Commentary and Analysis

Wheat

Platts European Wheat Daily Commentary

- Black Sea wheat falls $1/mt on weak demand
- Rains likely to delay July harvest

The Black Sea market was weaker June 15 as traders assessed weak demand for new crop wheat. Russian wheat fell $1/mt as sellers lowered their offers to low bids at $235/mt. The most competitive offers were at $239/mt for July loadings.

Russian traders monitored potential harvest delays for the new crop amid heavy rains in the south of the country. "I see 80% chance of delays in July, so we will see the price going up," a Russian seller said, noting similar delays last year that pushed prices up.

Traders said they saw no significant impact on wheat prices from the framework deal to end the Middle East conflict, amid freight prices falling slightly to pre-war levels.

The Ukrainian wheat market saw offers at $236/mt with no firm bids.

The country exported 11.5 million mt of wheat from July to May, mainly to Egypt (3.5 million mt), Algeria (1.9 million mt), and Indonesia (1.5 million mt), traders' lineup data showed.

Meanwhile, the CVB market, was at a close parity to Russian wheat, fell $1/mt, amid lower offers.

French wheat prices strengthened day over day, with CPT and FOB Rouen up by around Eur2/mt. The bid was at a Eur2/mt discount to Matif September and the FOB offer level at a premium of Eur1/mt.

In the destination markets, CIF Egypt offers were at $257/mt, compared to bids at a $2/mt discount for the 12.5% wheat. Traders estimate 1.5 million mt of wheat awaiting discharge from port warehouses amid oversupply. Jordan canceled its wheat tender for the September-October loading on June 15 amid high offers, market participants said.

Platts Asia Wheat Daily Commentary

- Australian wheat stable
- Australian dollar firmer amid bearish crude
- Chinese wheat harvest crosses 85% mark

Australian wheat prices were stable day over day June 15.

Several Asian and Australian trade sources said wheat indications were muted, with the domestic market relatively unchanged despite bearish sentiment from lower crude prices following the announcement of a peace deal between the US and Iran. They attributed the support to a strengthening Australian dollar.

The Australian dollar was trading at 70.7 US Cents at 1630 SGT (0830 GMT), up 0.36% since the previous session close June 12.

One of the Australian trade sources said weather would likely remain the primary driver of Australian wheat prices in the near term, though the situation could change depending on how Black Sea and US wheat prices react to the peace deal announcement.

Another Australian trade source said destination values could be bearish due to lower crude prices and freight rates, but that FOB levels would still remain supported.

As of June 14, China's domestic wheat harvest is nearly 87% complete, according to China's Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs. China's Meteorological Agency has forecast favorable weather across most harvesting regions on June 15-16, except in Hebei, where some rain is expected.

"Some damage is expected from this year's harvest [due to rains], but I don't think it will be a massive loss," said a local trade source.

Platts Canada Wheat Daily Commentary

- Wheat market yet to react to US-Iran deal implications
- Traders expect slow ocean freight decline

The Canadian wheat market saw a quiet start to the week on June 15, with basis remaining unchanged day over day.

Slightly weaker wheat futures put pressure on flat prices, with Platts-assessed Canada Western Red Spring Wheat 13.5% FOB Vancouver 30-45 days forward falling 83 cents/metric ton to $270.34/mt.

Futures dipped slightly with weaker energy futures after news of a deal reached between the US and Iran on June 14. The September (U) MIAH Hard Red Spring Wheat futures contract settled at 639.75 cents/bushel, down 2.25 from June 12. Basis premiums across all Platts-assessed loading periods were unchanged at U plus 96 cents/bu.

No initial cash market impacts were heard for the Canadian and US wheat markets as participants continued to digest the news.

"I suspect ocean freight will continue to [have a] long and slow decline," a US trader said. "It was inflated by about $8/mt into far east after the war. So, these need to be given back."

"But so far haven't seen any other impact to [the] cash market," the trader said, noting minimal overall activity on the day. Platts is part of S&P Global Energy.

