, the Argentine government reached an agreement with maritime pilotage representatives to end the port stoppage that began on Aug. 1, which had severely impacted vessel flow across the Paraná River corridor. The deal included a 20% reduction in pilotage tariffs, the immediate resumption of navigation assistance services, and the suspension of a recently enacted deregulation decree.

On Aug. 5, the FOB Up River cargo market saw wider offer-bid gaps for prompt shipments, with no deals heard. Nevertheless, a supportive tone was considered in light of the CBOT's losses.

As for Brazil's FOB Paranaguá, nearby premiums weakened, with September discussions last seen at $16-$18/st over the CBOT futures.

According to S&P Global Energy CERA analysts, Brazil's old-crop farmer sales advanced 6 percentage points in July to reach 77% complete, near the historical average and representing 141 million metric tons sold.

For the upcoming 2026-27, whose planting begins in September, forward sales reached 17% complete, up 4 percentage points on the month and behind the average of 24%.

"The slower-than-usual sales pace has been limited by farmers holding out for better price quotes and ongoing weather uncertainties," the analysts said in the Global Soybean Complex Short-Term Outlook released on July 31.

The CBOT September (U) contract settled at $310.20/short ton, down $2.50/st.

One trader noted that the summer season typically brings softer demand because livestock consume less, but this year, unusually high temperatures are further cutting intake. The impact is being felt across both pig and poultry production, with Newcastle disease also weighing on feed use. Seasonal heat-related demand pressure is expected to persist.

Platts US Distiller Grains DDGS Daily Commentary

- Rail premium faces pressure
- Low participation limits trade

The US dried distillers grains with solubles market remained quiet on Aug. 5, with reports of limited liquidity and weak summer demand, while elevated production continued to weigh on the outlook.

Platts assessed CIF New Orleans dried distillers grains with solubles barges for the August shipment period at $205/short ton on Aug. 5, the Chicago DDGS truck market for the August delivery period was assessed at $183/st, and the South California rail market for the August delivery period was assessed at $224/st.

One trader said the Union Pacific California market remained inactive despite holding a sizable premium over local truck values.

"Liquidity in the UP CA market has been very quiet," the trader said, adding that the premium appeared difficult to sustain against lackluster summer truck demand.

The trader said that limited CIF NOLA activity could leave room for rail values to soften.

"With the CIF NOLA market out, there's room for rail to soften," the source said.

Strong production also continued to add pressure.

"Big production with no slowdown until we get into some pre-harvest maintenance," the trader said, adding, however, that high margins could limit the extent of any downtime.

A broker said market conditions were dead, with participation very low.

Platts Asia Palm Oil Daily Commentary

- Asian palm oil futures rise
- Malaysia inventory expectations weigh on gains
- India demand secured, buyers show less interest

The Asian palm oil market was mixed Aug. 5, with palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia slightly higher, supported by strength in Dalian Commodity Exchange palm oil futures amid El Niño-related sentiment that could reduce palm oil production.

However, an overnight drop in the energy market limited the gain.

In addition, expectations of higher palm oil inventory levels in Malaysia in July also weighed on the market.

The benchmark palm oil contract for October delivery on the Bursa Malaysia commodity exchange rose 8 ringgit/mt to 4,704 ringgit/mt on Aug. 5.

The benchmark RBD Palm Olein for September delivery on the Dalian Commodity Exchange increased 108 yuan/mt to 9,395 yuan/mt on Aug. 5.

The benchmark Soybean Oil for September delivery on the Dalian Commodity Exchange soared 3 yuan/mt to 8,424 yuan/mt on Aug. 5.

The Indian market was slow with no trade heard on day.

India has secured most of the August demand, so buyers are not aggressive about purchasing, an India-based trader said.

Soybean oil offers were heard at $1,277/mt on a CFR West Coast India basis for October to December shipment.

Platts assessed CPO CFR WC India at $1,237/mt Aug. 5 for August loading, down $3/mt from Aug. 4, while September shipment was $10/mt higher than August.

Platts assessed CPO FOB Indonesia at $1,200/mt Aug. 5 for August loading, up $7.50/mt from Aug. 4, while September shipment was $15/mt higher than August.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- South American soybean oil FOB values climb
- Argentina resolves four-day pilotage strike
- Basis strength offsets CBOT futures decline

South American soybean oil FOB prices climbed Aug. 5 as stronger export basis levels offset a recent decline in Chicago Board of Trade soybean oil futures.

Trading conditions also began to normalize after Argentina resolved a four-day maritime pilotage work stoppage that had restricted ship movements along the Paraná River.

CBOT September soybean oil futures settled at 67.72 cents/pound, down 0.48 cent/pound, or 0.70%, from Aug. 4. The decline extended the recent weakness in soybean oil futures, while South American physical values continued to receive support from firmer export differentials.

Argentina's government suspended Decree 690/2026 Aug. 5, ending the pilotage action that began Aug. 1. Navigation professionals had stopped accepting new assignments after completing existing commitments in opposition to the decree, which sought to change the regulatory framework for river and port pilotage services.

