Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Russia's July forecasts exports at 2.2 million mt
- Protein quality concerns limit CVB 12.5% offers

The Black Sea market moved sideways as traders assessed the ongoing harvest amid weak demand.

Russian sellers were competitive at $228/metric ton with bids at a $1/mt discount. Russia is forecast to export up to 2.2 million mt of wheat in July, up from 1.86 million mt last year, the Russian analytical center Rusagrotrians said.

The Ukrainian market was heard trading at $225/mt last week, amid offers at $226/mt and minimal demand. "Balances are heavy, and farmers are not selling locally," one Ukrainian seller said.

The CVB 12.5% market saw few sellers amid quality concerns and the lack of the 12.5% protein. "I don't think you find 12.5% offers from Constanta at all," one local seller said, adding that there are "too many uncertainties about the protein content". One offer was at $239-$240/mt and bid at $232/mt.

On demand, Saudi Arabia bought 661,000 mt of wheat, likely Black Sea wheat, at an average price of $269.36/mt from trading houses Holagri, Cargill, Olam, Bunge, Aston, and Graincorp. The tender results for shipments in September-October were announced on July 6, the government website showed.

The coasters import market fell amid trades at $222/mt, traders watched local high stocks and a record harvest as a potential for an import ban in Turkey.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Commentary

- Australian Premium White strengthens
- Australia's 2025-26 season carryout could hit record high: sources

Australian Premium White rose $1/mt on day to $272/mt July 6, while Australian Standard White with no protein guarantee was stable on day at $266/mt, as indications remained largely rangebound out of Western Australia.

Australian wheat prices are expected to remain rangebound in the near term as pressure from a heavy carryout and competition from other origins is tempered by a dry long-range forecast through July-September, alongside tighter seasonal port capacity in September, according to Australian and Asian trade sources.

Two Australian trade sources said the carryout from the 2025-26 season could approach 7 million mt, which would be a record high if realized.

Less than 5 mm of rainfall is anticipated across most of Australia's wheat belt in the week beginning July 6, after a marked decline from last week, when some areas in Victoria and New South Wales saw up to 50 mm of rainfall, according to the latest data from Australia's Bureau of Meteorology.

"Normalized Difference Vegetation Index (NDVI) ratings are currently well ahead of last year and above 10-year highs. Nationwide, timely planting and strong crop establishment, coupled with ample subsoil moisture reserves, have the potential to mitigate late-season El Niño dryness; however, rains during August and September will remain critical in determining final yield outcomes," S&P Global CERA analysts said.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- Canada wheat basis sees strong movements
- USDA reports spring wheat conditions decline

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed Canada Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward at $286.24/metric ton on July 2, 64 cents/mt lower than July 1 as futures rebounded from the previous sessions and basis levels held steady.

The December (Z) MIAH Hard Red Spring Wheat futures contract rose 11 cents day over day to 651 cents/bushel, following the broader grains market.

Market activity for August and September delivery remained thin as participants looked ahead to new crop months. After the market close, September bids were heard at Z plus 105 cents/bu, with offers at Z plus 115 cents/bu. November offers were heard at Z plus 110 cents/u, with December offers at Z plus 115 cents/bu. Bids for both months were heard at Z plus 100 cents/bu.

Overall, however, value transparency was limited amid subdued activity and volatile futures movement, with a trader commenting, "Values [are] moving all over the place."

The US Department of Agriculture released its weekly crop progress report on July 6, showing winter wheat conditions largely unchanged. Wheat in very poor condition decreased by 1% to 20%, while wheat in poor condition increased by 1% to 27% week over week. Wheat in good to excellent conditions was unchanged at 26%.

In US spring wheat, 54% of the crop was headed by July 5, compared with 58% the year prior. Crop conditions declined slightly, with 57% rated good to excellent, down from 59% the week prior.

Corn

Platts Asia Corn Daily Commentary

- Asian corn prices remain firm at $260/mt
- Korean and Japanese buyers wait for lower price levels

Asian corn prices continued to remain firm July 6 as the spot market was quiet amid a closed Chicago Board of Trade futures market and buyers continued to expect lower prices than current offer levels.