Corn

Platts Asia Corn Daily Commentary

- Asian corn prices remain flat at $256/mt
- Middle East peace deal may lower freight rates

Asian corn prices were flat on June 15, as market participants remained on the sidelines following news of a potential peace deal in the Middle East and ahead of the opening of the Chicago Board of Trade's US trading hours.

Platts assessed feed quality corn CFR Northeast Asia unchanged at $256/mt for cargoes arriving over Sept. 13 to Oct. 13.

Although a South Korean local trade agent estimated offer indications at $262/mt CFR for October arrival, no firm prices were heard, as market participants were on the sidelines awaiting the reopening of CBOT under US trading hours.

Grain bulk freight rates were expected to decline following the peace deal in the Middle East between the US and Iran.

"I think freight softened already," a grains broker said.

"Very Low Sulfur Fuel Oil cost is lower today, so new [freight] updates would be lower," a Vietnamese miller source said.

The most competitive US Pacific Northwest corn basis offer indications for September shipment were reported at 149 cents/bu over July (N) Chicago Board of Trade futures contract.

A Singapore-based trader stated that offers for US PNW corn July and August shipments were no longer available, and that the latest basis indications "need to wait for US [CBOT futures market] opening."

S&P Global CERA, in its Weekly Corn and Minor Grains report on June 12, indicated that Chinese corn import margins faced pressure amid the advance of the new crop wheat harvest, which would "seasonally weigh on domestic feed grain values throughout the summer months."

Platts Latin America Corn Daily Commentary

- South American FOB corn prices rise with CBOT
- Brazilian August Santos premiums hold steady
- Mato Grosso harvest reaches 11.29%

South American FOB corn prices increased on June 15, tracking higher Chicago Board of Trade futures.

The market was seen as slow in Argentina for the July FOB Up River contract amid the June 15 holiday, Paso a la Inmortalidad del General de Guemes.

The Brazilian FOB Santos premiums for August loading remained unchanged throughout the day.

The US dollar to Brazilian real exchange rate stood at Real 5.0804/$1 as of 5:30 pm Brasilia time, up 0.05% day over day.

In Brazil's domestic market, prices remained steady in the Rio Verde and Maringá regions, but increased in the Sorriso region.

"Producer offers remain elevated in the Sorriso spot market," a local broker said. "However, harvest progress is expected to weigh on prices."

In Mato Grosso, Brazil's largest corn-producing state, the winter corn harvest reached 11.29% of the planted area as of June 12. In the same week in 2025, 7.20% had already been harvested in Mato Grosso, the state's Institute of Agricultural Economics reported on June 12.

Platts US Corn Daily Commentary

- Export inspections drop 16.5% weekly
- Favorable weather limits upside potential: sources

Platts US corn outright prices increased June 15, tracking Chicago Board of Trade July (N) future contracts, which rose 2.75 cents to $4.1550/bu during the session, while September (U) gained 2 cents, closing at $4.2275/bu.

Sources said cash strength has been supporting the market.

"Delivery economics have been firming as cash strengthens across most areas of the country," a broker source said.

Other sources said favorable weather for crops was the driver.

"Don't see much good reason to go higher here with favorable weather, and managed money essentially exited the agriculture complex now," a trader source said.

During the weekend, the US Corn Belt faced rainfall in Nebraska, western Iowa, parts of southern South Dakota and portions of Kansas, and for the beginning of the week, temperatures were predicted to be below normal, according to S&P Global Energy CERA.

US yellow corn inspected for export totaled 1.557 million mt in the week ended June 11, down 16.5% from the prior week, and cumulative inspections at 2,581 million bushels, the USDA weekly Federal Grain Inspection Service report, released June 15, showed.

The cumulative inspections represent 76% of S&P Global Energy CERA's projection, above the five-year average.

Platts assessed the outright price for June shipments to New Orleans June 15 in the incoterm CIF at $194.70/mt and for July shipments at $199/mt. FOB Gulf for August was assessed at $205.02/mt.