Pilotage representatives agreed to resume services after the decree was suspended and accepted a 20% reduction in service tariffs. The resolution removed an immediate threat to vessel movements through the Paraná River and Rosario Up River corridor, the country's principal route for soybean oil, soybean meal, and grain exports.

Market participants said the brief interruption reduced liquidity and complicated vessel scheduling but ended before developing into a significant disruption to soybean crushing or export availability. The limited movement in Argentine FOB soybean oil prices during the stoppage also suggested that participants viewed the dispute primarily as a temporary logistical constraint rather than a broader supply shock.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed Argentine soybean oil FOB Up River for September loading at $1,193.14/metric ton Aug. 5, up 44 cents from Aug. 4.

The September Up River paper basis strengthened 50 points to minus 1,360 points against the CBOT September soybean oil futures contract. The firmer basis more than offset the decline in futures, allowing the outright Argentine assessment to rise modestly.

In Brazil, Platts assessed soybean oil FOB Paranaguá for September loading at $1,199.76/mt, also up 44 cents from the previous session.

The September Paranaguá paper basis strengthened 50 points to minus 1,330 points against CBOT September futures.

Brazilian September soybean oil retained a $6.62/mt premium to the comparable Argentine assessment, while the Paranaguá basis remained 30 points stronger than the Up River basis.

Platts assessed Brazilian soybean oil FOB Paranaguá for October loading at $1,199.76/mt, up $2.21 from Aug. 4.

The October Paranaguá paper basis strengthened 50 points to minus 1,300 points against the CBOT October soybean oil futures contract. Outright values for September and October were assessed at parity, while the October basis remained 30 points stronger than September.

Market participants said the simultaneous appreciation in Argentine and Brazilian basis levels reflected continued resistance among physical sellers to following CBOT futures lower. In Argentina, the end of the pilotage dispute removed a source of logistical uncertainty, while in Brazil, commercial demand and relatively limited selling interest continued supporting nearby and deferred export values.

The Aug. 5 session reinforced the divergence between the futures and physical soybean oil markets. CBOT prices remained under pressure, but stronger South American basis levels kept outright FOB values stable to slightly higher. With Argentine

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- Sunflower oil market remains highly illiquid
- Rapeseed market enters consolidation phase
- Logistics continue dominating Black Sea pricing

European vegetable oil markets were broadly stable, with both sunflower oil and rapeseed oil showing little movement as trading activity remained subdued. FOB Black Sea sunflower oil was unchanged at $1,379/mt, while rapeseed oil FOB Dutch Mills front-month edged €1 higher to €1,156/mt. Third position also gained €1 to €1,129/mt, while second and fourth positions held steady at €1,133/mt and €1,086/mt, respectively. The limited price movement reflects a market awaiting clearer direction following the recent correction in rapeseed oil values.

Sunflower oil continues to trade in an exceptionally illiquid market. A source based in Ukraine said there was “no FOB Black Sea market activity whatsoever for sunflower oil,” highlighting the absence of executable physical business. Continued attacks on Black Sea export infrastructure, elevated freight costs and reluctance among vessel owners to call at Ukrainian ports have left market participants to rely primarily on indicative values rather than concluded transactions.

In contrast, the rapeseed oil market appears to be stabilizing following last week’s sharp correction. Expectations of larger European and Black Sea oilseed harvests continue to weigh on deferred values, but the pace of selling has slowed as participants assess harvest progress and physical availability. The modest movement in nearby rapeseed oil suggests that the market is entering a period of consolidation after rapidly unwinding its earlier supply risk premium.

For Europe, the vegetable oil complex remains characterized by a widening disconnect between the sunflower and rapeseed markets. Sunflower oil continues to derive support from severe logistical disruption despite the absence of physical trading, while rapeseed oil is increasingly responding to improving new-crop fundamentals. Until Black Sea export logistics normalize and physical liquidity returns, sunflower oil assessments are likely to remain driven by market indications and geopolitical risk rather than active spot transactions.

Argentine soybean oil market shakes off pilot strike, prices tick higher

- Soybean oil prices stay mostly stable during dispute
- Pilots resume work, accept 20% tariff cut

The Argentine soybean oil market saw little pricing impact from a four-day maritime pilotage stoppage that ended on Aug. 5 but disrupted ship movements along the Paraná River and temporarily clouded the outlook for the country’s agricultural exports.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed Argentine soybean oil FOB Up River for September loading at $1,190.28/metric ton on Aug. 3 and at $1,192.70/mt Aug. 4, rising $2.42/mt during the most active phase of the stoppage. Market participants said the relatively limited price movement suggested logistical uncertainty had little immediate impact on physical soybean oil availability.

Platts last assessed FOB Up River soybean oil prices for September loading at $1,193.14/mt on Aug. 5 after the strike ended, rising just 44 cents on the day.

An Argentina-based broker said exporters largely viewed the dispute as a short-term logistical issue rather than a supply disruption, allowing FOB values and export basis levels to remain comparatively stable while negotiations continued.