Traders continued to offer above $260/mt CFR South Korea for November arrival corn cargoes while buyers maintained a wait-and-see approach as they were "bearish now," according to a local Korean trade agent.

A Singapore trader who offered to South Korea stated that offers were still high as the previous week's USDA "stock report confirmed lower planting area for grains" and that "prices had hit the bottom and were retracing or pulling back."

Further information on the previous week's deal with South Korea on June 29 was reported for the first time by a second local Korean trade agent. Two cargoes of worldwide origin corn were sold to a Korean buying group at $256.88/mt CFR for delivery on Nov. 5, and at $256.88/mt for Nov. 15 arrival cargo.

In Vietnam, the most recent South American-origin corn offers were reported at $254.5/mt CFR Vietnam for September shipment partial cargoes.

Meanwhile, Japan's corn procurement coverage for feed millers stands at 90% for August arrivals and 45% for September arrivals, while food manufacturers are said to have completed August arrivals in full and are at just 40% for September arrivals, according to a Japanese trader.

“Japanese buyers remain patient, looking for basis values to soften despite the recent recovery in CBOT futures, bid ideas continue to lag behind current market offers,” the trader said.

S&P Global CERA in its Weekly Corn and Minor Grains report on July 3 noted that the 14 day outlook showed hot and dry weather for North China plain but is not expected to have a significant impact on the Chinese corn crop as “planting was timely and the critical pollination window should start from late July, providing an opportunity for temperatures to moderate and additional rains to arrive,” the report also stated that “the situation will warrant close monitoring.”

In Brazil's domestic market, prices were steady in the Sorriso and Maringá regions amid a slow decline in the Rio Verde region.

According to a buyer, corn spot deals in Paraná were moving slowly, as harvesting was progressing more slowly due to moisture, while rain was occurring in the state.

In Mato Grosso, Brazil's largest corn-producing state, the winter corn harvest reached 44.27% of the planted area as of July 3. In the same week in 2025, 40.20% had already been harvested in Mato Grosso, the state's Institute of Agricultural Economics reported on July 3.

Platts US Corn Daily Commentary

- Corn futures rise to highest since June 3
- Heat threatens pollination in US growing areas
- 67% of corn crop rated good to excellent

The Chicago Board of Trade September futures contract gained 15.25 cents/bushel day over day to settle at $4.3825/bu, which was the highest close since June 3.

Corn prices rose as high temperatures hit much of the US growing region. Exporters were seeking further confirmation of the forecasted weather before pushing futures higher.

“If the heat sticks around a little longer than is forecasted it could be an issue for corn pollination, but as it is currently, it is not much of an issue,” a trader said.

Crop conditions data supported the 'wait and see' attitude, with no marked impact from the previous week's hotter weather. Weekly crop progress data showed 67% of the corn crop in good to excellent condition for the week ended July 5, unchanged from the previous week, according to US Department of Agriculture data.

The increased volatility in futures limited activity in the CIF barge market, with no firm offers heard day over day.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- Farmers hold old crop amid price declines
- Ukraine loads 18.52M mt corn in 2025-26

The Black Sea corn market improved slightly on July 6, amid buying interest in July and August shipments.

However, traders said that market activity remained limited day over day. Traders also said that farmers were not eager to sell the old crop amid falling prices over the past few weeks and were awaiting the impact of summer on the new crop.

In the market, spot cargo demand was heard at $218/metric ton FOB POC, while the bid for the second half of July was at $222/mt. Market participants reported that demand for spot shipments was heard from Italy last week.

According to the S&P Global Energy CERA report, the local agrometeorological office reported that Ukraine experienced warm weather in late June, followed by hot, dry conditions with little rainfall. The corn crop remained in good condition despite the heat wave. The S&P Global Energy CERA forecast for Ukraine's production was unchanged at 32.3 million mt for the 2026-2027 season.