Platts European Corn Daily Commentary

- Black Sea corn market weakens on poor demand
- Port prices fall to $217/mt from mid-$220s

The Black Sea corn market was bearish on June 15 amid weak demand. In the FOB market, offers were heard at $232 and in the low $230s for July loading, while firm bids were absent on the day. Brokers also said that some traders who were long in the market were willing to offer much lower prices for H1 July.

In the CIF market, the competitive offer for CIF Marmara was heard at $247/mt for June–July loading, while buyers were in the low $240s for July loading. Importers in Turkey anticipate that prices will fall further due to poor demand from the feed industry.

In Turkey, local media reported that the Turkish authorities have appointed temporary administrators for 13 major poultry companies as part of an investigation into alleged violations of competition law, unjustified price increases, and consumer harm. This move has also affected demand for corn in the country, as the poultry sector is the major consumer.

Importers from Turkey also noted that demand for H2 July will be low in the country as the import quota ends by July. An importer from Turkey said, “After the 15th–16th, no company buys due to the quota. The quota is until July.”

Meanwhile, port prices have also come down. CPT POC prices were at $217/mt, down from the mid-$220s last week.

- Market quiet overnight June 12
- China’s soybean crushing may weigh on margins: CERA

Platts assessed CFR China soybeans for month-one July shipments at $484.65/metric ton June 15, down 37 cents/mt from June 12, while the basis was unchanged at 210 cents/bushel over July (N) Chicago Board of Trade futures.

Overnight June 12, trading liquidity for CFR China cargoes remained thin, with no trades heard to have taken place, according to multiple Chinese trade sources.

“The Brazilian basis for CFR China remains firm,” a Chinese soybean trader said. “There could be some buyer interest in spot and new crop cargoes. However, the volumes are likely limited.”

Domestic crushing volumes in China totaled about 2.36 million mt June 15, up 46,400 mt week over week, the trader added.

With soybean stocks at major ports in China rising to a record 9 million mt, any upside to crush margins should remain limited over the next few weeks, S&P Global Energy CERA analysts said in the Global Soybean Complex report June 12.

“This is because incoming Brazilian cargoes move more directly into processing facilities and the resulting acceleration in crush weighs on soymeal prices,” the analysts said.

Platts Brazil Soybean Daily Commentary

- New-crop shipment traded in Paranaguá
- CBOT futures rebound on strong US export inspections

Trading activity was slow to start the week in the Paranaguá FOB premiums market June 15, with only one trade confirmed for new crop May 2027 loading.

Platts assessed the SOYBEX FOB Santos soybean contract for July loading at $446.92/metric ton, $4.32/mt higher than the previous assessment.

CBOT soybean futures reversed early losses and settled higher, overcoming initial pressure from a sinking crude oil market. According to market analysts, prices recovered based on strong US weekly export inspections reported by the US Department of Agriculture.

According to S&P Global Energy CERA, the recent decline in CBOT prices has reduced the competitiveness of Brazilian soybeans in the global market, likely weighing on export sales. This also aligns with seasonal trends that typically see Brazilian prices firming in the second half of the year.

The US dollar versus the Brazilian real settled at Real 5.0694/$1 at 4:30 pm Brasilia time. Domestic soybean prices were lower in the main producing regions.

Brazil’s agribusiness exports reached $16 billion in May 2026, up 8.2% year over year, according to data from the Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock. Agribusiness accounted for 50.2% of Brazil’s total exports in the month.

For the first five months of 2026, agribusiness exports totaled $70.5 billion, representing a 4.6% increase versus the same period in 2025.

Soybeans remained the top export product. In May, soybean shipments from Brazil totaled $6.3 billion, 14.6% higher than a year earlier. A total of 14.8 million mt of soybeans were exported during the month.

Including exports across the broader soybean value chain, such as meal and oil, the sector generated about $7.5 billion in May.