Pilot representatives agreed to resume services after the government withdrew the decree, which had sought to deregulate river and port pilotage. As part of the agreement, the pilotage sector accepted a 20% reduction in service tariffs, allowing navigation to restart before significant export backlogs developed.

The strike began Aug. 1 after the Professional Association of River Captains and Pilots of the Merchant Marine instructed pilots to stop accepting new assignments once existing commitments had been completed. Because pilotage is mandatory for oceangoing vessels navigating Argentina’s ports and inland waterways, the action slowed vessel arrivals, departures and repositioning along the Paraná River and Rosario Up River export corridor.

Market participants said the dispute reduced commercial activity and complicated nearby vessel scheduling but stopped short of materially disrupting soybean crushing or export flows.

The pilotage dispute followed another period of logistical uncertainty in late June, when wage negotiations between oilseed workers and grain exporters raised the possibility of strike action during the peak soybean marketing season. Although some export terminals temporarily restricted truck delivery quotas as a precaution, negotiations ultimately concluded without a prolonged work stoppage.

Despite the negotiations, Argentina’s soybean oil exports hit a record high of 742,000 mt in June, according to Argentina customs data, and soybean crush reached 4.14 million mt, supported by the country’s large 2025-26 soybean harvest and robust demand from international buyers, particularly India.

A São Paulo-based broker said the resolution of both disputes demonstrated the ability of Argentina’s export chain to continue operating despite periods of labor uncertainty. The broker added that neither episode developed into a sustained interruption to soybean crushing or export activity.

Argentina remains the world’s largest exporter of soybean oil and soybean meal, making the Rosario Up River corridor critical to global vegetable oil and feed markets. Traders said attention is now expected to shift back toward export demand, crushing margins and global vegetable oil fundamentals, while monitoring whether the brief pilotage stoppage leaves any residual vessel congestion in the coming days.

China's Sinograin sells 333,711 mt of imported soybeans at Aug 5 auction

- Offloads 66.6% of the total volume offered
- Average transaction price at 4,013.5 yuan/mt
- Auction follows recent US soybean purchases

China's Sinograin sold 333,711 metric tons of imported soybeans at a state reserve auction on Aug. 5, with 66.6% of the 501,158 mt offered finding buyers, according to four China-based grain traders.

The soybeans, harvested between 2022 and 2025, fetched an average price of 4,013.5 yuan/mt ($602.03/mt).

"Given the decline in CBOT soybean futures, I think the prices are expensive, or at least not cheap," said a Chinese soybean trader.

The previous auction held on July 31 cleared 49.4% of the 503,694 mt offered, according to China-based grain traders.

US-based traders said the auction could free up storage space for additional US soybean purchases.

On July 31, China's state reserves purchased eight soybean cargoes from the US Pacific Northwest for October-November delivery and six from the US Gulf Coast for October delivery, according to multiple Chinese trade sources.

Chinese state traders COFCO and Sinograin have been purchasing US soybeans to meet policy commitments following the Beijing summit in May.

As of Aug. 4, China's known US soybean commitments for marketing year 2026-27 (September-August) totaled 3.665 million mt, according to USDA data.

Under the Busan trade agreement reached in October 2025, China committed to purchase at least 25 million mt of US soybeans annually from 2026 to 2028, according to a White House fact sheet issued on Nov. 1, 2025.

Platts contacted the National Grain Trade Center, the auction operator, and Sinograin to verify the auction results but had not received a response by the time of publication.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed SOYBEX CFR China first month at $526.9/mt on Aug. 5, down $3.77/mt day over day.

Assessment Rationale

Grains

Platts Ags EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $225.50/metric ton Aug. 5, unchanged from the previous assessment.

Russian 12.5% Handysize wheat, assessed at $225.50/mt, was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes Ukraine 11.5% at $231.63/mt when adding July's quality normalization of $8.63/mt to account for its lower protein content, and CVB 12.5% wheat assessed at $262.75/mt day over day.

The structure between the first and second halves of September was assessed as flat, reflecting Platts' Sept. 2-16 assessment window.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) unchanged at $225.50/mt Aug. 5, above a bid at $224/mt and an offer at $227/mt. The structure between the first and second halves of September was assessed as flat, reflecting Platts' Sept. 2-16 assessment window.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) unchanged at $223/mt Aug. 5, below an offer at $227/mt. Trading activity in Ukraine remains limited due to strikes on port and export infrastructure. The structure between the first and second halves of September was assessed as flat, reflecting Platts' Sept. 2-16 assessment window.

Exclusions: No market data was excluded from the Aug. 5 Black Sea wheat assessments.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Assessment Rationale

Platts assessed Australian Premium White wheat down $1/metric ton day over day at $285/mt FOB Kwinana on Aug. 5 for cargoes loading between Oct. 4 and Nov. 3, under an indicative offer at $291/mt.

Platts assessed Australian Standard White wheat with no protein guarantee down $1/mt day over day at $278/mt on Aug. 5 for cargoes loading over the same period, under a lower normalized offer of $279/mt, accounting for a freight cost of $26/mt between Kwinana and the Philippines.

This maintains the spread between APW wheat and ASW wheat with no protein guarantee at $7/mt.