In Ukraine, according to the port line-up shared by a trader, 18.52 million mt of corn was loaded from Ukrainian ports during the period from July 2025 to June 2026. Turkey was the major destination, with 5.36 million mt, followed by Italy at 2.7 million mt, Spain at 1.9 million mt, the Netherlands at 1.5 million mt, and Egypt at 1.03 million mt.

Platts Asia Soybean Daily Commentary

- CFR China flat price strengthens on US weather concerns
- Brazilian bid-offer spread at least 10 cents/bu

CFR China soybean month-one August shipment was up $11.21/mt on day at $509.73/mt July 6, while basis was down 1 cent/bu at 222 cents/bu over August (Q) Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) futures.

Overnight, CFR China trading activity remained subdued, with soybean participants remaining on the sidelines ahead of the Independence Day holiday.

However, CBOT soybean futures firmed on weather concerns across the US growing regions, lifting CFR China flat prices day over day.

"Temperatures in the 11-15 day forecast are expected to be relatively high. However, at the current soybean acreage levels, the US soybean balance sheet does not support a major yield loss scenario," said a China-based soybean trader.

In Brazil, soybean CFR offers were largely limited on day, according to China-based trade sources.

The bid-offer spread remained at least 10 cents/bu, with the lowest offer indications for September at 232 cents/bu over Nov (X) CBOT, said the China-based soybean trader, attributing the wide bid-offer spread primarily to limited Chinese demand.

Meanwhile, Argentine soybean demand could emerge this week if the spread between that of Brazil is attractive enough, although limited farmer selling could limit any downside to prices, said the same trader.

Chinese domestic crushing volume in the week beginning July 6 is estimated to be around 2.35 million mt, up from 2.16 million mt last week, said another China-based soybean trader.

Elsewhere, demand is relatively quiet for Southeast Asia, with a Singapore-based trader citing that "Brazilian basis premiums are still expensive," prompting buyers to maintain a wait-and-see approach.

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- Jumping CBOT futures send FOB prices higher
- Basis levels weaken for old, new crops

Brazilian FOB soybean outright prices were higher on July 6, as Chicago Board of Trade futures rose more than 3%.

The CBOT August (Q) contract settled at $11.84/bushel, up 47.75 cents/bu. According to analysts, the CBOT's movement was primarily driven by weather-related concerns, as hot, dry conditions have been hitting key US producing areas.

FOB Paranaguá nearby premium levels weakened for both old and new crops, as traders adjusted offers and bids lower to make up for the CBOT's jump, sources said, adding that a strong volume of farmer sales also contributed to pressuring the port differentials.

Activity was noticed for August dates, with parcels heard negotiated at plus 90 cents/bu and plus 92 cents/bu to the CBOT references. Participants mentioned some buyer interest for 2027 loadings, but no trades could be confirmed.

According to S&P Global Energy CERA data, Brazilian farmers had negotiated 71% of this year's soybean crop by the end of June, up 7 percentage points month over month, amid robust crush and export demand.

Regarding the 2026-27 crop, with planting beginning in September, the pace of farmer sales has been more modest, with 13% sold in advance by the end of June, up 2 percentage points month over month.

"Uncertainties about area expansion and concerns over El Niño conditions for the 2026-27 season have limited farmers' forward sales, given tight margins and an unfavorable barter ratio," CERA analysts said in the Global Soybean Complex Short-Term Outlook report released June 26.

Platts US Soybeans Daily Commentary

- US prices rise, boosted by futures market
- Sources see weather, US-China trade updates, buying as causes

The US soybean market saw outright prices rise sharply on July 6, driven by a futures market boosted by weather, massive buying, and the possibility of the US and China working to roll back tariffs.

Platts assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for August shipment at $471.79/metric ton on July 6, up $17.55/mt from July 2. Platts-assessed basis for FOB Gulf for August shipment remained steady at 100 cents/bushel over the August (Q) soybeans futures contract.

Platts assessed the outright price for CIF New Orleans for July shipment at $466.28/mt, up $18.47/mt from July 2. Platts-assessed basis for CIF NOLA for July shipment was at 85 cents/bu over the August (Q) soybeans futures contract.