Platts US Soybeans Daily Commentary

- Outright prices increase on day
- Lower-than-expected crush numbers reported by NOPA

The US soybeans market saw outright prices rise on June 15 despite lower-than-expected monthly crush data released by the National Oilseed Processors Association, and amid pressure on oil and energy markets from the US-Iran peace agreement.

Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed SOYBEX FOB New Orleans for July shipment at $448/metric ton, about $2.12/mt up from June 12. Platts assessed the basis for FOB Gulf for July shipment steady day over day at 100 cents/bushel over the July (N) soybeans futures contract.

Platts assessed the outright price for CIF New Orleans for June shipment at $439.18/mt on June 15, about $1.01/mt up from the previous business day. Platts assessed basis for CIF NOLA for June shipment fell 3 cents day over day to 76 cents/bu over the July (N) soybeans futures contract.

A trade in the CIF NOLA market for June shipment was heard at 75 cents/bu in the morning of June 15, later becoming the bid level.

The export market reported little trading activity on the day, with no bullish news, market sources said.

"Small quantities [of US soybeans] are moving to normal participants," a trader in that market said. "Nothing noteworthy though."

The US and Iran announced June 14 that an interim peace agreement had been reached, which would be signed on June 19, the day also scheduled for the reopening of the Strait of Hormuz.

The news pressured most oil and energy markets June 15, also dragging soybean oil down. However, soybean futures increased slightly, with July (N) contract going 5.75 cents up day over day to 1,119.25 cents/bu.

While some sources attributed the increase to optimism about demand returning after the reopening of the strait, others were puzzled by the movement.

"The peace agreement should help demand come to the US," a trader in the FOB Gulf market said. "They [futures] would be up more if it wasn't for that [oil and energies down]."

"I'm not sure I could see that," a trader in the CIF NOLA market said. "It doesn't make Brazil more expensive. I wouldn't expect to see any new unexpected additional soybean demand as long as Brazil is sitting on a record crop."

"Maybe some view the peace agreement as already priced into the market," the source added. "I would argue that both corn and soybeans should be lower still, if you take out the risk of the war in the Middle East."

The National Oilseed Processors Association published its monthly crush report on June 15, showing that 208.78 million bu of soybeans were crushed during May. The number was below the market's 216 million bu and S&P Global Energy's expectations of 214 million-215 million bu.

"This is potentially due to more [crushing plant] downtime than expected," crop principal analyst Aaron Gerds said. "We were surprised to see lower crush despite strong margins, but this alone has not changed our outlook much."

S&P Global Energy's crush forecast for the 2025-26 marketing year sits at 2.64 billion bu.

The US Department of Agriculture published its Grains Inspected and/or Weighed for Export weekly report, showing that 522,687 mt of soybeans were inspected during the week that ended on June 11. This amount is 110,565 mt more than the previous week, and 297,116 mt more than the same week of 2025.

About 218,249 mt went to Egypt, 136,259 mt went to China, and 56,445 mt went to Indonesia.

Platts Latin America Soybean Meal Daily Commentary

- Prices increase in Latin America
- August FOB Up River market in Argentina slows amid holiday

Platts assessed Latin America FOB soybean meal prices higher on June 15 as Chicago Board of Trade futures rose.

Argentine FOB Up River premiums for July loading were steady amid an absence of clear bids and offers. Trading activity was muted due to a national holiday on June 15.

Brazilian FOB Paranaguá premiums for July loading were unchanged throughout the day.

Farmers of soybeans from the state of Mato Grosso had committed 81.04% of the 2025-26 marketing year crop as of June 8, higher than the 76.02% seen at the same time in 2025 and higher than the five-year average of 79.06% for the period, according to the Mato Grosso Agribusiness Institute, or IMEA.

Sales from MY 2026-27 reached 18.49%, higher than 14.15% in the same period in 2025 but below the five-year average of 20.23% for the period.

The Chicago Board of Trade July (N) soybean meal contract settled at $302.00/short ton, up 70 cents/st.

Platts European Animal Feed Daily Commentary

- Dutch soybean meal market stays stable
- Spanish animal feed market turns bearish
- Corn prices range Eur215-219/mt in Spain

Northern Europe

The Dutch soybean meal market remained stable on June 15.

A broker indication showed the offer level for the August period at Eur349/metric ton and for September at Eur340/mt for locally crushed soybean meal.

A trader said the offer level for the July period was around Eur349/mt, but there were no trades heard that day.

Southern Europe

The Spanish animal feed market was bearish day over day.

A second trader offered corn ex-works Tarragona for the June/July period at around Eur 218/mt, and for the August to December period at Eur 219/mt. A third trader offered Eur219/mt for the June-July period, with a bid level heard at Eur215/mt.

A fourth trader noted the bearish sentiment in the market as buyers pull back, hoping that prices will decline further.

Platts US Distiller Grains DDGS Daily Commentary

- Seasonal demand slows market
- Lower values continue to pressure sentiment

The US dried distillers grains with solubles market opened the week on a quiet note June 15, with participants continuing to report weaker demand and lower indications across several channels.

Platts assessed CIF New Orleans DDGS barges for the June shipment period at $199/short ton on June 15, the Chicago DDGS truck market for the June delivery period was assessed at $171/st, and the South California rail market for the June delivery period was assessed at $222/st.

“Quiet start to the week,” one regional manager said.

A trader said that market indications continued to move lower. “The nominals do look down,” the trader said, while adding that logistics costs remained a key factor. “Freight is still elevated,” the trader said, though lower fuel prices could eventually provide relief. “We could start seeing it easing on that front.”

A broker said the softer tone was largely driven by seasonal summer demand patterns. “Demand has slowed a little,” the broker said. “Seasonal, so we tend to see June/July-August-September fall.”

The broker added that the market remained under pressure following the recent correction. “Definitely weaker for certain,” the broker said.

Vegetable Oils

Platts Asia Palm Oil Daily Commentary

- Malaysian palm futures decline
- India buying slows amid price disparity

The Asian palm oil market was mixed June 15, with palm oil futures on Bursa Malaysia Derivatives declining in line with lower Chinese vegetable oil futures and weaker energy prices.

The benchmark palm oil contract for September delivery on the Bursa Malaysia commodity exchange declined MR28/mt to MR4,483/mt on June 15.

The Indian market remained slow, even as prices declined, due to the persistent disparity in the domestic market.

A trade was reported throughout the day at $1,205/mt for June shipment to East Coast India.

“The disparity between the domestic and seaborne markets of $10-$20/mt, along with sufficient domestic supply, reduced buying interest from India,” an India-based trader said.

Platts assessed CPO CFR WC India price at $1,217.5/mt June 15 for June loading, unchanged day over day, while July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

Platts assessed CPO FOB Indonesia price at $1,180/mt June 15 for June loading, down $5/mt from June 12, while July shipment was $5/mt higher than June.

Platts Latin America Soybean Oil Daily Commentary

- Brazilian soybean oil FOB prices strengthen
- Argentina trading subdued for national holiday
- CBOT July soybean oil futures rise 0.12%

Brazilian soybean oil FOB markets strengthened June 15, while trading activity in Argentina remained subdued due to the national holiday in observance of the Paso a la Inmortalidad del General Martín Miguel de Güemes.

CBOT July soybean oil futures rose 0.12% day over day to settle at 74.37 cents/lb. Market participants said soybean oil futures remained relatively stable as traders continued evaluating the implications of the US Department of Agriculture's June World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates report, released June 11, alongside developments in renewable diesel demand and US biofuel policy.

Participants said favorable US crop conditions and expectations for ample global soybean supplies continued to limit upside momentum across oilseed markets, although support from renewable diesel demand expectations helped prevent a deeper correction following the recent selloff from multiyear highs.

Trading activity in Argentina's soybean oil market was largely absent June 15 due to the holiday. Market participants said commercial activity is expected to resume June 16 following the long weekend.