The futures market increased on July 6, with the August (Q) contract increasing 47.75 cents day over day to 1,184 cents/bu.

According to sources, the rise was driven by various factors, including weather forecasts, updates on China-US trade, and buying.

"I think it's a combination of weather and a story that China and the US are working towards potentially lowering or removing tariffs on a bunch of so far unnamed goods," a trader in the CIF NOLA market said. "Potentially, agriculture products are among them."

The US Department of Agriculture published its Grains Inspected and/or Weighed for Export weekly report, showing that 528,350 mt of soybeans were inspected during the week ended on July 2. This amount is 84,530 mt more than the previous week, and 127,721 more mt than those reported on the same week of 2025.

About 268,115 mt were exported to China, 65,664 mt went to Mexico, and 52,012 mt went to Indonesia.

Animal Feed

Platts Latin America Soybean Meal Daily Commentary

- FOB prices rise as CBOT futures jump nearly 3%
- Prompt basis levels weaken in Argentina, Brazil

The CBOT August (Q) contract settled at $312.90/short ton, up $7.40/st. Weather-related concerns drove prices higher, as hot, dry conditions have been affecting key US producing areas, analysts said.

Both Argentina's FOB Up River and Brazil's FOB Paranaguá markets saw weaker basis levels for prompt shipments, in a correction move to the CBOT's rise. There were no deals heard as traders adopted a cautionary stance throughout the session, sources said.

S&P Global Energy CERA analysts lowered their acreage estimate for the upcoming Brazilian 2026-27 soybean crop by 300,000 hectares to 49.10 million ha, while keeping the output forecast at 177 million metric tons. Planting activities for the new season are likely to begin in September.

"We continue to see a challenging season ahead for farmers," CERA analysts said in the Global Soybean Complex Short-Term Outlook, released on June 26. "They face tight margins, high fertilizer prices, elevated debt default rates, high interest rates, and El Niño concerns."

Platts European Animal Feed Daily Commentary

- Dutch soybean meal prices rise on CBOT gains
- Spanish corn hits Eur228-229/mt for August
- US weather challenges push CBOT futures higher

Northern Europe

The Dutch soybean meal offer prices were bullish on July 6, as CBOT futures rose, market participants said.

According to brokers' lists, there were no offers for 46% Brazilian pellets in August. At the same time, offers for 46.5% Arg/Brazilian and US soybean meal are at $420/metric ton.

According to a trader, rapeseed meal will be available in the market soon, offered for August at Eur222/mt.

The Spanish corn and soybean meal were bullish, amid higher CBOT prices, corn and soybean meal traders said.

"Compared to last week, today the corn offers for August are at Eur228-229/mt now, with no buying interest now," a trader said.

He added that CBOT not only affected the corn market but also increased soybean meal prices, yet no bidding was observed day over day.

The trader noted that the higher CBOT can be attributed to a weather challenge in the US.

Platts US Distiller Grains DDGS Daily Commentary

- Market remains quiet
- Wide bid-offer spreads limit price discovery
- Brokers report no buying interest or activity

The US dried distillers grains with solubles market opened quietly July 6, with participants reporting little activity across domestic and export channels as wide bid-offer spreads continued to limit price discovery.

Platts assessed CIF New Orleans dried distillers grains with solubles barges for the July shipment period at $182/short ton, the Chicago DDGS truck market for the July delivery period was assessed at $171/st and the South California rail market for the July delivery period was assessed at $218/st.

One broker said the market had yet to generate meaningful indications. "Nothing coming in yet today," the broker said, adding that current bid-offer spreads remain too wide to establish reliable market direction. "It's too wide," the source said. The broker also added the lack of buying interest. "No one [is] even asking for DDG today."

Another broker described the export market as inactive. "Dead," the broker said regarding CIF values, adding, "Don't have anything today."

A third broker said market participants continue to struggle to establish trades. "It is a struggle to get some things lined up," the broker said, adding that futures markets were providing little support.