In Brazil, Platts assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for July loading at $1,198.65/metric ton June 15, up $4.18/mt from June 12. The basis for July loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 10 points higher at minus 2,000 points to the July (N) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Platts also assessed the soybean oil FOB Paranaguá price for August loading at $1,173.30/mt June 15, up $7.94/mt from June 12. The basis for August loading in the Paranaguá paper market was assessed 50 points higher at minus 1,950 points to the August (Q) futures at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Market participants said FOB soybean oil basis levels in Brazil continued recovering from the historically weak discounts recorded in late May and early June, although values remained below long-term averages. Traders noted that the recovery has been driven by a combination of more stable CBOT soybean oil futures and resilient physical export values.

Participants also continued monitoring developments in the CBOT July/December soybean oil spread, which remains historically elevated despite the recent correction in outright futures prices. Traders said the strength of nearby spreads continues to reflect relatively tight old-crop soybean oil supplies in the United States compared with expectations for larger new-crop availability later in the year.

At the same time, Brazil's soybean oil export market remains influenced by record soybean production and crushing activity. Brazil's National Supply Company, or Conab, currently estimates the country's 2025-26 soybean crop at a record 180.13 million mt, while the Brazilian Association of Vegetable Oil Industries projects soybean processing at a record 62.5 million mt in 2026.

Despite the abundant supply outlook, market participants said Brazil's B15 biodiesel mandate continues supporting domestic soybean oil consumption, helping absorb part of the expanding soybean oil supply and providing underlying support to physical soybean oil values.

Platts Europe Vegetable Oil Daily Commentary

- Rapeseed oil front-run drops Eur15/mt
- Sunflower oil holds steady at $1,381/mt
- US-Iran deal set to ease shipping disruptions

Rapeseed oil prices fell in the market on June 15, as expectations of a higher-yielding soybean crop in the latest USDA balance sheet increased competitive pressure.

The front run assessment – representing August, September and October – was assessed down Eur15/mt day over day at Eur1,157/mt FOB Dutch Mills. Prices for second-, third-, and fourth-run rapeseed oil remained backwardated.

A decline in the USDA rapeseed export forecast suggested that Ukraine was retaining more seed for crushing into oil and meal rather than exporting it raw.

Sunflower oil prices were steady June 15, reflecting a continued balance between low demand and low availability in the European market. Platts assessed Ukraine sunflower oil at $1,381/mt FOB Black Sea June 15, stable from June 12.

Lower soybean oil prices could further pressure European RSO and SFO markets following the completion of a US-Iran peace deal opening the Strait of Hormuz. This is expected to ease shipping disruptions and logistical blockades in the Middle East.

GLOBAL CORN WEEKLY: Prices expected to fall amid Middle East peace deal

- Asian import prices rangebound amid consistent demand
- US market focuses on weather, end-of-month acres report
- Black Sea corn bearish amid slow demand

Global corn prices fell in the origin markets of the US and South America in the week to June 12, while demand remained consistent in Asia, which supported imported prices, although further softness is expected amid the peace deal in the Middle East.

Asia

Asian corn prices were rangebound during the week. Platts, part of S&P Global Energy, assessed the feed corn CFR Northeast Asia price at $256/metric ton on June 12, amid news of higher global corn production, balanced by sustained demand in Asia and firm basis premiums.

South Korean and Philippine feed millers continued to purchase corn for the second week in a row, with the former securing four cargoes and the latter securing at least two October-arrival cargoes.

South Korea entered the November arrival window by purchasing a cargo June 12 and market participants expect further procurement of November cargoes in the week to June 19, coinciding with expectations of Taiwanese feed millers to return with a corn tender in the same week following more than a month's absence since the last tender April 27.

Asia-based participants expect prices to decline amid the Middle East peace deal, with a Singapore-based trader stating, "Now that oil prices drop, overall corn prices [are expected] to drop also."

EMEA

The Black Sea corn market weakened over the week of June 12 amid bearish demand. Limited buyers were seen in the CIF market for Turkey during the week at low levels, prompting Ukrainian sellers to lower their offers. Traders anticipate prices to drop in the week ahead, as sellers lower their offers to remain competitive in the European market amid continued low demand from Turkey.

The Spanish corn market was bearish during the week. Platts assessed EXW Corn at Eur218/mt, down Eur3/mt week over week, as offers fell, with lower FOB US prices and improved US corn expectations, according to traders and brokers. A broker said the corn market is completely quiet as buyers wait for the barley harvest to complete. "During the beginning of the week, corn offers marginally increased amid [fluctuating] exchange rates, but it came to the same level now," a trader said.

Platts assessed Ukrainian corn FOB POC at $232/mt, and Romanian and Bulgarian corn FOB CVB at $239/mt for July 10-24 loading for handy size and EXW Spain corn at Eur218/mt on June 12, for the loading period of June 12-July 12.

Latin America

South American corn prices fluctuated amid volatility in Chicago Board of Trade futures in the week ending June 12.

Argentine FOB Up River and Brazilian FOB Santos premiums rose during the week, supported by the decline in CBOT futures.

"The decline in CBOT futures strengthened premiums," said an Argentina-based broker.

The Buenos Aires Grain Exchange, BAGE, reported June 11 that the 2025-26 corn harvest in Argentina reached 43.6% as of June 10, up 3 percentage points from the previous week.

According to BAGE, the national production forecast remains unchanged at 64 million mt.

In the Brazilian domestic market, prices closed the week lower. Spot prices in Rio Verde and Maringá declined amid lower buyer bids.

Buying interest softened during the week in the Maringá region, while offer levels remained unchanged during the week, according to a broker based in the Maringá region.

"Spot deals have been trading closer to buyers' bids," the source said.

Platts assessed spot corn in Sorriso, Mato Grosso, at Real 41.9/60 kilogram on June 12, while prices in Rio Verde, Goiás, ended the week at Real 53.1/60 kg. Prices in Maringá, Parana, were at Real 61.5/60 kg.

North America

During June 8-12, US corn Platts outright prices fell, tracking CBOT, while value basis gained.

Sources reported that farmers were on the sidelines, amid limited additional freight interest.

After the June 11 WASDE report, market participants said the focus will now be on US weather and the acres report at the end of June.

In line with CERA expectations, USDA trimmed its 2025-26 (September-August) US corn used for ethanol by 25 million bushels to 5.575 billion. The cut was offset by a 25 million-bushel increase in the export forecast to 3.325 billion bushels, slightly below CERA's 3.375 billion.

The National Corn Growers Association urged maintaining the agreement and protecting an annual corn demand of 1.8 billion bushels across bulk corn, ethanol and corn equivalents for meat, with a value of $20 billion for the US economy.

Platts assessed the outright price for June shipments to New Orleans in the incoterm CIF at $193.50/mt and for July shipments at $197.55/mt on June 12. FOB Gulf for August was assessed at $203.84/mt.

Assessment Rationale

Grains

Platts Ags EMEA Wheat Daily Rationale

Platts assessed the Milling Wheat Marker at $238/metric ton on June 15, down $1/mt from the previous assessment. Russian 12.5% handysize wheat, assessed at $238/mt, was the most competitive wheat out of the three components of the Milling Wheat Marker, which also includes Ukraine 11.5%, normalized to the nearest 25 cents of $240.25/mt when adding May's quality normalization of $6.15/mt, to account for its lower protein content, and CVB 12.5% wheat assessed at $239/mt day over day. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 13-27.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Russian deepsea, 12.5% protein) down $1/mt at $238/mt on June 15, below an offer at $239/mt and above a bid at $235/mt. The structure between the first and second halves of July was assessed flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 13-27.

Platts assessed Black Sea wheat (Ukraine deepsea, 11.5% protein) unchanged at $234/mt on June 15, below an offer at $236/mt. The structure between the first and second halves of July was assessed flat. This reflects the Platts assessment window from July 13-27.

Exclusions: No market data was excluded from the June 15 Black Sea wheat assessments.