Vegetable Oils

Platts Asia Palm Oil Daily Commentary

- Asian palm oil rises on rival oil gains
- Malaysia production surges 18% in July 1-5

The Asian palm oil market strengthened on July 6, as palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia rose amid gains in rival vegetable oils. However, losses were capped with a slight decline in crude prices.

Malaysia's Southern Peninsular Palm Oil Millers Association reported an increase in palm oil production for July 1-5 compared to last month. Yield increased 17.75%, oil extraction rose 0.05%, and overall production surged 18.01%.

The benchmark palm oil contract for September delivery on the Bursa Malaysia commodity exchange rose MR67/mt to MR4,550/mt on July 6.

The Indian market was slow on July 6, with no trades heard. Activity in the market remained subdued, with buyers staying on the sidelines for now.

"Buyers are not chasing the market; they are waiting for the right price to start buying," an Indonesia-based trader said.

Demand for palm-based products could improve, but buyers are likely to consider all alternatives before making a purchase.

"Demand may pick up, but buyers may also look into buying soybean oil instead if the price difference narrows," an India-based trader said.

Platts assessed CPO CFR WC India price at $1,225/mt July 6 for July loading, up $11.50/mt from July 3, while August shipment was $7.50/mt higher than July.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- CBOT soy oil futures rise 1.48% to 67.76¢/lb
- Argentine, Brazilian FOB basis levels soften
- Physical demand remains steady despite volatility

Brazilian and Argentine soybean oil FOB markets were mixed July 6 as Chicago Board of Trade soybean oil futures rebounded following the US Independence Day holiday, while FOB basis levels in both countries softened after the strong recovery recorded during the second half of June.

CBOT August soybean oil futures rose 1.48% day over day to settle at 67.76 cents/lb. Market participants said soybean oil futures recovered modestly as trading resumed after the long holiday weekend, although the broader market remained focused on favorable US crop conditions and expectations for abundant global soybean supplies following the recent US Department of Agriculture acreage and quarterly stocks reports.

In Argentina, Platts assessed the soybean oil FOB Up River price for August loading at $1,163.16/mt July 6, up $8.60/mt from July 3. The basis for August loading in the Up River paper market was assessed 60 points lower at minus 1,500 points to August (Q) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

In Brazil, Platts assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for August loading at $1,171.98/mt July 6, down 22 cents/mt from July 3. The basis for August loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 100 points lower at minus 1,460 points to the August (Q) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Platts also assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for September loading at $1,150.59/mt July 6, up $1.10/mt from July 3. The basis for September loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 100 points lower at minus 1,520 points to the September (U) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Market participants said the decline in FOB basis levels reflected the recovery in CBOT soybean oil futures rather than a material weakening in underlying physical demand. Despite the modest pullback, basis values in both Argentina and Brazil remained substantially stronger than the historically discounted levels recorded in early June, continuing to support South American export values.

Participants added that the divergence between financial and physical soybean oil markets remained evident. While CBOT soybean oil futures continued to be influenced by US crop prospects, speculative positioning and broader oilseed supply expectations, South American FOB markets remained anchored by steady export demand, competitive export pricing and active commercial participation.

Traders also noted that Brazil's record soybean crop and crush outlook continued to provide ample soybean oil availability for export. However, resilient demand from international buyers has helped maintain comparatively firm FOB values, underscoring the continued disconnect between volatile futures markets and more stable physical export markets.

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- SFO flat, RSO up
- Futures gain on day

European veg oil markets opened the week July 6 on mixed movements as soft oil futures gained on the day.

In rapeseed oil markets, the FOB Dutch Mill RSO front run Aug-Sept-Oct gained Eur3 on the day at Eur1146/metric ton, tracking substantial increases in Euronext rapeseed front-month futures which settled at Eur511.25/mt, up Eur6.25 on the day.

Meanwhile, the second run Nov-Dec-Jan was flat on the day at Eur1142, while both the third run Feb-Mar-Apr and fourth run May-June-July moved up Eur1 at Eur1127/mt and Eur1127/mt, respectively.

Elsewhere in soft oil futures, the CBOT front-month soybean oil futures gained $1.34 cents/lb to 68.03 cents/lb, S&P Global Energy data showed.

Brazil H1 corn exports to Middle East fall 20% on year: Secex

- Iran, Saudi Arabia largest importers in H1
- June corn imports into Middle East dip 27% on year

Imports of Brazil-origin corn (HS code 1005) into the Middle East totaled 2.2 million metric tons January-June, down 20% from the same period last year, according to monthly data from the Secretariat of Foreign Trade.

Iran, Saudi Arabia and Yemen remained the largest importers during the period, according to the secretariat, Secex.

Iran imported 1.47 million mt of corn during January-June, marking a 36% year-on-year decline, while Saudi Arabia's volumes upped 38% to 379,997 mt. Yemen bought 135,504 mt, up 100% from H1 2025.

Other key buyers were Iraq at 100,150 mt and Jordan at 91,522 mt.

Brazil's corn exports totaled 7.9 million mt in the first half of 2026, up 22.1% year over year, according to the data.

In June, corn imports into the Middle East dropped 27% year on year to 92,441 mt. The largest buyer was Saudi Arabia at 79,750 mt, followed by the UAE at 12,534 mt.

Brazil's total corn exports surged 74% month over month and 18% year over year to 435,498 m in June, according to data.

Malaysia's palm oil stocks seen rising in June as peak production offsets exports

- Stocks to rise 3% on month to 2.5 mil mt: poll
- Production increases 9% as peak season begins
- Exports increase 18.8% month over month

Malaysia's palm oil stocks are expected to rise 2.8% month over month to 2.5 million metric tons in June, as the world's second-largest vegetable oil exporter enters peak production season, offsetting a rise in exports, an S&P Global Energy poll of 10 analysts, traders, and growers showed July 6.

Palm oil production is projected at 1.652 million mt in June, up 9% from May, the Platts survey showed. Platts is part of S&P Global Energy.

Stronger production growth in Peninsular Malaysia will weigh on crude palm oil prices in July, but mixed output in East

Malaysia should provide support, keeping cash prices around MR 4,400-4,500 per metric ton, Paramalingam Supramaniam, director at Pelindung Bestari, a vegetable oil brokerage based in Selangor, Malaysia, said June 6.

Exports were pegged at 1.3 million mt in June, up 18.8% month over month, according to the survey.

The Malaysian Palm Oil Board, or MPOB, is scheduled to release its official supply and demand data on July 10.

S&P Global palm oil survey	June 2026 (forecast)	May 2026 (MPOB)	Change

Malaysia's palm oil industry is heading into a tighter supply-demand balance in marketing year 2026-27 (October-September) as El Niño-linked dry weather threatens fresh fruit bunch yields just as the country ramps up its B15 biodiesel mandate, according to a US Department of Agriculture report on July 3.

Malaysian palm oil futures rose 1.5% on June 6 as support from stronger rival edible oils outweighed pressure from weaker crude oil prices.

The benchmark palm oil contract for September delivery on the Bursa Malaysia Derivatives Exchange gained MR70/mt to close at MR4,550/mt ($1,113.83).

Strong performance of rival markets, which advanced more than 1% too, provided positive support, Supramaniam said.

Platts assessed crude palm oil FOB Indonesia at $1,175/mt on June 3, down 0.4% from the day before.

Platts Ags EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $227.50/metric ton on July 6, unchanged from July 3. Russian 12.5% handysize wheat, assessed at $227.50/mt, was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes Ukraine 11.5% at $231.63/mt when adding June's quality normalization of $6.63/mt, to account for its lower protein content, and CVB 12.5% wheat assessed at $235/mt on the day. The structure between the first and second halves of August was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Aug. 3-17.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) unchanged at $227.50/mt on July 6, below an offer at $228/mt and above a bid at $227/mt. The structure between the first and second halves of August was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Aug. 3-17.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) at $225/mt on July 6, up $1/mt, in line with an indicative value at $225/mt, and below an offer at $226/mt. The structure between the first and second halves of August was assessed as flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from Aug. 3-17.

Platts is part of S&P Global Energy.
